Strategic Plan

Agency Mission

The mission of the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (“Council”) is to protect and promote the welfare of the people of Texas by ensuring that behavioral health services and social work practice are provided by qualified and competent practitioners who adhere to established professional standards. This mission is derived from the duly enacted statutes governing each regulated profession, as well as the law creating the Council, and supersedes the interest of any individual or special interest group.

Agency Philosophy

Acting in accordance with the highest standards of ethics, accountability, efficiency, and openness, the Council approaches its mission with a deep sense of purpose and responsibility, and affirms that the regulation of behavioral health services and social work practice is a public trust. The Council assumes a proactive leadership role in this regard and pledges to carry out its mission in an efficient, innovative, collaborative, and equitable manner.

The following are the key functions utilized by the Council to carry out its mission and philosophy:

1. Licensing. Establishing educational, experience, and examination requirements for licensure, and requiring renewal of licensure with an appropriate amount of continuing education.
2. Enforcement. Establishing professional standards for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, and social work, as well as investigating and enforcing compliance with the requirements of the various laws affecting each profession in Texas.
3. Providing Information. Serving as a source of information to the public, the profession, and governmental entities, as well as adhering to all mandated reporting requirements under state and federal law.

Agency Goals and Action Plan

Operational Goal #1: Develop and Maintain an Efficient Licensing Process

The primary operational goal of this new agency is to establish and maintain educational, experience, and examination requirements for licensure and require biennial renewal of licensure with an appropriate amount of continuing education in accordance with the best practices suggested by the professions.

The objective behind this goal is to protect the public by maintaining a quality program of examination and licensure to ensure the initial and continuing professional character and competence of providers within the mental health professions regulated by the agency.

Specific Action Items Necessary in Achieving Goal

Encourage Employee Engagement, Innovation, and Retention. The efficiency and effectiveness of an agency can be determined to a large extent by the individuals employed and the work environment within the agency. Employees who are engaged have an investment in the organization and are willing to contribute towards making improvements where possible. Furthermore, an appropriate work environment should not only encourage engagement and innovation, but also ensure a safe, non-harassing environment with ethical abiding employees who treat each other with fairness and respect. Both of these factors are key to ensuring the Council is able to carry out its operational goal of developing and maintaining an efficient licensing process.

To that end, the Council is in the process of hiring employees willing to not only meet the challenge of working in a new state agency, but to take an active role and interest in the growth of the Council into a well-established and successful agency. The Council is also in the process of developing its personnel policies and procedures to ensure a work environment that is both safe and fosters innovation and efficiency.

The Council intends to have the hiring process and development of its personnel policies and procedures complete on or before September 1, 2020. Once the hiring process and development of personnel policies and procedures is complete, it will be incumbent upon agency leadership to continue with proactive management and ongoing communication with the employees to ensure continued success.

Continue Reviewing and Refining Rules to Achieve Maximum Efficiency. The Council commits to continuing to explore possible rule changes needed to ensure administrative consistency, address good governance concerns, and guard against anticompetitive impacts to the marketplace. In doing so, the Council and its member boards can thereby give greater effect to both the express intent and spirit behind H.B. 1501 (86th Legislature) and Sunset management actions, while also achieving greater administrative efficiency and reduction in costs to both the state, applicants, and licensees.

Expanded Use of Technology Solutions. Public sector organizations generally look to IT to provide value as a foundational business component of providing quality services to the citizens they serve and the employees they support. Managing IT within state government requires balancing traditional daily operations, citizen expectations, efficiency measures, and security against budget constraints. In a constantly changing technology environment, agencies have to be cost efficient, yet innovative; measured, yet responsive; operational, yet visionary.

The Council recognizes that it must adapt planning and governance processes to the emerging world of 24/7 access to government to meet the needs of our mobile citizenry and intends to take advantage of advancements in technology, programming, and third-party services, wherever feasible, to provide the public with improved responsiveness and accessibility.

By way of example, the Council has proposed rules requiring all license renewals go through its online licensing system and anticipates these rules will become effective September 1, 2020; the Council will no longer accept paper-renewal forms after September 1, 2020. Furthermore, the Council intends to migrate its file servers and domain controllers to the state data center effective September 1st, rather than maintaining physical or virtual servers in-house. This transition, together the management of the Council's database by the Health Professions Council, will provide enhanced IT security for the Council's data and IT functions. Lastly, the Council is developing its website to provide licensees, applicants, and members of the public alike, with helpful and concise information regarding licensure, complaints, council and board information, forms and publications, public information, as well as links to the relevant laws.

While the Council intends to launch its website on or before June 16, 2020, the Council also recognizes the ongoing need to continually adapt and enhance the information and services accessible through the website. As a result, the Council commits to continually review and update its website to ensure up-to-date information, transparency, and excellent customer service.

Purchasing and Contract Management Training. The Council, having entered into or in anticipation of entering into contracts with other state agencies, has required the employee(s) serving as contract managers for the agency, to undergo the purchasing and contract management training required by Chapter 656 of the Government Code. The Council's Chief Financial Officer has taken the Basic Public Purchaser course and the Contract Developer course and is now a Certified Texas Contract Developer.

Description of How Goal Supports Statewide Objectives

The Council's licensing function supports each of the following statewide objectives:

1. Accountable to tax and fee payers of Texas.
2. Efficient by producing maximum results with no waste of taxpayer funds and by identifying any function or provision considered redundant or not cost-effective.
3. Effective by successfully fulfilling core functions, achieving performance measures, and implementing plans to continuously improve.
4. Attentive to providing excellent customer service.

5. Transparent such that agency actions can be understood by any Texan.

First and foremost, the Council's licensing functions are accountable to the tax and fee payers of Texas not only through the biennial legislative process, but also by virtue of the accessible nature of agency officials and staff, the Sunset Review Process, the rule review processes mandated by Sections 2001.032 and .039 of the Government Code, the right to petition for rulemaking, the Council's unique rulemaking process, and the right to seek review of a denial of licensure at SOAH. The Council also remains accountable by virtue of an individual's right to petition both state and federal courts for any relief allowed under law.

Second, the Council achieves maximum results in its licensing function while maintaining quantifiable accountability and no waste of taxpayer funds through the performance measures below:

Outcome Measures:

- Percent of Licensees with No Recent Violations

Output Measures:

- Number of New Licenses Issued to Individuals
- Number of Licenses Renewed (Individuals)

Efficiency Measures:

- Average Time to Process Applications

Explanatory Measures:

- Total Number of Individuals Licensed

Third, the Council continually looks for ways to improve efficiencies within its licensing function. By way of example, the Council has transitioned its licensees to online renewals and minimizes costs taxpayers by adopting paperless operations wherever feasible.

Lastly, the Council provides clear direction in its rules, website, and application materials for individuals seeking licensure and members of the general public. A good measure of the Council's transparency and customer service can also be found in its reports on customer service once they are published.

Other Relevant Considerations

Texas, the second most populous state, was among the nation's fastest-growing states between 2000 and 2010, with an estimated increase of over 15% as reported by the U.S. Census Bureau. Between 2020 and 2027, the resident population of Texas is projected to increase by a staggering 10.5%.

According to the 2017-2022 Texas State Health Plan published by the Statewide Health Coordinating Council (SHCC):

Nationally, 46.4% of adults experience mental illness in their lifetime and 26.2% of adults experience mental illness annually. On an annual basis, 5.8% of adults in the US experience a serious mental illness (Hogg Foundation for Mental Health, 2011). Moreover, the aging of the US population requires behavioral health services with special knowledge and skills (Hoge, Stuart, Morris, Flaherty, Paris, & Goplerud, 2013).

The plan goes on to say that:

Nationwide, 39 percent of persons with mental illness and 10.8 percent of persons with substance abuse issues receive the mental health treatment they need (Hoge, et al., 2013). A national study conducted by the Center for Studying Health System Change found that 66.8 percent of primary care physicians were unable to refer their patients to high quality mental health specialists. This is a far higher rate of unavailability than those seen for other specialty referrals, nonemergency hospital admissions, or high quality imaging services (between 17 percent and 34 percent). The study attributed unavailability to either inadequate health insurance coverage or a shortage of mental health providers (Cunningham, 2009).

Workforce-based explanations for a lack of mental health and substance abuse providers at-large generally focus on insufficient numbers of mental health providers, high turnover (a national average of 18.5 percent annually), low compensation, minimal diversity, and the need for accelerated adoption of new evidence-based treatments (Hoge, et al., 2013).

While it is difficult to accurately estimate the number of people who receive behavioral health services in this state due to confidentiality laws, we do know that licensees of this Council provide services to individuals in many venues, including public schools, private practice, organizational settings, court proceedings, as well as in many governmental facilities.

We also know that despite the following increases in licensee numbers, Texas still has fewer behavioral health providers than the national average:¹

Licensed Professional Counselors:

- 34.8% increase since 2010 and a 95.2% increase since 2005

Licensed Marriage and Family Therapists:

- 12.9% increase since 2010 and a 15.2% increase since 2005

Licensed Psychologists and Specialist in School Psychology:

- 13.8% increase since 2010 and a 95.2% increase since 2005

- 16.5% increase since 2010 and a 33.6% increase since 2005

Licensed Social Workers and Clinical Social Workers:

- 28.6% increase since 2010 and a 39.1% increase since 2005
- 29.2% increase since 2010 and a 62.9% increase since 2004

Furthermore, according to the U.S. Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics, employment of behavioral health providers is expected to be much faster than the average for all occupations through 2028.

Licensed Professional Counselors:

Employment of substance abuse, behavioral disorder, and mental health counselors is projected to grow 22 percent from 2018 to 2028, much faster than the average for all occupations. Employment growth is expected as people continue to seek addiction and mental health counseling.²

Licensed Marriage and Family Therapists:

Employment of marriage and family therapists is projected to grow 22 percent from 2018 to 2028, much faster than the average for all occupations. Growth is expected due to an increasing use of teams for treatment, in which these therapists work with other counselors to address patients' needs.³

Licensed Psychologists:

Employment of psychologists is projected to grow 14 percent from 2018 to 2028, much faster than the average for all occupations. Job prospects should be best for those who have a doctoral degree in an applied specialty.⁴

Licensed Social Workers and Clinical Social Workers:

Overall employment of social workers is projected to grow 11 percent from 2018 to 2028, much faster than the average for all occupations. Employment growth will be driven by increased demand for healthcare and social services, but will vary by specialization.⁵

Thus, while the number of providers licensed by this agency has increased steadily over the years, and is expected to continue growing according to federal government projections, demand is also expected to continue exceeding supply.

Though the Council’s mission emphasizes public safety through establishing appropriate licensing standards, together with oversight and discipline of incompetent or unsafe practitioners, the Council maintains a vigilant watch over the dynamic and changing landscape of behavioral health care, and is aware of the serious shortage of mental health care providers in this state. And while the Council is ill-equipped or unable to remediate this provider shortage on its own, it will continue working to identify steps to increase efficiencies in the licensure process and increase the number of newly licensed providers available to the citizenry.

Operational Goal #2: Develop and Maintain an Efficient Enforcement Process

A second, yet equally important operational goal of the Council is enforcement of the standards for the ethical practice of marriage and family therapy, counseling, psychology, and social work, as well as the enforcement of related laws governing the delivery of behavioral health services in Texas.

The objective behind this goal is to protect the public by investigating complaints and monitoring compliance with the various laws governing the practice of marriage and family therapy, counseling, psychology, and social work in Texas, and taking action to limit, restrict, or revoke the authority to practice those disciplines if it is determined that a licensee poses a danger to the public.

Specific Action Items Necessary in Achieving Goal

For purposes of brevity and to avoid undue repetition, the Council hereby incorporates by reference, as if set forth verbatim herein, its action items found under Operational Goal #1.

Description of How Goal Supports Statewide Objectives

The Council’s enforcement function supports each of the following statewide objectives:

1. Accountable to tax and fee payers of Texas.
2. Efficient by producing maximum results with no waste of taxpayer funds and by identifying any function or provision considered redundant or not cost-effective.
3. Effective by successfully fulfilling core functions, achieving performance measures, and implementing plans to continuously improve.
4. Attentive to providing excellent customer service.
5. Transparent such that agency actions can be understood by any Texan.

First and foremost, the Council’s enforcement functions are accountable to the tax and fee payers of Texas not only through the biennial legislative process, but also by virtue of the accessible nature of agency officials and staff, Sunset Review Process, the rule review processes mandated by Sections 2001.032 and .039 of the Government Code, the right to petition for rulemaking, the Council’s unique rulemaking process, the right to a public hearing at SOAH in a contested case, and the right to seek review by a state court of any sanction imposed by the Council. The Council also remains accountable by virtue of an individual's right to petition both state and federal courts for any relief allowed under law.

Second, the Council achieves maximum results in its enforcement function while maintaining quantifiable accountability and no waste of taxpayer funds through the performance measures below:

Outcome Measures:

- Percent of Complaints Resulting in Disciplinary Action
- Recidivism Rate for Those Receiving Disciplinary Action
- Percent of Complaints Resolved within Six Months

Output Measures:

- Number of Complaints Resolved
- Number of Complaints Pending

Efficiency Measures:

- Average Time for Complaint Resolution

Explanatory Measures:

- Number of Jurisdictional Complaints Received

Third, the Council continually looks for ways to improve efficiencies within its enforcement function. By way of example, the Council has developed a standardized complaint process for use in investigations which is intended to also reduce the significant backlog of complaints pending against licensed professional counselors and social workers.

Lastly, the Council provides clear direction in its rules, website, and enforcement materials for individuals seeking to file or respond to a complaint. A good measure of the Council's transparency and customer service can also be found in its reports on customer service once they are published.

Operational Goal #3: Providing Information in a Timely and Efficient Manner

A third operational goal of this agency is providing information to the public, the profession, and governmental entities, as well as adhering to all mandated reporting requirements under state and federal law.

The objective behind this goal is to protect the public by serving as a resource for individuals or entities inquiring about the marriage and family therapy, counseling, psychology, or social work professions in general, as well as individual licensees. This objective also extends to providing information to lawmakers, officials, and other governmental entities when requested, to assist them in carrying out important governmental functions.

Specific Action Items Necessary in Achieving Goal

For purposes of brevity and to avoid undue repetition, the Council hereby incorporates by reference, as if set forth verbatim herein, its action items found under Operational Goal #1.

Description of How Goal Supports Statewide Objectives

The Council's information resource functions support each of the following statewide objectives:

1. Accountable to tax and fee payers of Texas.
2. Efficient by producing maximum results with no waste of taxpayer funds and by identifying any function or provision considered redundant or not cost-effective.
3. Effective by successfully fulfilling core functions, achieving performance measures, and implementing plans to continuously improve.
4. Attentive to providing excellent customer service.
5. Transparent such that agency actions can be understood by any Texan.

The Council's information resource functions are accountable to the tax and fee payers of Texas not only through the biennial legislative process, but also by virtue of the accessible nature of agency officials and staff, Sunset Review Process, the rule review processes mandated by Sections 2001.032 and .039 of the Government Code, and the Council's unique rulemaking process. Furthermore, Chapter 507 of the Occupations Code and the Public Information Act, as well as several other transparency laws applicable to the Council, grant broad access to virtually all agency records and information at rates established by the Office of the Attorney General. The Council also remains accountable by virtue of an individual's right to petition both state and federal courts for any relief allowed under law.

The Council provides clear direction in its rules and on its website about the information it maintains that is publicly available. A good measure of the Council's effectiveness in carrying out this operational goal can be found in its reports on customer service, and by reviewing the reports submitted by the Council to the OAG Open Records Reporting Portal, the NPDB, and the Office of the Attorney General, HB300 Reporting Portal.

Redundancies and Impediments

The Council’s functions do not overlap or duplicate those of another state or federal agency, and no other agency stands equipped to regulate the professions of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work given the long standing history and institutional knowledge acquired by this agency through its member boards.

Amend Tex. Occ. Code Ann. §507.206(a) to include the Council’s General Counsel as one of the individuals who may issue a subpoena on behalf of the agency.	Attorneys already have authority to issue subpoenas in civil litigation pursuant to Tex. R. Civ. P. 176, and given that the Council’s General Counsel is trusted to render legal advice to the Council, it only seems reasonable to entrust that same individual with the power to issue a subpoena on behalf of the Council in disciplinary proceedings.
Tex. Health and Safety Code Ann. §611.0045(b)	HIPAA, 45 C.F.R. §164.524(a)(3)(i), sets forth a higher standard for withholding information from a patient than Tex. Such a change would bring state law into alignment with federal healthcare privacy laws, and avoid confusion by the public and healthcare providers in this state.

Such a change would maintain governmental transparency while preserving important open-meeting protections, increase public participation in meetings, reduce personal and economic burdens on board and council members by reducing time away from their families and jobs, and significantly decrease travel costs for agencies.

Such a change will ensure those applicants who have training or experience that is, either in whole or in part, substantially equal to 3,000 hours of supervised experience, are not denied licensure, but rather able to provide much-needed counseling services to the public.

SCHEDULE B

Strategic Plan

Performance Measure Definitions

LICENSING STRATEGY

OUTCOME MEASURE

(1) Percent of Licensees with No Recent Violations

Short Definition: The percent of the total number of individuals holding a license at any point during the current reporting period or preceding two years, who have not incurred a violation within that same time period.

Purpose/Importance: Licensing individuals helps ensure that practitioners meet legal standards for professional education and practice which is a primary agency goal. This measure is important because it indicates how effectively the agency's activities deter violations of professional standards established by statute and rule.

Source/Collection of Data: This measure is calculated from reports generated from the agency's licensing/enforcement system by the Chief Financial Officer which show the names of the persons who have received disciplinary action from the Board for the past three years. The total number of licensees is obtained from the system at the end of the reporting period by the Chief Financial Officer.

Method of Calculation: The total number of individuals holding a license at any point during the current reporting period or preceding two years, who have not incurred a violation within that same time period divided by the total number of individuals currently licensed by the agency. The numerator for this measure is calculated by subtracting the total number of licensees with violations during the three-year period from the total number of licensees at the end of the reporting period. The denominator is the total number of licensees at the end of the reporting period. The result is multiplied by 100 to achieve a percentage.

Data Limitations: The agency has no control over the number of individuals who will incur violations in any given year. The agency has no control over the number of individuals who meet the requirements for licensure and or licensees who choose to renew their licenses each year.

Calculation Type: Non-cumulative.

New Measure: No

Desired Performance: Higher than target.

OUTPUT MEASURES

(1) Number of New Licenses Issued to Individuals

Short Definition: The number of licenses issued to individuals during the reporting period.

Purpose/Importance: A successful licensing structure must ensure that legal standards for professional education and practice are met prior to licensure. This measure is a primary workload indicator which is intended to show the number of persons who were documented to have successfully met all licensure criteria established by statute and rule as verified by the agency during the reporting period.

Source/Collection of Data: This measure is calculated by the Chief Financial Officer using reports obtained from the agency's licensing system which list the number of individuals receiving new licenses by type of license during the reporting period. These reports are generated after the end of the reporting period. The system includes on the reports lists of only those persons who received licenses during the reporting period. The system calculates the totals in each report. The totals are then manually added.

Method of Calculation: This measure counts the total number of licenses issued to individuals during the reporting period, regardless of when the application was originally received. Only new licenses are counted. Licensees who upgrade to a new license type, but keep their current license number, are also counted as new.

Data Limitations: The agency cannot predict how many individuals will apply to become licensed, meet the qualifications and pass the exam(s) in any given quarter. There are other uncontrollable variables such as the timing of the receipt of an application, the Board meeting dates, and the exam dates which also factor into the number of licenses that will actually be issued during a quarter.

Calculation Type: Cumulative

New Measure: No

Desired Performance: Higher than target.

(2) Number of Licenses Renewed (Individuals)

Short Definition: The number of licensed individuals who renewed their license during the current reporting period.

Purpose/Importance: Licensure renewal is intended to ensure that persons who want to continue to practice in their respective profession satisfy current legal standards established by statute and rule for professional education and practice. This measure is intended to show the number of licenses that were issued during the reporting period to individuals who currently held a valid license.

Source/Collection of Data: This measure is calculated by the Chief Financial Officer using a report which is generated from the agency's licensing system. This report gives the number of renewals that are issued during the reporting period. The report is generated after the close of the reporting period.

Method of Calculation: This measure is calculated by querying the agency's licensing database to produce the report of the total number of renewals which have been issued during the reporting period. If a licensee holds more than one type of license and renews both, they are counted as two renewals. Licensees who renew their Inactive status do not count in this calculation.

Data Limitations: None.

Calculation Type: Cumulative

New Measure: No

Desired Performance: Higher than target.

EFFICIENCY MEASURES

(1) Average Time to Process Applications

Short Definition: The average time it takes to process a licensure application from date received to date approved to take required exams, or to license issuance date, whichever comes first.

Purpose/Importance: This measure shows the agency's efficiency in processing a licensing application.

Source/Collection of Data: The Chief Financial Officer generates two reports from the licensing system. The first one lists the initial applications approved during the reporting period, the dates they were received and the dates they were approved. The second one lists the licenses issued during the reporting period, the dates the initial applications were received and the dates the licenses were issued.

Method of Calculation: The first report automatically calculates the number of calendar days that elapsed from receipt of an application to the date of application approval, and then sums for all applications approved. The second report automatically calculates the number of calendar days that elapsed from receipt of an application to the license issuance date, and then sums for all licenses issued. The total number of days from both reports are manually added together to determine the numerator, and the denominator is determined by manually adding together the total number of applications approved from the first report and the total number of licenses issued from the second report. The numerator is then divided by the denominator to achieve an average.

Data Limitations: None

Calculation Type: Non-cumulative

New Measure: Yes

Desired Performance: Lower then target.

EXPLANATORY MEASURES

(1) Total Number of Individuals Licensed

Short Definition: Total number of individuals licensed at the end of the reporting period.

Purpose/Importance: The measure shows the total number of individual licenses currently issued which indicates the size of one of the agency's primary constituencies.

Source/Collection of Data: The Chief Financial Officer generates a report from the licensing system which provides the total, unduplicated number of individuals who hold licenses from this agency on the date that the report is run after the end of the reporting period.

Method of Calculation: The total unduplicated number of individuals licensed that is stored in the licensing database by the agency at the end of the reporting period. An individual who holds more than one license is counted only once. Individuals on inactive status are not included in the calculation for this measure.

Data Limitations: This information cannot be recaptured at a later time because the database changes daily and does not maintain a beyond one-day history file of current licenses.

Calculation Type: Non-cumulative

New Measure: No

ENFORCEMENT STRATEGY

OUTCOME MEASURES

(1) Percent of Complaints Resulting in Disciplinary Action

Short Definition: Percent of complaints which were resolved during the reporting period that resulted in disciplinary action.

Purpose/Importance: This measure is intended to show the extent to which the agency exercises its disciplinary authority in proportion to the number of complaints resolved. It is important that both the public and licensees have an expectation that the agency will work to ensure fair and effective enforcement of the act and this measure seeks to indicate agency responsiveness to this expectation.

Source/Collection of Data: The Chief Financial Officer generates reports from the licensing/enforcement system which list the total number of complaints resolved by type of resolution during the reporting period.

Method of Calculation: The total number of complaints resolved during the reporting period that resulted in disciplinary action (numerator) is divided by the total number of complaints resolved during the reporting period (denominator). The result should be multiplied by 100 to achieve a percentage. Disciplinary action includes agreed orders, reprimands, suspensions, probation, revocation, and administrative fines on which the Board has acted.

Data Limitations: The agency has no control over the content of the complaints filed against licensees. This measure does not take into account complaints where there has been no violations or when there are multiple complaints for the same offense.

Additionally, for cases that are referred to SOAH, the Board cannot assign disciplinary action if the administrative law judge does not recommend disciplinary action, except in certain limited circumstances.

Calculation Type: Non-cumulative

New Measure: No

Desired Performance: Lower than target.

(2) Recidivism Rate for Those Receiving Disciplinary Action

Short Definition: The number of repeat offenders at the end of the reporting period as a percentage of all offenders during the most recent three-year period.

Purpose/Importance: The measure is intended to show how effectively the agency enforces its regulatory requirements and prohibitions. It is important that the agency enforce its act and rules strictly enough to ensure consumers are protected from unsafe, incompetent and unethical practice by the registered or licensed professional.

Source/Collection of Data: The Chief Financial Officer uses previous performance report data to obtain the number of individuals receiving disciplinary actions during the current and preceding two fiscal years. The Chief Financial Officer generates a report from the licensing/enforcement system that encompasses the current and preceding two fiscal years to list by name those licensees who have received disciplinary action. She then does a manual scan to see if any licensee has had more than one disciplinary action during this three year period.

Method of Calculation: The number of individuals against whom two or more disciplinary actions were taken by the Board within the current and preceding two fiscal years (numerator) is divided by the total number of individuals receiving disciplinary actions within the current and preceding two fiscal years (denominator). The result should be multiplied by 100 to achieve a percentage.

Data Limitations: None.

Calculation Type: Non-cumulative

New Measure: No

Desired Performance: Lower than target.

(3) Percent of Complaints Resolved within Six Months

Short Definition: The percent of complaints resolved during the reporting period, that were resolved within a six month period from the time they were initially received by the agency.

Purpose/Importance: The measure is intended to show the percentage of complaints which are resolved within a reasonable period of time. It is important to ensure the swift enforcement of the Psychologists' Licensing Act, which is an agency goal.

Source/Collection of Data: The Chief Financial Officer obtains a report from the licensing/enforcement system which includes all the complaints resolved during the reporting period, the date they were received and the date they were resolved.

Method of Calculation: The report automatically calculates the number of days it took to resolve the complaint. The Chief Financial Officer manually counts those complaints that were resolved in 180 days or less from this report. That number (numerator) is divided by the total number of complaints resolved during the reporting period (denominator). The result should be multiplied by 100 to achieve a percentage.

Data Limitations: The agency has less control over the time required to resolve cases that are referred to SOAH for resolution. Also, the agency has no control over the complexity of the complaints it receives, which significantly impacts the length of the investigations.

Calculation Type: Non-cumulative

New Measure: No

Desired Performance: Higher than target.

OUTPUT MEASURE

(1) Number of Complaints Resolved

Short Definition: The total number of complaints resolved during the reporting period.

Purpose/Importance: The measure shows the workload associated with resolving complaints.

Source/Collection of Data: The Chief Financial Officer obtains a report from the licensing/enforcement system which lists the complaints resolved by resolution type during the reporting period.

Method of Calculation: The report provides the number of complaints resolved. The number of complaints resolved includes determinations that a violation did not occur. A complaint that after preliminary investigation is determined to be non-jurisdictional is not a resolved complaint.

Data Limitations: The agency cannot control the type or complexity of the complaints it receives. The more complex complaints require more investigation time and therefore fewer complaints may be resolved during any given time period.

Calculation Type: Cumulative

New Measure: No

Desired Performance: Higher than target.

(2) Number of Complaints Pending

Short Definition: The total number of complaints received that have not completed the investigative and/or adjudication process.

Purpose/Importance: This measure will provide the agency with the number of outstanding complaints.

Source/Collection of Data: The Chief Financial Officer obtains a report from the licensing/enforcement system which lists the complaints open, or pending, as of the last day of the reporting period.

Method of Calculation: This report provides the number of complaints pending. This report can be sorted by date received, by classification or by current status of complaint.

Data Limitations: The agency cannot control the type or complexity of the complaints it receives. The more complex complaints require more investigation time and therefore fewer complaints may be resolved during any given time period, thereby increasing the number of complaints pending.

Calculation Type: Non-Cumulative

New Measure: Yes

Desired Performance: Lower than target.

EFFICIENCY MEASURES

(1) Average Time for Complaint Resolution

Short Definition: The average length of time to resolve a complaint for all complaints resolved during the reporting period.

Purpose/Importance: The measure shows the agency's efficiency in resolving complaints.

Source/Collection of Data: The Chief Financial Officer generates a report from the licensing/enforcement system which lists the complaints resolved during the reporting period, the dates they were received and the dates they were resolved.

Method of Calculation: This report automatically calculates the number of calendar days per complaint resolved that elapsed from receipt of a request for agency intervention to the date of final disposition of the complaint by the Board, and then sums for all complaints resolved. This number (numerator) is divided by the number of complaints resolved during the reporting period (denominator). The calculation excludes complaints determined to be non-jurisdictional of the agency's statutory responsibilities.

Data Limitations: The agency cannot control the time to resolve those cases which it has to refer to SOAH for resolution. SOAH sets its own schedules and the schedules of the responding attorneys for the licensees must be accommodated as well. Also, the agency cannot control the type or complexity of the cases it receives. The more complex complaints require more investigation and therefore take longer to resolve.

Calculation Type: Non-cumulative

New Measure: No

Desired Performance: Lower than target.

EXPLANATORY MEASURE

(1) Number of Jurisdictional Complaints Received

Short Definition: The total number of complaints received during the reporting period which are within the agency's jurisdiction of statutory responsibility.

Purpose/Importance: The measure shows the number of jurisdictional complaints which helps determine agency workload.

Source/Collection of Data: The Chief Financial Officer generates a report from the licensing/enforcement system which lists all jurisdictional complaints received during the time period.

Method of Calculation: The agency sums the total number of complaints received only relative to their jurisdiction. It also keeps track of the total number of complaints that are not in its jurisdiction but does not use that figure in its calculation.

Data Limitations: The agency cannot control the number of complaints nor the type of complaints that it receives.

Calculation Type: Cumulative

New Measure: No

Re: Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (510)
HUB Compliance Plan Mandated by Art. IX, Section 7.07 Historically Underutilized Business Policy Compliance of Tex. H.B. 1, 86th Leg., R.S. (2019).

To Whom It May Concern:

In accordance with Art. IX, Section 7.07 Historically Underutilized Business Policy Compliance of Tex. H.B. 1, 86th Leg., R.S. (2019), the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council ("Council") hereby submits this report on its compliance and plan for maintaining future compliance with Government Code, §2161.123.

The Council is unable to show any information as evidence of its efforts to comply with HUB goals for fiscal years 2018 or 2019 because the agency did not exist until September 1, 2019. See H.B. 1501, 86th Leg., R.S. (2019).

The Council's HUB policy is responsive to the Sec. 7.07 (a)(1) and (a)(3)(E)-(F) and requires that the Council purchase commodities and other services from HUB vendors in specified percentages¹. The percentages are adjusted annually based upon the agency's performance during the prior year and anticipated needs. According to Council policy, the agency will attempt to obtain at least three bids, including a minimum of two bids from HUBs, on all commodity purchases in excess of $5,000. The vast majority of agency purchases however, involve commodities or IT services from set-aside vendors or DIR. Additionally, agency expenditures for other services include such things as contracts with licensees who serve as consultants or professional reviewers for the agency. Given the highly particularized nature of these services, it is often difficult to secure the services from a HUB vendor.

The Council refers to the 2009 Texas Disparity Study conducted by the Comptroller of Public Accounts, Texas Procurement and Support Services Division (TPASS) for the information requested in Sec. 7.07

(a)(3)(A)-(D). The findings and results from 2009 Disparity Study are fully incorporated herein for all pertinent purposes, as if set forth verbatim herein. The activities stated in Sec. 7.07 (3)(A)-(D) are activities associated with conducting a disparity study. These reporting requirements were also included in Rider 18, from the previous legislative session. TPASS addressed these reporting activities in its response to the State Auditor's Office (SAO) Report No. 15-006, October 2014, Page 83-84 (see excerpt below). The Council is in agreement with TPASS' statement and furthermore notes, the agency has not been appropriated any funds to conduct future disparity study activities nor does the agency currently have the expertise, information required, or resources to sufficiently conduct these activities.

C. We did not include Items (a) through (d) of Rider 18 in the assessment instrument. This decision was based on the fact that state agencies and institutions of higher education neither have sufficient resources nor the required information to perform quarterly tasks identified in items (a) through (d). Conducting items (a), (b), and (c) requires access to "Availability" data. In that respect, one must have an exhaustive list of all Ready, Willing, and Able minority (not limited to HUB vendors) and non-Minority vendors in Texas to be able to perform those tasks. Conducting "statistical disparities by race, ethnicity, and gender" in "firms earning" and "in the area of utilization of women-and minority owned firms" and "in commercial construction" is a very complex task which requires a high level of statistical expertise and collection of relevant data through surveys and interviews, which would be nearly impossible to conduct on a quarterly basis. Likewise, item (d), which requires an analysis of "anecdotal testimony of disparate treatment ... [of] business owners," is a lengthy and costly process and practically impossible to conduct on a quarterly basis. Anecdotal data for recording "disparate treatment as presented by business owners" must be collected through public hearings, focus groups, and statewide surveys of business owners. The process of collecting anecdotal testimonies is often lengthy and extremely costly, and it requires a high level of expertise and resources. These tasks are commonly performed when conducting a disparity study and may take a year or longer to complete. In that respect, items (a), (b), (c), and (d) listed in Rider 18 can be performed by conducting a new statewide Disparity Study or updating the Texas Disparity Study-2009, which we already have underway.

The Council, by and through its HUB policy and goals, will continue to make good faith efforts to meet its goals established under Tex. Gov't Code Ann. §261.123(d)(5) for increasing its use of historically underutilized businesses.

Should you have any questions or concerns regarding this report, please do not hesitate to contact either myself or Ms. Jennifer Noack, the Council's Chief Financial Officer, at 512-305-7700.

Darrel D. Spinks

WORKFORCE PLAN

Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council June 2020

Overview

History:

The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (“Council”) was created by H.B. 1501 2019 by the 86th Legislature. The enabling legislation for the Council is found in Chapter 507 of the Occupations Code.

Mission:

The mission of the Council is to protect and promote the welfare of the people of Texas by ensuring that behavioral health services and social work practice are provided by qualified and competent practitioners who adhere to established professional standards. This mission is derived from the duly enacted statutes governing each regulated profession, as well as the law creating the Council, and supersedes the interest of any individual or special interest group.

The Council accomplishes this mission through its regulation of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, and social work by:

- ❑ Establishing educational, experience, examination, and continuing education requirements;
- ❑ Adopting professional standards for the practice of each profession;
- ❑ Investigating and enforcing compliance with the requirements of the statutes and rules governing each profession; and
- ❑ Serving as a source of information to the public, the professions, and governmental entities.

Goals and Objectives:

Licensure:

Objective: Ensure that practitioners meet required competency standards through 2025

Strategy: To operate a quality licensure program through an efficient and cost effective program of licensure, including education, experience, and examination requirements, continuing education requirements and renewal requirements.

Strategy: Provide for the processing of occupational license, registration, or permit fees through Texas.gov.

Enforcement and Laws and Rules:

Objective: Ensure that all practitioners comply with established law and rules through 2025.

Strategy: Operate a quality investigations/enforcement program in response to complaints concerning marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, and social work practice consistent with the due process laws of Texas, in a timely manner and with a focus during enforcement on rehabilitation of the licensed provider.

Business Functions:

The Council is charged with regulating the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, and social work in the State of Texas. The Council reviews applications for licensure in accordance with its own rules and Chapters 501, 502, 503, 505, and 507 of the Occupations Code. The Council administers the jurisprudence examinations for each profession and approves most applicants to sit for the national examinations. There are 10 types of licensure available through the Council, excluding temporary and provisional licenses: Licensed Marriage and Family Therapist, LMFT Associate, Licensed Professional Counselor, LPC Intern, Licensed Psychological Associate, Licensed Psychologist, Licensed Specialist in School Psychology, Licensed Baccalaureate Social Worker, Licensed Master Social Worker, and Licensed Clinical Social Worker.

The Council investigates complaints and resolves them either by dismissal or disciplinary action. Disciplinary action ranging from reprimand to revocation is usually attained by agreed order.

The Council provides information about its functions and licensees to various segments of the public including insurance companies, health maintenance organizations, and individual consumers. The agency's website has become its primary means of conveying information to its licensees, as well as to all other entities seeking information about the Council and its operations.

Anticipated Changes to Mission, Strategies, and Goals for the Next Five Years:

The Council does not anticipate changes to its mission or strategic goals, objective, or strategies for the next five years, but does anticipate changes to its rules, policies, procedures, and workforce as a natural consequence to the evolving circumstances faced by a new agency.

Factors Expected to Result in Changes to the Agency:

Key economic, environmental, and other factors that may result in changes at the agency within the next five years:

- ❑ Potential for staff turnover if compensation packages do not remain competitive with other agencies or the private sector, or do not keep pace with cost-of-living increases;
- ❑ Additional requirements and reporting mandated by the legislature or other state or federal officials;
- ❑ Increasing demands on the agency and staff due to a greater need for more behavioral health providers within the state;
- ❑ Conscious and deliberate efforts by the Council and agency leadership to continually reassess agency operations, rulemaking, communications, etc., in an effort to improve the delivery of services to the public;
- ❑ Information technology increasingly used by the agency and other entities with which the agency interfaces;

- ❑ Significant reductions in state revenue projected by the Comptroller of Public Accounts;
- ❑ Customers demanding more timely services and greater access to agency functions and information; and
- ❑ Static funding for state agencies not identified as top priorities for state funding.

Supply Analysis

Current Workforce Analysis

Classified, Exempt, and Temporary Workers

The Council has authorization for a total of 64 classified employees as of September 1, 2019, but has only been appropriated funding for one 1 FTE through August 31, 2020 – a Director IV who serves as the Executive Director for the agency. The remaining 63 positions are vacant, but offers of employment have been extended for at least 36 of those positions.

Percentage of Workforce Eligible to Retire:

Total Agency Turnover Rate:

No employee turnover information is available for this agency.

Projected Employee Turnover Rate During the Next Five Years:

The Council, having only been created as of September 1, 2019, cannot determine with any reasonable degree of certainty the turnover rate for staff within the next five years. However, the Council would estimate, based upon the classified employee turnover rates for the Texas State Board of Examiners of Psychologists¹ and the Texas State Board of Dental Examiners², that its turnover rate would fall somewhere between 7.7% and 11.6%, well below the statewide average of 20.3 percent.

Workforce Skills Critical to the Mission and Goals of the Council:

All agency staff must be proficient in the use of computers and other standard office equipment (e.g., copiers, scanners, fax machines), as well as typical software programs and suites used in office environments. Examples include Microsoft Office Suite, Adobe, Gmail, etc. Additionally, all agency staff must have excellent customer service skills because all staff are required in some way, to interact with stakeholders and members of the public which necessitates the ability to appreciate diversity and how it affects business processes.

Workforce Allocation:

See attached organizational chart.

Demand Analysis

Future Workforce Analysis

Expected Changes to the Workforce:

The Council anticipates changes to its future workforce due to the following factors.

- ❑ The trend of the legislature and other entities to place new mandates on the agency which increases the workload on staff.
- ❑ The current and projected need for more behavioral health practitioners due to the projected increase of the total population in the state.
- ❑ Increasing numbers of employees becoming eligible for retirement.
- ❑ Increasing use of automated or online technologies to enhance or improve agency efficiencies and public access.
- ❑ Turnover of staff caused by non-competitive compensation packages.

Future Workforce Skills Needed:

To continue to meet the Council's workload, legislative, and public needs, the agency must make better use of available budget/FTEs, cross-train within and outside of departments, establish automated procedures to provide efficiency and streamline processes, improve both internal and external communications, prepare and plan for change in leadership as retirements occur, and increase the use of technology throughout the agency.

² The Texas State Board of Dental Examiners is an agency relatively similar in size to the Council in terms of the number of classified FTEs employed.

With anticipated increased workload and to meet future workforce required skill sets, the Council must commit to developing the work skills of its current workforce, as well as recruiting individuals that possess the critical work skills necessary for the agency to carry out its mission.

GAP ANALYSIS

A comparison of the Council's workforce supply to the agency's workforce demand reveals that there are some areas of concern that need to be addressed.

- Staff Turnover Due to Non-Competitive Salaries a Concern: The agency's ability to carry out its mission depends heavily on the agency retaining its trained, experienced staff. The loss of seasoned staff to a new agency such as the Council, would have significant and pronounced negative effects on agency performance. Compensation packages which are not competitive with other agencies or the private sector increase the likelihood for employee turnover, and thus must be kept competitive where feasible.

Gap Strategy Development

Gap Strategy: Succession Planning

Staff Position Books

Positions at the agency should develop training manuals which include materials pertinent to each position including policies and procedures, as well as form letters, checklists, etc. These manuals are invaluable in training new staff and should be updated and added to as procedures in various areas change or are enhanced. These manuals assist with the standardization of agency functions, the cross-training of staff, and serve as valuable training resources for new staff.

Cross Training of Staff

When possible, staff are provided cross training for other positions within the agency. This is difficult to achieve because of the intricacies of each position and the resulting amount of time required to cross train for another position. Additionally, staff do not receive any kind of increased salary for cross training in other positions.

Gap Strategy: Employee Development

Staff Training

The agency hopes to assist all staff with improving their writing and editing skills by sending them to various training opportunities. However, inadequate funding for staff development and limited training opportunities make it difficult to send all those in need to training.

Staff Involvement in Rulemaking and Policy Development

Opinions and input are sought from key staff persons before changes are made to rules, policies, and procedures. This allows the agency to make full use of the expertise of staff and facilitates both development and implementation of the changes by investing the staff in the success of the changes.

Gap Strategy: Retention of Staff

Flextime

The Council provides the options of flextime and the 4 day work week for most positions. However, at small state agencies alternative scheduling is inherently limited because the office must remain open each weekday from 8am to 5pm. Therefore, not all staff are able to participate in these alternate work schedules. Staff are informed of the availability of these options, as well as their limitations, before they are hired.

Telecommuting

The Council provides the options of telecommuting for most positions.

Promotion from Within

When a vacancy occurs in the agency, qualified internal staff are encouraged to apply for the position. Such upward mobility of staff provides added impetus to entry level staff to perform their duties to the best of their abilities.

Gap Strategy: Increased Use of Online Services

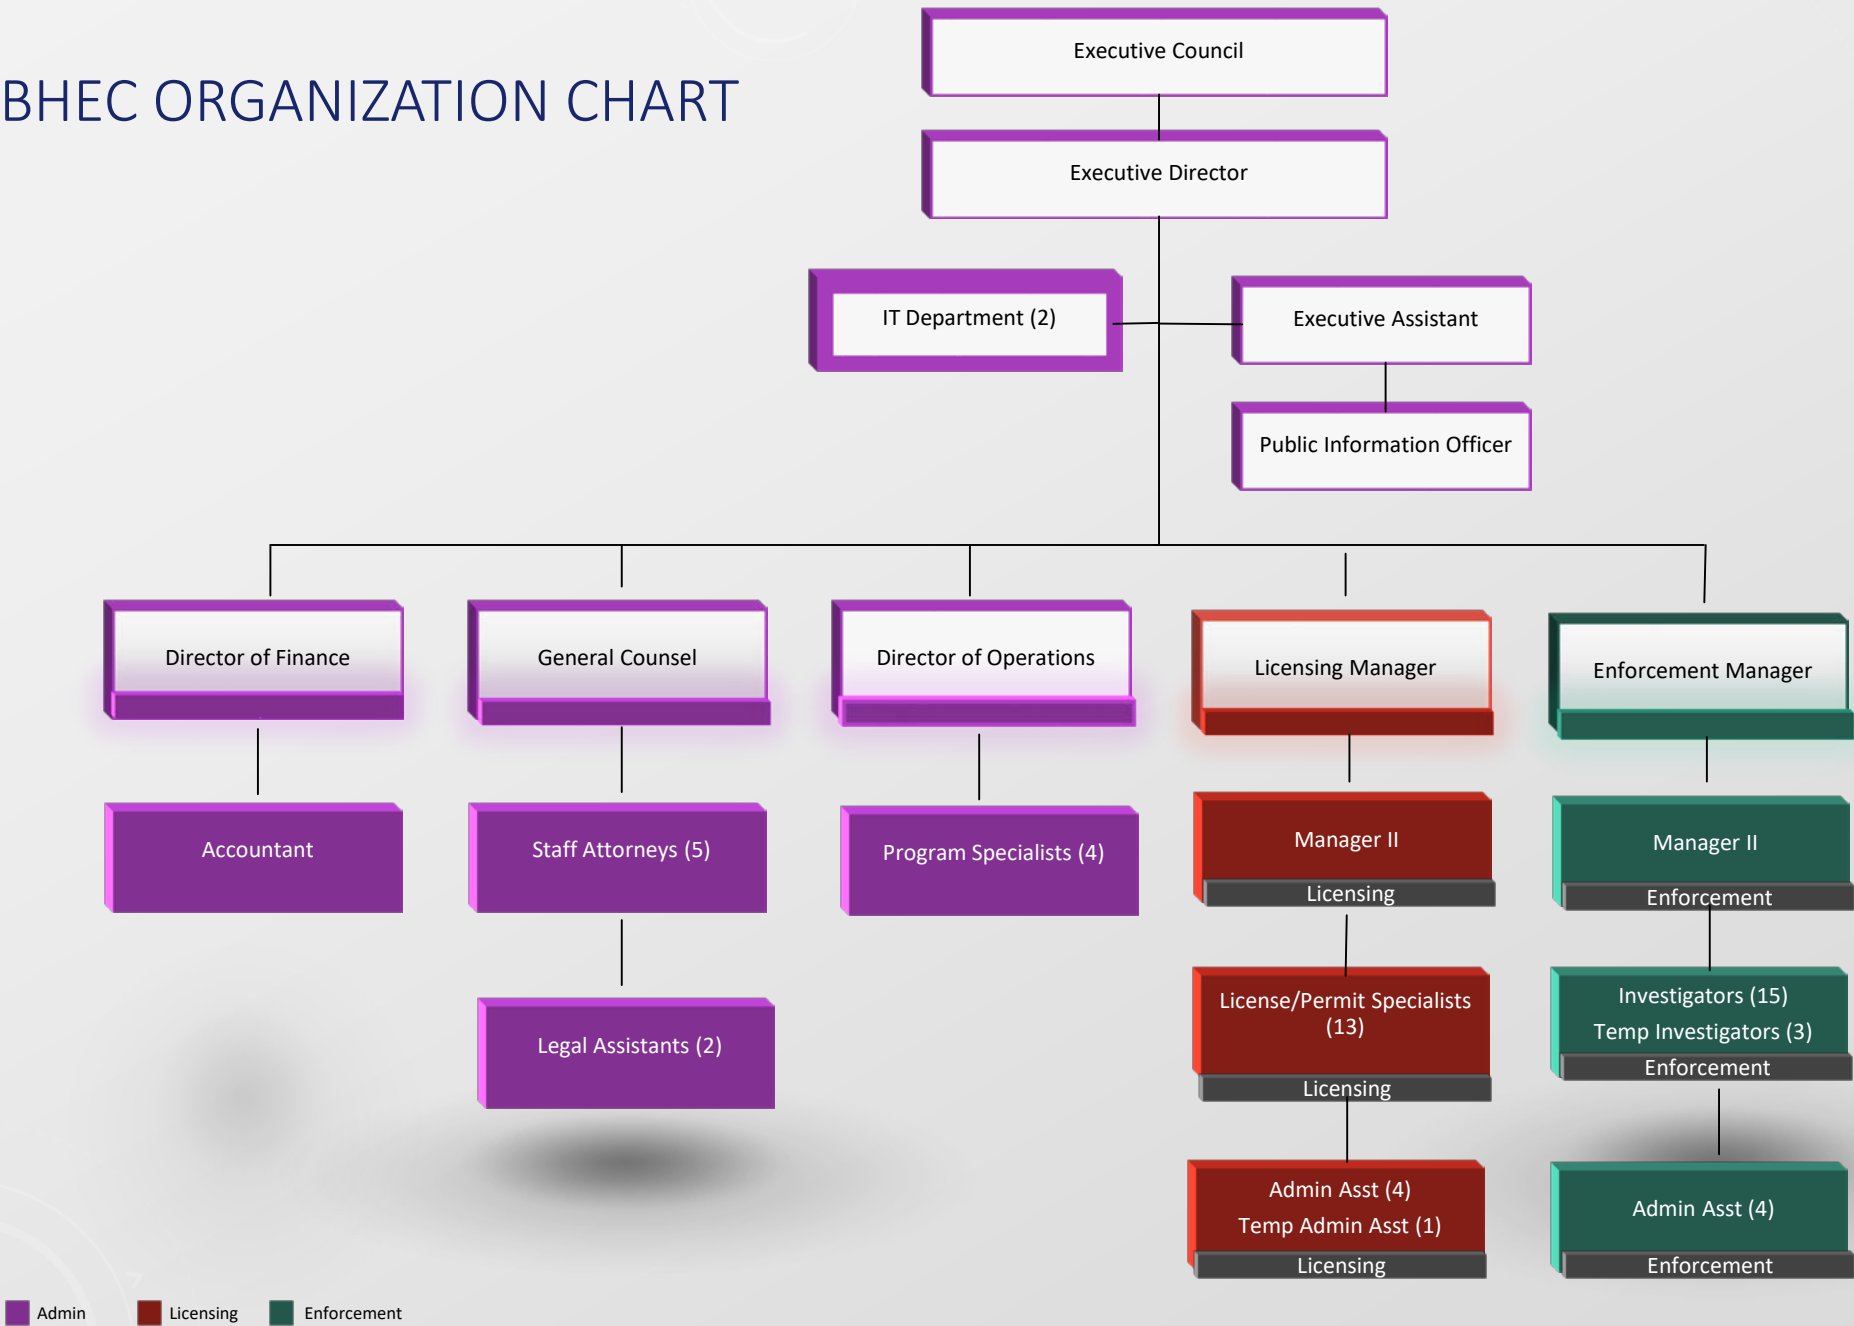

Enhanced Use of Board Website

The Council's website is the single most powerful tool for increasing efficiency and customer service that the Council has at its disposal. The Council is steadily working toward making its website a comprehensive source of information easily accessible by the public 24/7.

Gap Strategy: Legislative Appropriation Request

The Council will request additional funding through the legislative appropriations process for salary increases where needed to ensure a competitive compensation package for those staff identified as deserving a merit salary increase.

B. Information Gathering Methods

- The Psychology Board, like all other state agencies, is mandated by Section 2113 of the Government Code to develop customer service standards and to implement customer satisfaction assessment plans. Of the customers identified for each of its strategies, the Board then selected its most prominent groups of customers who receive services directly. The agency used the surveys that it had developed previously for this report again for FY 2019 as the results from previous years were appropriate, effective and reliable. Minor changes were made to survey questions to reflect changes in agency requirements (e.g., change from annual to biennial renewals; increased use of technology).
- Customer groups surveyed include: current licensees, applicants, written examinees, complainants, respondents, and persons who make open record requests to the agency. These groups involve the agency's two strategies: licensure and enforcement.
- Six different surveys were used for these six groups. The surveys were developed specifically for this mandate.

- The style of the surveys is similar; however, some questions on each are modified to better address the customer group being surveyed. Copies of the six surveys are provided.
- Each survey consists of approximately 8-13 statements, which the survey participant (participant) is asked to mark on a scale of 1 to 5 (strongly disagree, disagree, neutral, agree, strongly agree). Additionally each survey includes a space for the participant to make suggestions if he/she thinks the process could be improved.
- A total of 435 surveys were distributed and 45 were returned. In an effort to reduce costs, the surveys were sent by e-mail, using Survey Monkey, rather than mailing them and including self-addressed, stamped envelopes. The name of the participant is always optional, therefore persons can respond anonymously. The survey response rate is provided in an accompanying chart. Overall the response rate was 4.12%, a 6.22% increase from 2016-2017.
- Random sampling was used in this manner:

Current licensees: licensees who renewed in FY 2019.

Applicants: persons approved for licensure in FY 2019.

Written examinees: applicants who took the written examinations in FY 2019.

Respondents: licensees whose cases were resolved in FY 2019.

Complainants: persons whose complaints against licensees were resolved in FY 2019.

Requestors for Open Records: persons who made open record requests from the agency FY 2019.

C. Customer-Determined Satisfaction Synopsis

The Psychology Board determines satisfaction on the surveys by considering a score of either 3, 4 or 5 as satisfactory. A score of either 1 or 2 is not satisfactory. Survey Monkey automatically calculates the ratings for each survey returned, noting the rating of 1-5 that each question on the survey received. A total satisfaction rating for each question on all surveys is obtained and then these are totaled for a final satisfaction rating for the survey type.

The satisfaction ratings can be compared in many ways including determining which surveys received the worst or best ratings from a target population, the question per survey type that received the best and worst ratings, and satisfaction ratings per survey type from year to year.

For the FY 2019 surveys, the agency received an overall satisfaction rate of 82.19%, a increase of 1.47%. The satisfaction rate for the 2016-2017 surveys was 80.72%, for the 2014-2015 surveys was 86.92%, Fiscal Year 2012 was 91.73% and Fiscal Year 2011 was 90.52%.

For this biennium's surveys, the Psychology Board received a higher score on two of its six different surveys than it did the previous year. One area could not be rated last year as no one sent that particular survey chose to respond. However, there was a 13.27% increase in satisfaction for this area from the 2014-2015 biennium.

The Psychology Board received overall favorable ratings (scores of 3, 4 and 5) from all six of the groups surveyed.

Attached is a synopsis of the total number of surveys which were distributed, the number of surveys returned, the percentage of the responses for each survey that were satisfactory and the final overall satisfaction rate. Also attached are copies of the six surveys that were used: Licensee Survey, Complainant Survey, Respondent Survey, Applicant Survey, Written Exam Survey, and Public Information Requestor Survey.

D. Analysis of Survey Results

The Psychology Board believes that the overall results of the FY 2019 surveys were favorable to the Board and its operations. The lowest scores were received on the Complainant Survey (64.82% satisfaction). Satisfaction rating for this survey has ranged from a high of 82.14% in 2011 to a low of 35.71% in 2000. It should be noted that only 6 of the 30 complainants surveyed chose to return their surveys. The fact that complainants chose not to respond could be interpreted as their being basically satisfied with the Board's resolution of their complaints. Also, since the majority of complaints filed with the Board cannot be substantiated and are therefore dismissed, this fact alone could account for why this survey historically reflects the lowest satisfaction rate.

In reviewing all the surveys and their responses, the questions that had the lowest satisfaction rating were on the Complainants' Survey. This survey has a total of nine questions. The questions with the lowest ratings state:

1. The Board's information about how a complaint is processed (e.g., provided in the rulebook and on the agency's website) was helpful.
2. The Board kept me informed about the time expected for resolution of the complaint.
3. The Agency's investigation staff was accessible to me by phone when I had questions about the complaint and/or investigation.

4. My complaint was resolved in a reasonable period of time given the agency's limited resources and duty to review every complaint received thoroughly.
5. The Board does an adequate job of processing complaints.

Again, there is no apparent reason for the low ratings for these questions. All complainants are sent a letter informing them if the timelines for resolution of their complaints are delayed. Additionally, all complainants are sent a letter informing them of the final status of their complaint and, within the confines allowed by law, are informed of the reason for the Board's resolution of the complaint. Often, people are unhappy when their complaints are dismissed due to a lack of evidence or when the Board determines that no violation occurred.

Although this area received the lowest overall satisfaction rating, it should be noted that the satisfaction rate increased by 24.19% from the previous year's surveys.

All comments received are discussed with the agency staff. Comments identifying ways to improve services are weighed for feasibility and economic impact. In past years many of the comments have led to changes in procedures. All comments received on the surveys are presented to the Board for their review at a regularly scheduled Board meeting. The Board reviews the detailed statistics from the surveys returned.

In response to some of the comments received, the Board will continue to review and revise its website to ensure ease of accessibility and user friendliness.

The Board continues to make changes in its enforcement and licensing rules and processes to improve the timeliness of complaint resolution and license issuance. The advent of online renewals has assisted licensees in timely renewal and the requirement for online profiles as a condition of license renewal assists the consumer in accessing information about individual psychologists.

E. Customer-related Performance Measures Definitions

1. OUTCOME MEASURES:

Percentage of Surveyed Customer Respondents Expressing Overall Satisfaction with Services Rendered

Short Definition: The percentage of persons who responded to the customer surveys who expressed general satisfaction with the agency's services that they were provided.

Purpose/Importance: This measure is intended to show the percentage of agency customers that are generally satisfied with the services they received.

Source/Collection of Data: Information comes from different surveys which were e-mailed to representatives of each of the agency's customer groups on a biennial basis.

- a. Current licensees: random sampling of licensees renewing in 2019.
- b. New licensees: random sampling of persons who obtained licensure in 2019.
- c. Written examinees: random sampling of persons who sat for the Board's Jurisprudence Examination in 2019.
- d. Persons who received Public Information request information: random sampling of persons who received open record request information in 2019.
- e. Complainants: random sampling of persons whose complaints were resolved during 2019.
- f. Respondents: random sampling of licensees whose complaints were resolved in 2019.

Method of Calculation: The measure is calculated by Survey Monkey by placing the scores for each type of survey on one report per type. Thus, there are six reports. Each report provides the percentages of satisfactory responses on each question for each survey returned, arriving at one total percentage of satisfaction per each survey type. The usual method of calculating this Outcome Measure is to take these totals from each survey; adding them together and dividing the resulting number by 6, which is the number of the different types of surveys Data Limitations: Not all customers can be surveyed. Only the major customer groups are surveyed: current licensees, newly licensed persons, written examinees, persons who received open record request information, complainants and respondents.

Calculation: Non-cumulative

New Measure: New

Desired Performance: Performance that is higher than target is preferable.

Percentage of Surveyed Customer Respondents Identifying Ways to Improve Service Delivery

Short Definition: The percentage of customers surveyed by the agency that responded and identified ways for the agency to improve the delivery of services.

Purpose/Importance: The measure is intended to show the percentage of customers who offered suggestions of ways that services could be improved by the agency.

Source/Collection of Data: Information comes from different surveys which are e-mailed to representatives of each of the agency's customer groups. Responses are requested to be sent to an e-mail address listed on every survey.

- a. Current licensees: random sampling of licensees renewing in 2019.
- b. New licensees: random sampling of persons who obtained licensure in 2019.
- c. Written examinees: random sampling of persons who sat for the Board's Jurisprudence Examination in 2019.
- d. Persons who received Public Information request information: random sampling of persons who received open record request information in 2019.
- e. Complainants: random sampling of persons whose complaints were resolved during 2019.
- f. Respondents: random sampling of licensees whose complaints were resolved in 2019.

Method of Calculation: The measure is calculated by totaling the number of surveys to all customer groups with suggestions for improvements and then dividing by the total number of all returned surveys.

Data Limitations: Not all customers are surveyed. Only the major customer groups are surveyed: current licensees, newly licensed persons, written examinees, persons who received open record request information, complainants and respondents.

Calculation: Non-cumulative

New Measure: New

Desired Performance: Performance that is higher than target might show that there are more problems that need to be corrected. Performance that is lower than target might show that the agency is doing a better job and therefore there are fewer suggestions for corrections. The agency has no control over the number of customers who respond to its surveys.

2. OUTPUT MEASURES:

Number of Customers Surveyed

Short Definition: The total number of persons to whom a survey was sent.

Purpose/Importance: The measure is intended to show how extensive the survey was.

Source/Collection of Data: The information comes from counting the number of surveys that are sent.

Method of Calculation: The measure is calculated by counting the number of surveys that are sent.

Data Limitations: There are no data limitations. It is expected that the number surveyed will fluctuate from year to year, due to the source/collection of data methodology for random sampling.

Calculation Type: Cumulative

New Measure: New

Desired Performance: A higher performance would indicate that more persons were surveyed. A lower performance would indicate that fewer persons were surveyed.

The agency has no control over the number of customers that seek its services.

Number of Customers Served

Short Definition: Total number of customers served in target customer groups per fiscal year.

Purpose/Importance: This measure is intended to show the total number of customers served in target customer groups per fiscal year.

Source/Collection of Data: Information comes from totaling the following:

- a. Total number of current licensees.
- b. Total number of persons who received licensure in the fiscal year.
- c. Total number of persons who took one of the Agency's two required examinations in the fiscal year.
- d. Total number of persons who received open record requests information in the fiscal year.
- e. Total number of complainants who had their cases resolved during the fiscal year.

- f. Total number of respondents who had their cases resolved during the fiscal year.

Method of Calculation: This measure is calculated by totaling all of the customers in the fiscal year for all the target customer groups.

Data Limitations: Not all customers are surveyed. Only the major customer groups are surveyed: current licensees, newly licensed persons, written examinees, persons who received open record request information, complainants and respondents.

Calculation: Cumulative

New Measure: New

Desired Performance: Performance that is higher would indicate a greater number of customers. Performance that is lower would indicate a lower number of customers served. The agency has no control over the number of customers that seek its services.

3. EFFICIENCY MEASURES:

Cost per Customer Surveyed

Short Definition: The cost of sending a survey by e-mail.

Purpose/Importance: The measure is intended to assess the cost of surveying one person.

Source/Collection of Data: The measure is collected by totaling the cost of sending out the surveys.

Method of Calculation: The measure is collected by totaling the costs for sending out the surveys and dividing by the total number of surveys sent.

Data Limitations: The measure does not capture the amount of staff hours that are required to prepare the surveys for sending, receiving the surveys back, entering them in a database, and calculating the responses.

Calculation: Non-cumulative

New Measure: New

Desired Performance: Performance that is higher would indicate that the costs for the surveys have increased. Performance that is lower would indicate that the costs for the surveys have decreased.

4. EXPLANATORY MEASURES

Number of Customers Identified

Short Definition: The total number of persons from the target customer groups for which the agency has a name and address.

Purpose/Importance: This measure is intended to verify that the agency knows who its customers are.

Source/Collection of Data: This information is collected at the end of the fiscal year, when the agency can calculate the following:

- a. The total number of current licensees.
- b. The total number of persons who obtained licensure.
- c. The total number of persons who took the written examinations.
- d. The total number of persons who made written open record requests to the agency.
- e. The total number of complainants who had their cases resolved.
- f. The total number of respondents who had their cases resolved.

Method of Calculation: The measure is calculated by adding up the totals from all of these groups.

Data Limitations: The agency has other customer groups that it does not survey including: the state legislature, higher education institutions, other state agencies, etc.

Calculation: Cumulative

New Measure: New

Desired Performance: A performance that is higher would indicate that the agency has more customers in these customer groups. A performance that is lower would indicate that the agency is serving fewer customers. The agency has no control over the number of customers that seek its services.

Number of Customer Groups Inventoried

Short Definition: The number of customer groups that the agency uses to calculate its customer service performance measures. These are the major customer groups for the agency.

Purpose/Importance: This measure is intended to identify the total number of major customer groups for the agency.

All managerial positions have been filled, save and except the Program Specialist V (Executive Director) position associated with the Psychology Board.

Interviews and selection of licensing, enforcement, and legal staff is underway.

- Licensing has filled all 13 Lic. & Permit Spec. positions and 1 administrative assistant position. 2 receptionist and 1 administrative assistant position remain vacant. The remaining vacant positions will be re-posted in July.
- Enforcement has filled 10 investigator positions and 3 administrative assistant positions. 5 investigator positions and 1 administrative assistant position remain vacant. One of the investigator positions is expected to be filled in June, with the remaining vacant positions being re-posted in July.
- Legal has 7 vacant positions but will be interviewing candidates for the positions after the meeting.
- Accounting and Open Records each have one vacant position which will be filled as we get closer to the transition date of Sept. 1st.
- Both IT positions have yet to be filled; HPC IT support staff are currently handling all IT needs for BHEC and will assist with the hiring of IT staff once we gain a better understanding of the type of staff needed. We are exploring whether some of the functions we had originally anticipated needing IT staff for could be handled by the State Data Center or HPC IT staff.

Database transition is progressing on schedule. Kickoff meeting has been held with weekly updates for all parties involved. UAT testing began the week of June 8th, with additional testing scheduled as needed.

Agency staff are working with HPC and DIR staff to transition domain controllers and file servers to the State Data Center, i.e. cloud based servers. This should ensure greater IT security while also making the eventual move to the new capitol complex building much easier.

The Texas Facilities Commission has selected the space currently occupied by the Texas State Board of Public Accountancy and the Texas Board of Architectural Examiners in the Hobby Building as the locations where BHEC will be housed. The Enforcement Division will be located on the 3rd floor of Tower 2 in the Hobby Building while the remaining divisions and agency staff will be located on the 9th floor of Tower 3.

The space occupied by the Board of Public Accountancy has its own dedicated board meeting room, and the space occupied by the Architectural Board has a smaller meeting room that could be utilized for board or council meetings if necessary. I have instructed staff to begin exploring the IT equipment necessary to conduct virtual meetings from the large meeting room.

BHEC has begun the procurement process for computers and office equipment and already received computers for agency staff. BHEC is fortunate in that it will be able to benefit from some of the furniture left behind by the Public Accountancy and Architectural Examiners boards, thereby reducing costs.

The Executive Director and General Counsel are currently working with each member board to revise their rules in accordance with H.B. 1501. It is anticipated that these rules will be considered for proposal at the June 16th meeting of the Council.

The Executive Council will consider adoption of its first rules, which were published in the April 24th edition of the Texas Register, at its June 16th meeting.

The Executive Council anticipates the launch of its website in June.

STATE OF TEXAS

May 20, 2020

To: State Agency Board/Commission Chairs
State Agency Heads/Executive Directors
Appellate Court Justices and Judges
Chancellors, Presidents, and Directors of Institutions and Agencies of Higher Education

Please accept our sincere thanks for the incredible work provided by your agencies and institutions and the dedication you have shown to help the state through this troubling time. Each agency has taken on the challenge and worked tirelessly to ensure that essential services are provided to Texans in need. Know that we are committed to prioritizing the public health of our state.

As you have no doubt seen, there is significant economic uncertainty not only in this state but across the country and around the world. We are confident that Texas will get back to work and continue leading the nation in job growth, economic innovation, and business creation. However, it will take months until we know the true extent of the economic ramifications of COVID-19, and how combating this virus will impact state finances. To prepare for this economic shock, we must take action today to ensure that the state can continue providing the essential government services that Texans expect.

To achieve that goal, every state agency and institution of higher education must engage in prudent fiscal management efforts. Savings achieved in the current biennium are not only necessary to offset current year revenue losses, the savings will provide for the smoothest path toward recovery as you provide necessary services to Texans. Some cost saving strategies that agencies should pursue that will not affect the state's response to COVID-19 include foregoing any capital expenditures that can be deferred, any avoidable travel expenditures, any administrative expenses that are not mission critical, and keeping unfilled any open positions that are not essential to the COVID-19 response. These savings should be lapsed to the Treasury.

Additionally, we request each state agency and institution of higher education submit a plan identifying savings that will reduce your general and general revenue related appropriations by five percent for the 2020-2021 biennium. Please submit this plan to the Legislative Budget Board and the Office of the Governor by June 15, 2020.

Given the importance of the state's response to COVID-19 and the continuity of critical government functions, the following are excluded from the five percent reduction:

- Appropriations to the Texas Division of Emergency Management, the Texas Department of State Health Services, the Texas Workforce Commission, the Texas Military Department, and the Texas Department of Public Safety;

- Funding for debt service requirements and bond authorizations;
- Current law requirements for the Foundation School Program and school safety;
- Funding for Child Protective Services;
- Benefits and eligibility levels in Medicaid programs, the Children's Health Insurance Program, the foster care program, the adoption subsidies program, the permanency care assistance program, and services for individuals with intellectual or developmental disabilities;
- Funding for behavioral health service programs;
- Appropriations for Correctional Security Operations and Correctional Managed Health Care at the Texas Department of Criminal Justice;
- Appropriations to Health Related Institutions and Community Colleges; and
- Employer Contributions to the Teacher Retirement System and Employees Retirement System funds and to Social Security.

In the coming weeks, the Legislative Budget Board and the Office of the Governor will issue instructions for the Legislative Appropriations Request that each state agency and institution of higher education will submit for the 2022-2023 biennium. While the exact final instructions are still being determined, every state agency and institution should prepare to submit reduced budget requests as well as strategies to achieve further savings. Furthermore, when the state revenue picture becomes clearer in the coming months, it may become necessary to make additional budget adjustments.

Though state leaders will make difficult decisions in the future, please know that we will not impede your agency's response to the coronavirus threat or take actions that will harm the public health of this state. As Texans recover from this pandemic, it is incumbent that state government continues to maintain mission critical services without placing a greater burden on taxpayers. Your assistance in achieving these goals is imperative.

Our offices stand ready to assist you with any questions you have or any clarifications that may be necessary. Thanks again for your service to the state and her people. We will get through this time by helping our fellow neighbors and relying on them in turn.

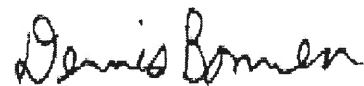

Sincerely,

Greg Abbott
Governor

Re: 5% Budget Reduction Plan for Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (510)

Governor Abbott:

The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council was established in 2019 following passage of H.B. 1501 by the 86th Legislature. The Council was designed to address the issues and concerns identified by the Sunset Advisory Commission, the boards, agency staff, stakeholders, and members of the public during the sunset review of the Texas State Board of Examiners of Marriage and Family Therapists, the Texas State Board of Examiners of Professional Counselors, the Texas State Board of Examiners of Psychologists, and the Texas State Board of Social Worker Examiners.

The fiscal note attached to H.B. 1501 and the contingency rider found in Art. IX, Section 18.11 of Tex. H.B. 1, 86th Leg., R.S. (2019) were intended to ensure the successful launch and operation of this new agency. While the Council certainly understands and appreciates the prudence in asking agencies to submit a plan for a 5% budget reduction given the impact to state finances resulting from the COVID-19 crisis, the Council respectfully requests that the immediacy and rationale behind its creation be kept in mind when deciding whether or not to actually implement any future budget cuts.

The Council also requests that the Texas.gov fees, which in the Council's case amounts to $135,244, be excluded from the appropriations total used to calculate the Council's 5% budget reduction plan. While the inclusion of Texas.gov fees makes sense in terms of ensuring that all funds appropriated to or spent by an agency are reflected in the agency's budget, Texas.gov fees are more akin to pass-through funding and cannot be reallocated for any other purpose. As a result, agencies are required to make larger cuts to their budgets than would otherwise be necessary due to the inclusion of these non-discretionary funds.

The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council is an equal opportunity employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, age, sex, disability or sexual orientation.

With that being said and in response to your May 20th directive, the Council hereby submits the following plan to accomplish a 5% reduction in the agency's budget for the 2020-21 biennium.

General Revenue related appropriations¹: $4,614,925

Amount representing 5% reduction for the biennium²: $230,746

5% reduction broken down by strategy:

Enforcement Strategy: $138,973

It should be noted that the budget cuts identified above include such things as temporary FTEs needed to ensure a successful launch of the agency. The temporary FTEs covered by the proposed cuts include a receptionist and two investigators. The receptionist is needed to assist with answering the numerous inquiries that are sure to follow a regulatory transition like that outlined in H.B. 1501, and the investigators are important to the Council's ability to investigate and resolve a backlog of over 1,250 cases currently pending at the Marriage and Family Therapy, Professional Counseling, and Social Work boards. In the event a 5% budget cut is ordered, the Council respectfully requests that the temporary FTE positions identified above be continued and remain available to the Council through the next biennium. This will provide the Council with an opportunity to fill those positions if it is able to secure funding through savings elsewhere in the agency's budget.

The aforementioned budget cuts also include travel expenses for in-person council and board meetings. The Council planned for up to 5 council meetings and 4 meetings per board during this first biennium. Following the proposed budget cuts, the Council's travel budget for meetings will be reduced to $3,000 for council meetings and $8,000 for board meetings. Budget cuts such as this will require either a significant reduction in the number of meetings held or greater reliance upon virtual meetings. The viability of the latter option will depend heavily upon whether the suspension of those portions of the Open Meetings Act that have taken place during the current COVID-19 crisis are made permanent.

Given the fledgling status of the Council and the importance of its mission – the regulation of essential behavioral health providers and social work practitioners – the Council again requests special consideration be given to its status as a new agency when deciding whether to actually implement the proposed budget cuts.

Should you have any questions or concerns regarding this plan, please do not hesitate to contact either myself or Jennifer Noack, the Chief Financial Officer for the Council.

Sincerely,

Darrel D. Spinks
Executive Director

§881.13. Conduct and Decorum. (Would strike all three provisions)

~~(a) Persons having business with or interacting with the Council, member boards, or agency staff shall conduct themselves with proper dignity, courtesy, and respect. Disorderly or disruptive conduct will not be tolerated. (This does not define "dignity, courtesy, and respect. All of which, can vary by cultural orientation. This is too vague)~~

~~(b) The presiding officers for the Council and member boards may, in their own discretion, exclude from a meeting or proceeding, a person who, with intent to prevent or disrupt an agency meeting or proceeding, obstructs or interferes with the meeting or proceeding by physical action or verbal utterance. A person excluded under this rule may be excluded for the remainder of the meeting or proceeding or for a shorter period of time as is deemed just and reasonable by the presiding officer. (This restricts a citizen's right to participate based on undefined terms)~~

~~(c) Conduct or language directed at agency officials or staff by applicants or licensees that a reasonable person would find abusive or threatening is considered unprofessional conduct and may serve as grounds for a Council-initiated complaint and disciplinary action. (Too much discretion to act based on an undefined criteria)~~

§882.26. Authorized Practice of Psychology Without a License.

(a) Notwithstanding Rule §882.23 of the chapter, the activities or services described in §501.004 of the Psychologists' Licensing Act are exempt from the Council's jurisdiction and do not require a license.

(b) The activity or service of a post-doctoral fellow or resident in psychology is exempt from the Council's jurisdiction pursuant to §501.004(a)(2) of the Psychologists' Licensing Act if all of the following criteria are met:

(1) The person is enrolled in a formal post-doctoral program that is:

(A) accredited by the American Psychological Association (APA) or is a member of the Association of Psychology Postdoctoral and Internship Centers (APPIC); or

(B) substantially equivalent to a program described in subparagraph (A) of this paragraph ;

(2) The activities or services take place under qualified supervision and are part of the formal post-doctoral program; and

(3) The person is designated as a psychological intern or trainee, or by another title that clearly indicates the person's training status.

(c) A formal post-doctoral program which meets the following criteria will be considered substantially equivalent to an APA accredited or APPIC member program:

(1) An organized experience with a planned and programmed sequence of supervised training experiences.

(2) A designated psychologist responsible for the program who possesses expertise or competence in the program's area.

(3) ~~Two or more~~ At least one licensed psychologists on staff, at least one designated as supervisor with expertise in area of practice. A designated supervisor may be the only psychologist on staff. (Having at least two psychologists on staff guarantees no greater learning than one. Improves access to healthcare for citizens if an internship can occur in a program that only has one supervisor on staff and that person may supervise post-doctoral training through creating opportunity for more internships. It does not eliminate the need for the training program to be formal. As originally written, this limits opportunities for post-doctoral training)

(4) A minimum of 2 hours per week of face-to-face supervision. (effective supervision can occur through the use of technology assisted interactions)

The increased costs are of concern: The council is raising the cost across all licensees to cover costs generated specifically by the Psychology Board. The Psychology specific expenses should stay contained within those licensees.

This proposed rule will increase application fees for the following license types: Licensed Baccalaureate Social Worker (LBSW) and Licensed Master Social Worker (LMSW) applications will increase by $29; Licensed Clinical Social Worker (LCSW) applications will increase by $29; Social Worker supervisor status applications will increase by $30; initial Licensed Marriage and Family Therapist (LMFT) associate applications will increase by $29; LMFT by endorsement applications will increase by $31; LMFT supervisor status applications will increase by $30; Licensed Professional Counselor (LPC), LPC intern, and provisional license applications will increase by $31; and LPC supervisor status applications will decrease by $50. This proposed rule will increase renewal fees for the following license types: LBSW and LMSW renewal applications will increase by $61; LMSW advanced practitioner and LCSW renewal applications will increase by $63; LMFT and LMFT associate renewal applications will increase by $11; LPC renewal applications will increase by $41; LPC supervisor status renewal applications will decrease by $50; and Licensed Specialist in School Psychology renewal applications will increase by $21. This proposed rule will create a new fee for the renewal of supervisor status for social workers which will be $50.

Coalition Comments on Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council DRAFT RULES

The mental health professional associations listed above represent Licensed Marriage and Family Therapists, Licensed Professional Counselors, Psychologists and Social Workers. The comments herein reflect our collective efforts to ensure the successful launch and functioning of the newly created Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC).

We appreciate the legislative leadership and thoughtful emphasis on strengthening the mental health infrastructure in Texas and applaud the many hours of implementation work in connection with establishing a well-functioning and responsive BHEC. BHEC is an innovative strategy to create operational efficiencies while maintaining the integrity of the respective member boards' appropriate regulatory authority over what makes each mental health professional licenses unique. The regulatory authority delegated to BHEC is explicitly limited to establishing operational efficiencies and ensuring that any rule promulgated by a member board does not violate federal antitrust laws by limiting competition or impacting prices charged by persons engaged in a profession or business the executive council regulates. This ensures active state supervision while protecting the state's sovereign immunity.

Our associations appreciate the opportunity to participate both informally and formally in the process to adopt the rules that will govern BHEC's operating procedures and relationship with our respective licensing boards. Many of the proposed rules reflect the comments and recommendations delivered by us at your last meeting, but there are additional rules we would respectfully submit for your consideration, such as those allowing for emergency licenses, that reflect the current health crisis and should provide for a much swifter state response in the future.

We welcome your favorable consideration and encourage the agency to adopt the language recommendations listed below to ensure the rules as finally adopted are consistent with Chapter 507 of the Texas Occupations Code, as well as current and best practices.

Applications and Licensure

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

- (a) The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

Rationale: One of the key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating BHEC is to improve efficiency and to expedite license processing. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A composite report will not provide adequate and appropriate transparency given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

- (a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.
- (a)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:
 - (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and
 - (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.
- (c) The Council shall may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:
 - (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;
 - (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster;
 - (2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and
 - (3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.
- (bd) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.
- (ee) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.
- (df) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:
 - (1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

- (2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~
- (e) ~~For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~
- (g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.
- (fh) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:
 - (1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;
 - (2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and
 - (3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.
- (gi) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shed some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The published language removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The suggested new language addresses these concerns by codifying current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, BHEC would have the ability to provide the person with an emergency license during a declared disaster.

Complaints and Enforcement

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12

Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. BHEC does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

General Provisions

SUBCHAPTER A – GENERAL PROVISIONS: Add a new §881.14 as follows:

§881.14 Impartiality and Non-discrimination

(a) The BHEC board members will make decisions in the discharge of its statutory authority without regard to a person's age, race, religion, ethnicity, sex, gender, affectional orientation, disability, national origin, or genetic information.

(b) Any BHEC board member who is unable to be impartial in the determination of disciplinary action against a licensee or who is determined to have a conflict of interest as set forth in §881.5 will declare this to the board and will not participate in any board proceedings involving that licensee.

(c) A person needing accommodations under the Americans with Disabilities Act (42 U.S.C. §12101 et seq.) in order to access BHEC board services must request reasonable accommodations in writing and may be required to provide verification of the person's disability and recommendations for appropriate accommodations from a medical, mental health, rehabilitation, or educational professional or specialist qualified to make such recommendations.

Rationale: Each of the member boards housed at BHEC have similar language currently in their rules. It appears that due to the role BHEC has in issuing licenses and administering the complaint process, those specific rules are being removed as the individual member boards propose rules changes to align with HB 1501 and the creation of BHEC. These protections, however, should be maintained by BHEC. We anticipate that the omission of this important language is an oversight since these rules were developed prior to the rule reviews undertaken by the individual member boards.

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only also review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

(d) Member boards must submit a new draft rule or rule change to the Council for consideration by submitting a draft of the rule with any deletions crossed through and additions underlined. The draft must also contain each of the notice components required in a preamble (e.g. §2001.024 of the Government Code) when proposing a new rule or rule change to the Council, member boards must also submit any information or comments received from the public in connection with the proposed rule. The Council shall limit its review of proposed rules to questions regarding anticompetitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by BHEC only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed, §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words “must also” implies that the authority of BHEC to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing “must also” with “may only” reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council Proposed Rules (45 TexReg 2640)

Comments submitted by Jan Friese, Executive Director, Texas Counseling Association
May 24, 2020

The Texas Counseling Association (TCA) respectfully submits the following comments on the proposed rules for the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) as published on April 24, 2020 in 45TexReg2640.

Managing the creation of new rules for a new agency while amending the rules of the member boards housed there is a monumental task. TCA thanks the members and staff of BHEC and the individual boards for their hard work and due diligence.

TCA respectfully requests – in addition to the comments submitted through the Behavioral Health Coalition – consideration of the following amendments. These proposals address what we expect is the unintentional omission of rules regarding non-discrimination, as well as the opportunity for engagement by the member boards on petitions for rulemaking related to licensure, scope of practice, standards of care and ethical practice, as well as CE requirements.

Impartiality and Non-discrimination: Add a new Section 881.14

Three of the four member boards' rules (§681.13(a); §781.312(a); §801.15(a)) include specific language that prohibits discrimination by those boards in licensing and disciplinary decisions. Section 881.5 of the proposed BHEC rules addresses the process for impartiality and the disclosure of potential conflicts of interest in matters that come before the Council. The proposed rules do not include language to specifically address non-discrimination. The non-discrimination language is being removed from the member boards' rules making its inclusion here essential.

TCA recommends a new §881.14 be added to Subchapter A – General Provisions as follows:

§881.14. Impartiality and Non-discrimination

(a) The Council will make decisions in the discharge of its statutory authority without regard to person's age, race, religion, ethnicity, sex, gender, affectional orientation, disability, national origin, or genetic information.

(b) A person needing accommodations under the Americans with Disabilities Act (42 U.S.C. §12101 et seq.) in order to access BHEC board services must request reasonable accommodations in writing and may be required to provide verification of the person's disability and recommendations for appropriate accommodations from a medical, mental health, rehabilitation, or educational professional or specialist qualified to make such recommendations.

Petition for Rulemaking – Amend §881.21(c)

Proposed rule changes for each member board removes the opportunity to submit rulemaking petitions directly to them. Petitions for rulemaking will instead be processed through BHEC. Given that only member boards can adopt rules on license qualification, scope of practice, standards of care, ethical practices and CE requirements,

TCA recommends that petitions for rulemaking relating to those specific items be referred to the appropriate member board for review and consideration prior to any final action by the Council.

TCA recommends an amendment to §881.21(c) as follows

(a) Any interested person may petition for rulemaking in accordance with §2001.021 of the Government Code by submitting to the Council a written request for the adoption of a rule or rule change. The written request must contain a return mailing address for the agency's response.

(b) The written request must, at a minimum, set forth or identify the rule the petitioner wants the Council to adopt or change, reasons why the petitioner believes the requested rulemaking is necessary, and include a copy of the proposed rule or any proposed changes with deletions crossed through and additions underlined. Additionally, the written request must affirmatively show that the requestor qualifies as an interested person under this rule. Requests which do not affirmatively show that the requestor qualifies as an interested person under this rule may be denied.

(c) The written request should also address the economic cost to persons required to comply with the rule, the effects of the rule on small or micro-businesses or rural communities, and the impact the rule would have on local employment or economies, if such information can be derived from available sources without undue cost or burden.

(d) Petitions for rulemaking that relate to qualifications for licensure, scope of practice, standards of care, ethical practices or CE requirements will be forwarded by the Executive Director to the appropriate member board for review and consideration. The Council will respond to a written request for adoption of a rule from an interested person in accordance with §2001.021 of the Government Code.

(e) The term "interested person" as used in this rule, shall have the same meaning as that assigned by §2001.021(d) of the Government Code. Additionally, a person who submits a petition under this rule must affirm that they qualify as an interested person in the petition. Petitions which do not contain such an affirmation may be denied.

Thank you for your hard work and consideration of these comments. TCA welcomes the opportunity to work with you for a successful launch of this innovative agency.

Suggested Comments on BHEC Rules

- General Provisions

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only also review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

(d) (pick up from notebook)

Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance. As proposed, §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. Replacing “must also” with “may only” reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

- Complaints and Enforcement

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ ~~may~~ solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ ~~may~~ specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

Rationale: As set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code, each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

- Applications and Licensure

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

(a) The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

Rationale: Improving efficiency and expediting license processing are key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A consolidated report will not provide adequate transparency and detail, given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

- (a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.
- (a)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:
 - (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and
 - (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.
- (c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:
 - (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;
 - (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster;
 - (2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and
 - (3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.
- (bd) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.
- (ee) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.
- (df) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:
 - (1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and
 - (2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.
- (e) ~~For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

(fh) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

- (1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;
- (2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and
- (3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(gi) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shed some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. This rule, as published, removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The proposed revision addresses these concerns by codifying current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, they could have the opportunity to be issued an emergency license during a declared disaster.

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

(a) The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

Rationale: Improving efficiency and expediting license processing are key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A consolidated report will not provide adequate transparency and detail, given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

- (a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.
- (a)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

 - (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and
 - (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.
- (c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

 - (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;
 - (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster;
 - (2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and
 - (3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.
- (b) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.
- (e) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.
- (d) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

 - (1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and
 - (2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~
- (e) ~~For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

(fh) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

- (1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;
- (2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and
- (3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(gi) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shed some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. This rule, as published, removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The proposed revision addresses these concerns by codifying current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, they could have the opportunity to be issued an emergency license during a declared disaster.

Suggested Comments on BHEC Rules

- General Provisions

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20

Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only also review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

(d) (pick up from notebook)

Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance. As proposed, §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. Replacing “must also” with “may only” reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

- Complaints and Enforcement

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12

Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ ~~may~~ solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ ~~may~~ specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

Rationale: As set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code, each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

- (3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(i) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shed some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. This rule, as published, removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The proposed revision addresses these concerns by codifying current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, they could have the opportunity to be issued an emergency license during a declared disaster.

Suggested Comments on BHEC Rules

- General Provisions

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may ~~only~~ also review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

(d) (pick up from notebook)

Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance. As proposed, §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. Replacing “must also” with “may only” reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

- Complaints and Enforcement

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ ~~may~~ solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ ~~may~~ specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

Rationale: As set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code, each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

- Applications and Licensure

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

(a) The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

Rationale: Improving efficiency and expediting license processing are key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A consolidated report will not provide adequate transparency and detail, given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

- (a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.
- (a)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:
 - (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and
 - (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.
- (c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:
 - (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;
 - (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster;
 - (2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and
 - (3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.
- (bd) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.
- (ee) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.
- (df) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:
 - (1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and
 - (2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~
- (e) ~~For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

(fh) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

- (1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;
- (2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and
- (3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(gi) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

Reply-To: Jenifer McLuskie <jmcluskie@sbcglobal.net>

To: "open.records@tsbep.texas.gov" <open.records@tsbep.texas.gov>

My name is Jenifer McLuskie I am a licensed social worker (LMSW) and I am a supervisor of four caseworkers who all work within social services to help undocumented children who have left immigration detention facilities and one caseworker who assists families who have exited family or other immigration detention facilities as they seek asylum in the United States.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help the social work workforce meeting the needs of Texans.

Below my signature are a list of specific changes I am recommending and the sections covered. I would also like to highlight two important points:

1. BHEC Discretion re: Emergency License – COVID-19 has shown that social work licensure across state lines can impact whether someone receives timely mental health treatment. I believe that BHEC should immediately grant a license to someone from another state during the time of a disaster and have the discretion to grant emergency licenses to social workers licensed in other states who are not in good standing at their own discretion.
2. Licensing Rates: It is disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate increased. Social workers already deal with intense backlog with our licensing application and renewal process. We continue to see licensing rates grow without any change to show for it. We ask that BHEC rules keep our rates unchanged.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

Sincerely,

Jenifer McLuskie, LMSW (Texas) and LGSW (District of Columbia)

APPLICATIONS & LICENSURE

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

a. The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A composite report will not provide adequate and appropriate transparency given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

(a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

(a)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster

(2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and

(ee) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.

(df) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

(1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

(2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~

(e) For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

(fh) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

(1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;

- (2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and

- (gi) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shown some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The proposed language removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The suggested language addresses these concerns by codifying would-current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, BHEC would have the ability to provide the person with an emergency license during a declared disaster.

COMPLAINTS & ENFORCEMENT

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

- Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only ~~also~~ review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words "must also" implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

Texas State Board of Examiners of Psychologists Mail - Subject line: Comments on Proposed Rules 227AC Chapter 881.

My name is Jennifer Vasquez and I am a licensed clinical social worker and PhD social work student. I am a full time Lecturer at Texas State School of Social Work and part time Lecturer at Lady of the Lake University School of Social Work.

Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A composite report will not provide adequate and appropriate transparency given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

(a)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;

(3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

~~(g i)~~ There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only ~~also~~ review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words "must also" implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

To: "open.records@tsbep.texas.gov" <open.records@tsbep.texas.gov>

Good Afternoon,

My name is Rebecca Cole and I am a licensed clinical social worker. I am a licensed clinical social worker for the Harris Center, the local mental health authority for Harris County, Texas. I provide crisis intervention paired with a licensed peace officer with Houston Police Department. I am the only social worker on my team. I take pride in my ability to provide this service to my community in my community and represent the social work field as well.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help the social work workforce meeting the needs of Texans.

Below my signature are a list of specific changes I am recommending and the sections covered. I would also like to highlight two important points:

1. BHEC Discretion re: Emergency License – COVID-19 has shown that social work licensure across state lines can impact whether someone receives timely mental health treatment. I believe that BHEC should immediately grant a license to someone from another state during the time of a disaster and have the discretion to grant emergency licenses to social workers licensed in other states who are not in good standing at their own discretion.
2. Licensing Rates: It is disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate increased. Social workers already deal with intense backlog with our licensing application and renewal process. We continue to see licensing rates grow without any change to show for it. We ask that BHEC rules keep our rates unchanged.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

Sincerely,

Rebecca Cole, LCSW

APPLICATIONS & LICENSURESUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS*§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

a. The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

- Rationale: One of the key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council is to improve efficiency and to expedite license processing. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A composite report will not provide adequate and appropriate transparency given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

- (a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.
- ~~(a)(b)~~ A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:
- (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and
 - (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.
- (c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:
- (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;
 - (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster
 - (2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and
 - (3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.
- ~~(bd)~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.
- ~~(ee)~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.
- ~~(ef)~~ To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:
- (1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and
 - (2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.
- ~~(e)~~ For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.
- ~~(g)~~ An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.
- ~~(fh)~~ An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

- (1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;
 - (2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and
 - (3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.
- (g) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shown some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The proposed language removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The suggested language addresses these concerns by codifying would-current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, BHEC would have the ability to provide the person with an emergency license during a declared disaster.

COMPLAINTS & ENFORCEMENT

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

- Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only ~~also~~ review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: § 507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed § 881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. (g) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shown some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The proposed language removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The suggested language addresses these concerns by codifying current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, BHEC would have the ability to provide the person with an emergency license during a declared disaster.

COMPLAINTS & ENFORCEMENT

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

- Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may ~~only~~ also review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words "must also" implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

ADVOCACY ALERT – Improve the Licensing Board!Submit Comments before May 22, 2020

The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) established in HB 1501 (86R) will become fully operational on September 1, 2020. All behavioral health licensing boards – including the Texas State Board of Social Work Examiners – will be housed at BHEC which will be responsible for the administrative management of each board, including processing licenses, managing complaints, and overall operations.

The proposed rules are extensive because they establish all functions for a brand new state agency. It is essential that these rules be carefully vetted to ensure they align with the legislative intent of HB 1501 and preserve the authority of each independent licensing board housed at BHEC.

The National Association of Social Workers - Texas (NASW-TX) along with the Texas Society for Clinical Social Work (TSCSW), the Texas Counseling Association (TCA), the Texas Association of Marriage and Family Therapists (TAMFT) and the Texas Psychological Association (TPA), was provided a preview of the proposed rules and an opportunity to provide stakeholder input at the December BHEC meeting. Many of our suggestions were adopted and are reflected in the published rules. However, several important revisions were not made, including licensure fees.

NASW/TX, in partnership with TCA, TSCSW, TAMFT and TPA, did a thorough review of the published rules and will be submitting a unified statement requesting additional, important changes.

We need your help!

A large volume of comments is needed. It is essential that all licensees review the proposed rules and submit comments.

The proposed rules were published in the April 24, 2020 issue of the Texas Register.

Please feel free to use the email template at the end of this email as well as any other revisions that you identify.

My name is Susan Harnden, I am a Licensed Clinical Social Worker at the University of Texas at Austin Employee Assistance Program. I serve the employees of the university.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help the social work workforce meeting the needs of Texans.

Below my signature are a list of specific changes I am recommending and the sections covered. I would also like to highlight two important points:

1. BHEC Discretion re: Emergency License – COVID-19 has shown that social work licensure across state lines can impact whether someone receives timely mental health treatment. I believe that

BHEC should immediately grant a license to someone from another state during the time of a disaster and have the discretion to grant emergency licenses to social workers licensed in other states who are not in good standing at their own discretion.

2. Licensing Rates: It is disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate increased. Social workers already deal with intense backlog with our licensing application and renewal process. We continue to see licensing rates grow without any change to show for it. We ask that BHEC rules keep our rates unchanged.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

Sincerely,

Susan Harnden, LCSW

APPLICATIONS & LICENSURE

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

a. The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

- Rationale: One of the key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council is to improve efficiency and to expedite license processing. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A composite report will not provide adequate and appropriate transparency given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

(a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

(a)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster

(2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and

(3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.

~~(bd)~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

~~(ee)~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.

~~(df)~~ To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

(1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

(2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~

~~(e) For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

~~(g)~~ An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

~~(fh)~~ An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

(1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;

(2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and

(3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

~~(gi)~~ There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

Please consider making the following changes to the proposed rules for the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council

General Provisions SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING §881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council (b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council must may only also review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns. (d) (pick up from notebook)

Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance. As proposed, §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. Replacing “must also” with “may only” reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent. • Complaints and Enforcement

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS §884.12 Complaint Disposition. (c) The Council shall may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council shall may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule. Rationale: As set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code, each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays. • Applications and Licensure

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS §882.9. Established Application Processing Time (a) The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis. Rationale: Improving efficiency and expediting license processing are key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A consolidated report will not provide adequate transparency and detail, given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category. SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY

TEMPORARY LICENSE §882.70. Emergency Temporary License. (a) For purposes of this section, the term “good standing” means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration. (a)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if: (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state. (c) The Council shall may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if: (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster; (2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and (3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below. (bd) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first. (ce) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor. (df) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must: (1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and (2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing. (e) For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term “good standing” means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration. (g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date. (fh) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must: (1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client; (2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and (3) comply with all other applicable Council rules. (gi) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license. • Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shed some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. This rule, as published, removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The proposed revision addresses these concerns by codifying current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, they could have the opportunity to be issued an emergency license during a declared disaster.

My name is Gianna Viola and I am a licensed social worker (LCSW-S) in Texas.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help the social work workforce meeting the needs of Texans.

Below my signature are a list of specific changes I am recommending and the sections covered. I would also like to highlight two important points:

1. BHEC Discretion re: Emergency License – COVID-19 has shown that social work licensure across state lines can impact whether someone receives timely mental health treatment. I believe that BHEC should immediately grant a license to someone from another state during the time of a disaster and have the discretion to grant emergency licenses to social workers licensed in other states who are not in good standing at their own discretion.
2. Licensing Rates: It is disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate increased. Social workers already deal with intense backlog with our licensing application and renewal process. We continue to see licensing rates grow without any change to show for it. We ask that BHEC rules keep our rates unchanged.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

Sincerely,

Gianna Viola, LCSW-S, CGP

APPLICATIONS & LICENSURE

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

a. The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

- Rationale: One of the key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council is to improve efficiency and to expedite license processing. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A composite report will not provide adequate and appropriate transparency given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

(a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

(e)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster

(2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and

(3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.

(bd) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

(ee) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.

(ef) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

(1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

(2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~

(e) ~~For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

(fh) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

(1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;

(2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and

(3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(gi) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shown some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The proposed language removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The suggested language addresses these concerns by codifying would-current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. COMPLAINTS & ENFORCEMENT

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

- Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only ~~also~~ review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words "must also" implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

Suggested Comments on BHEC Rules

- General Provisions

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may ~~only~~ review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

(d) (pick up from notebook)

Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance. As proposed, §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. Replacing “must also” with “may only” reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

- Complaints and Enforcement

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ ~~may~~ solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ ~~may~~ specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

Rationale: As set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code, each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

- Applications and Licensure

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

(a) The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

Rationale: Improving efficiency and expediting license processing are key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A consolidated report will not provide adequate transparency and detail, given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

- (a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.
- (~~a~~)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:
 - (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and
 - (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.
- (c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:
 - (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;
 - (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster;
 - (2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and
 - (3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.
- (~~b~~)d An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.
- (~~e~~)e An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.
- (~~d~~)f To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:
 - (1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and
 - (2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~
- (e) ~~For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

(fh) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

- (1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;
- (2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and
- (3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(gi) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shed some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. This rule, as published, removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The proposed revision addresses these concerns by codifying current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, they could have the opportunity to be issued an emergency license during a declared disaster.

Hello,

My name is Haley Williams and I am a licensed social worker. I work with college students, particularly those with learning disabilities and mental health issues.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help the social work workforce meeting the needs of Texans.

Below my signature are a list of specific changes I am recommending and the sections covered. I would also like to highlight two important points:

1. BHEC Discretion re: Emergency License – COVID-19 has shown that social work licensure across state lines can impact whether someone receives timely mental health treatment. I believe that BHEC should immediately grant a license to someone from another state during the time of a disaster and have the discretion to grant emergency licenses to social workers licensed in other states who are not in good standing at their own discretion.
2. Licensing Rates: It is disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate increased. Social workers already deal with intense backlog with our licensing application and renewal process. We continue to see licensing rates grow without any change to show for it. We ask that BHEC rules keep our rates unchanged.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

Sincerely,

Haley Williams

APPLICATIONS & LICENSURE

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

a. The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

- Rationale: One of the key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council is to improve efficiency and to expedite license processing. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A composite report will not provide adequate and appropriate transparency given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

(a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

(a)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster

(2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and

(3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.

(b d) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

(e e) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.

(e f) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

(1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

(2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.

(e) For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

(f h) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

(1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;

(2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and

(3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(g i) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shown some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The proposed language removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The suggested language addresses these concerns by codifying would-current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, BHEC would have the ability to provide the person with an emergency license during a declared disaster.

COMPLAINTS & ENFORCEMENT

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

- Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may ~~only~~ also review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words "must also" implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

APPLICATIONS & LICENSURE

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

a. The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

- Rationale: One of the key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council is to improve efficiency and to expedite license processing. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A composite report will not provide adequate and appropriate transparency given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

(a) ~~For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

~~(a)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:~~

~~(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and~~

~~(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.~~

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

(1) ~~the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;~~

~~(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster~~

(2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and

(3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.

~~(bd)~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

~~(ee)~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.

~~(df)~~ To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

(1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

(2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~

~~(e) For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

(g) ~~An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.~~

~~(fh)~~ An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

(1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;

(2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and

(3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(g) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shown some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The proposed language removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The suggested language addresses these concerns by codifying current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, BHEC would have the ability to provide the person with an emergency license during a declared disaster.

COMPLAINTS & ENFORCEMENT

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall may~~ solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall may~~ specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

- Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must may only also~~ review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words "must also" implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

My name is Rose Mary Rodriguez from El Paso, Texas, and I am a Licensed Clinical Social Worker. I have been working with the Las Palmas Kidney Transplant Center for the last 3 years serving patients who are being evaluated for a kidney transplant or have already received a transplant. I have 40 years post-graduate experience in the areas of vocational rehabilitation, medical social work, and school social work addressing individuals with special needs.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help the social work workforce meeting the needs of Texans.

Below my signature are a list of specific changes I am recommending and the sections covered. I would also like to highlight two important points:

1. BHEC Discretion re: Emergency License – COVID-19 has shown that social work licensure across state lines can impact whether someone receives timely mental health treatment. I believe that BHEC should immediately grant a license to someone from another state during the time of a disaster and have the discretion to grant emergency licenses to social workers licensed in other states who are not in good standing at their own discretion.
2. Licensing Rates: It is disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate increased. Social workers already deal with intense backlog with our licensing application and renewal process. We continue to see licensing rates grow without any change to show for it. We ask that BHEC rules keep our rates unchanged. I also bring to your attention that social worker's salaries are not adequate so any increase in licensing rates impact the decisions of trained social workers to remain in the profession as opposed to entering another sector of employment for better pay.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

Sincerely

Rose Mary Rodriguez, LCSW/ C-ASWCM

Comments on BHEC Rules

• General Provisions

SUBCHAPTER B - RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only ~~also~~ review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance. As proposed, §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

• Complaints and Enforcement

SUBCHAPTER B - INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council shall ~~may~~ solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council shall ~~may~~ specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

Rationale: As set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code, each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

• Applications and Licensure

SUBCHAPTER A - LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

(a) The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

Rationale: Improving efficiency and expediting license processing are key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A consolidated report will not provide adequate transparency and detail, given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G §882.70.

- EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

Emergency Temporary License.

(a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

~~(a)~~ (b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; ~~the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and~~

~~rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster;~~

(2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and

(3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below. ~~(b)~~ (d) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

~~(e)~~ (e) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.

~~(d)~~ (f) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

(1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

(2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction. ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~

~~(e)~~ For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

~~(f)~~ (h) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

(1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;

(2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and

(3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(g) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale:

onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. This rule, as published, removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The proposed revision addresses these concerns by codifying current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, they could have the opportunity to be issued an emergency license during a declared disaster.

The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shed some light

My name is Emma Taylor and I am an LCSW. I work as a therapist for children and adolescents with chronic illnesses, and I am also a faculty member and lecturer in an MSW program.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help the social work workforce meeting the needs of Texans.

Below my signature are a list of specific changes I am recommending and the sections covered. I would also like to highlight two important points:

1. BHEC Discretion re: Emergency License – COVID-19 has shown that social work licensure across state lines can impact whether someone receives timely mental health treatment. I believe that BHEC should immediately grant a license to someone from another state during the time of a disaster and have the discretion to grant emergency licenses to social workers licensed in other states who are not in good standing at their own discretion.
2. Licensing Rates: It is disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate increased. Social workers already deal with intense backlog with our licensing application and renewal process. We continue to see licensing rates grow without any change to show for it. We ask that BHEC rules keep our rates unchanged.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

Sincerely,

Emma Taylor, LCSW

APPLICATIONS & LICENSURE

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

a. The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

- Rationale: One of the key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council is to improve efficiency and to expedite license processing. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A composite report will not provide adequate and appropriate transparency given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

~~(a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

~~(a)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:~~

~~(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and~~

~~(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.~~

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

~~(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;~~

~~(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster~~

(2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and

(3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.

~~(b)(d)~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

~~(e)~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.

~~(e)(f)~~ To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

(1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

(2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~

~~(e)~~ For purposes of subsection ~~(d)~~ of this section, the term "good standing" means ~~there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

~~(g)~~ An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

~~(f)(h)~~ An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

- (1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;
 - (2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and
 - (3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.
- (g) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shown some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The proposed language removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The suggested language addresses these concerns by codifying would-current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, BHEC would have the ability to provide the person with an emergency license during a declared disaster.

COMPLAINTS & ENFORCEMENT

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

- Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only also review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words "must also" implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

My name is Cheryl Jones, LMSW and I am a licensed social worker in Dallas working for a social service agency full time and a local hospital system on the weekends.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help the social work workforce meeting the needs of Texans.

Below my signature are a list of specific changes I am recommending and the sections covered. I would also like to highlight two important points:

1. BHEC Discretion re: Emergency License – COVID-19 has shown that social work licensure across state lines can impact whether someone receives timely mental health treatment. I believe that BHEC should immediately grant a license to someone from another state during the time of a disaster and have the discretion to grant emergency licenses to social workers licensed in other states who are not in good standing at their own discretion.
2. Licensing Rates: It is disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate increased. Social workers already deal with intense backlog with our licensing application and renewal process. We continue to see licensing rates grow without any change to show for it. We ask that BHEC rules keep our rates unchanged.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

Sincerely,

Cheryl Jones, LMSW

APPLICATIONS & LICENSURE

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

a. The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

- Rationale: One of the key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council is to improve efficiency and to expedite license processing. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A composite report will not provide adequate and appropriate transparency given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

- (a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.
- ~~(a)~~ (b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:
- (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and
 - (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.
- (c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:
- (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;
 - (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster
 - (2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and
 - (3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.
- ~~(b)~~ (d) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.
- ~~(e)~~ (e) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.
- ~~(d)~~ (f) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:
- (1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and
 - (2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.
- ~~(e)~~ (g) For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.
- (g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.
- ~~(f)~~ (h) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

- (1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;
 - (2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and
 - (3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.
- (g) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shown some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The proposed language removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The suggested language addresses these concerns by codifying would-current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, BHEC would have the ability to provide the person with an emergency license during a declared disaster.

COMPLAINTS & ENFORCEMENT

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall may~~ solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall may~~ specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

- Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only ~~also~~ review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: § 507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed § 881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words "must also" implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

My name is Shannon Huggins and I am a licensed clinical social worker and supervisor in private practice where I treat children and families as well as adults with psychiatric illness. I want to use this opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all social workers in the state. We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help social work professionals meet the many needs of Texans, especially during the time of COVID-19.

2) Licensing Rates - It is disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate has increased. Social workers already struggle with immense backlogs and delays with licensing applications and renewals. As rates have increased, board responsiveness to critical licensing needs has decreased. Suggested Comments on BHEC Rules

- General Provisions

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may ~~only~~ also review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

(d) (pick up from notebook)

Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance. As proposed, §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. Replacing “must also” with “may only” reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

- Complaints and Enforcement

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ ~~may~~ solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ ~~may~~ specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

Rationale: As set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code, each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

- Applications and Licensure

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

(a) The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

Rationale: Improving efficiency and expediting license processing are key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A consolidated report will not provide adequate transparency and detail, given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

- (a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.
- (a)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:
 - (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and
 - (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.
- (c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:
 - (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;
 - (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster;
 - (2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and
 - (3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.
- (bd) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.
- (ee) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.
- (df) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:
 - (1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and
 - (2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~
- (e) ~~For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

- (g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.
- (#h) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:
- (1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;
 - (2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and
 - (3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.
- (gi) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.
- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shed some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. This rule, as published, removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The proposed revision addresses these concerns by codifying current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, they could have the opportunity to be issued an emergency license during a declared disaster.

Good morning,

My name is Anastasia Deeter and I am a Licensed Clinical Social Worker (LCSW). For the past five years I have worked at Texas Children's Hospital providing services to children and families. In my role I often provide crisis intervention, supportive counseling, psychosocial education, case management, and complete a variety of assessments. I also serve on our leadership team and assist with ensuring best patient practices, as well as coordinate all of our social work internship opportunities. In addition, I also serve as a Board Approved Clinical Supervisor.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help the social work workforce meeting the needs of Texans.

Below my signature are a list of specific changes I am recommended and the sections covered. I would also like to highlight two important points.

1. BHEC Discretion re: Emergency License – COVID 19 has shown that social work licensure across states can impact whether someone receives timely mental health treatment. I believe that BHEC should immediately grant a license to someone from another state during the time of a disaster and have the discretion to grant emergency licenses to social workers licensed in other states who are not in good standing at their own discretion.
2. Licensing rates – it is incredibly disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate increased. Social workers already deal with intense backlog with our licensing application and renewal process. For instance, I have one supervisee who is still waiting to hear back from the board on acknowledgement of their completion of LCSW supervision and approval to sit for their exam; it has been nearly four months. The students I work with often report it taking between two to six months, four months appearing to be average, to receive approval to sit for their LMSW examinations. We continue to see licensing rates grow without any changes to show for it. If I am to read the proposed rules correctly, I can assume that my renewal rates as an LCSW-Supervisor will increase by $113 per renewal period, that is over $55 increase per year. We ask that the BHEC rules to keep our rates unchanged.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

Sincerely,

Anastasia

Applications & Licensure

SUBCHAPTER A- License Applications

882.9. Established Application Processing Time

A. The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of the periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

- a. Rationale: One of the key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council is to improve efficiency and to expedite license processing. Collecting data by license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A composite report will not provide adequate and appropriate transparency given historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G- Emergency Temporary License

882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

(a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

~~(e-b)~~ A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

- (1) The Governor declares a disaster under Government Code 418.014; and
- (2) The person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.

(c) the Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

- (1) The Governor declares a disaster under Government Code 418.014;
- (2) The person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under 418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with the Government Code 418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster
- (3) The Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and
- (4) The applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.

~~(b d)~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

~~(e e)~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work with in the disaster designated by the governor.

~~(d f)~~ to be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

- (1) Submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and
- ~~(2)~~ Submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in another jurisdiction and the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.

(e) For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

~~(f h)~~ An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

- (1) Display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiation services with a patient or client;
- (2) Provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and
- (3) Comply with all other applicable Council rules.

~~(g i)~~ There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shown some light on appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The proposed language referring to practical agency discretion is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicting with Government Code 418.117. The suggested language addresses these concerns by codifying the license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, the BHEC would have the ability to provide the person with an emergency license during a declared disaster.

COMPLAINTS & ENFORCEMENT

SUBCHAPTER B- Investigation and disposition of complaints

884.12 Complaint Disposition

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care of ethical practice showed by the licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in 507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practices required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standard therefore must be required to consult with member boards when these issues arise in context of enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays. _

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SUBCHAPTER B- Rulemaking

881.20- Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only ~~also~~ review draft rules proposed by each separate member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns

Rationale: 507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance. As proposed 881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words "must also" implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as the legislative intent.

My name is Ronald W. Prieto and I am a Licensed Clinical Social Worker. I have just retired my position as Director of Case Management from an acute inpatient physical rehabilitation hospital, which I held for the past 20 years. Prior to that, I had ten years experience working in both inpatient and outpatient psychiatric settings. I began my work experiences before there was any licensure by the state of Texas. Thus, I am keenly aware of the need of having an efficient licensing board who is aware of the functions and scope of services for social workers.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. Dear Texas State Board representative,

My name is Carol Ann Ross and I am a licensed social worker. I work for a small group practice that serves individuals, couples and families impacted by addiction.

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

a. The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

(a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

~~(a)(b)~~ A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;

~~(ef)~~ To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

(1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

(2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~

~~(e)~~ ~~For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

~~(g)~~ An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

~~(fh)~~ An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

(1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;

(2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and

(3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

~~(gi)~~ There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shown some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. a. The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

- Rationale: One of the key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council is to improve efficiency and to expedite license processing. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A composite report will not provide adequate and appropriate transparency given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

(a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

(a)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster

(2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and

(3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.

(b)(d) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

(e)(e) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.

(d)(f) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

(1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

(2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~

(e) ~~For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

(f)(h) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

(1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;

(2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and

(3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(g)(i) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shown some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The proposed language removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The suggested language addresses these concerns by codifying would-current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, BHEC would have the ability to provide the person with an emergency license during a declared disaster.

COMPLAINTS & ENFORCEMENT

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

- Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only ~~also~~ review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words "must also" implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

Subject line: Comments on Proposed Rules 22TAC Chapter 881.

My name is Claire Woll and I am a licensed social worker providing counseling and mental health services to children, adolescents and young adults in Texas.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help the social work workforce meeting the needs of Texans.

Below my signature are a list of specific changes I am recommending and the sections covered. I would also like to highlight two important points:

1. BHEC Discretion re: Emergency License – COVID-19 has shown that social work licensure across state lines can impact whether someone receives timely mental health treatment. I believe that BHEC should immediately grant a license to someone from another state during the time of a disaster and have the discretion to grant emergency licenses to social workers licensed in other states who are not in good standing at their own discretion.
2. Licensing Rates: It is disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate increased. Social workers already deal with intense backlog with our licensing application and renewal process. We continue to see licensing rates grow without any change to show for it. We ask that BHEC rules keep our rates unchanged.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

Sincerely,

Claire Woll

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

a. The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

- Rationale: One of the key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council is to improve efficiency and to expedite license processing. - (b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only ~~also~~ review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words "must also" implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

To: open.records@tsbep.texas.gov

My name is Anita Louise Franz, and I am a licensed clinical social worker providing play therapy to children ages 3 - 11.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help the social work workforce meeting the needs of Texans.

Below my signature are a list of specific changes I am recommending and the sections covered. I would also like to highlight two important points:

1. BHEC Discretion re: Emergency License – COVID-19 has shown that social work licensure across state lines can impact whether someone receives timely mental health treatment. I believe that BHEC should immediately grant a license to someone from another state during the time of a disaster and have the discretion to grant emergency licenses to social workers licensed in other states who are not in good standing at their own discretion.
2. Licensing Rates: It is disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate increased. Social workers already deal with intense backlog with our licensing application and renewal process. We continue to see licensing rates grow without any change to show for it. We ask that BHEC rules keep our rates unchanged.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

Sincerely,

Anita Louise Franz, LCSW

APPLICATIONS & LICENSURE

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

a. The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

- Rationale: One of the key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council is to improve efficiency and to expedite license processing. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A composite report will not provide adequate and appropriate transparency given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

~~(a)~~ For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

~~(a)(b)~~ A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster

(2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and

(3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.

~~(b)(d)~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

~~(e)(e)~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.

~~(e)(f)~~ To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

(1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

(2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~

~~(e)~~ For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

~~(g)~~ An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

~~(f)(h)~~ An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

(1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;

(2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and

(3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(gi) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shown some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The proposed language removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The suggested language addresses these concerns by codifying would-current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, BHEC would have the ability to provide the person with an emergency license during a declared disaster.

COMPLAINTS & ENFORCEMENT

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

- Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only ~~also~~ review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words "must also" implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

To Whom it May Concern,

My name is Monica McCarthy I am a Licensed Master Social Worker. I currently work as a Program Specialist to the Texas Section 811 Project-Based Rental Assistance Program, which provides rental assistance to over 400 adults with disabilities and their households, allowing them to live in the community instead of an institution.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

~~(ee)~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.

~~(ef)~~ To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

(1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

(2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.

~~(e)~~ For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

~~(fh)~~ An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

The Council ~~shall~~ may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

(2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~

(e) ~~For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

(fh) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

(1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;

(2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and

(3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(g) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shown some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The proposed language removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The suggested language addresses these concerns by codifying would-current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, BHEC would have the ability to provide the person with an emergency license during a declared disaster.

COMPLAINTS & ENFORCEMENT

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

- Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only ~~also~~ review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words "must also" implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

Suggested Comments on BHEC Rules

- General Provisions

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may ~~only~~ also review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

(d) (pick up from notebook)

Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance. As proposed, §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. Replacing “must also” with “may only” reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

- Complaints and Enforcement

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ ~~may~~ solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ ~~may~~ specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

Rationale: As set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code, each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

- Applications and Licensure

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

(a) The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

Rationale: Improving efficiency and expediting license processing are key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A consolidated report will not provide adequate transparency and detail, given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

- (a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.
- (a)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

 - (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and
 - (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.
- (c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

 - (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;
 - (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster;
 - (2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and
 - (3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.
- (b)d) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.
- (ee) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.
- (df) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

 - (1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and
 - (2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~
- (e) ~~For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

(h) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

- (1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;
- (2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and
- (3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(i) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shed some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. This rule, as published, removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The proposed revision addresses these concerns by codifying current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, they could have the opportunity to be issued an emergency license during a declared disaster.

To: "open.records@tsbep.texas.gov" <open.records@tsbep.texas.gov>

For your consideration regarding the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC), I recommend the following changes:

Regarding 881.20, change "must also" to "may only"; This will better align with 507.153 of the Occupational Code

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council (b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only ~~also~~ review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

Regarding 884.12, Change "may" to "shall"; The member boards are the best source of ethical complaints and have the knowledge of the specific profession. Member boards shall be consulted. I realize this may delay processing, however, it is important to consult the member boards.

§884.12 Complaint Disposition. (c) The Council shall ~~may~~ solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council shall ~~may~~ specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

Regarding 882.70, Please make the changes as recommended by The Texas Counseling Association, National Association of Social Workers - Texas (NASW-TX), Texas Society for Clinical Social Work (TSCSW), the Texas Association of Marriage and Family Therapists (TAMFT) and the Texas Psychological Association (TPA),

These are all outstanding organizations that support the professions of mental health counseling. Heed their recommendations.

Thank you for your consideration.

Warmly,
Rebecca Lincoln, LPC-S #17816

Joe K. Hartsoe <joehartsoe@gmail.com>

To: open.records@tsbep.texas.gov

To Whom It May Concern:

My name is Joseph Hartsoe and I am a social work student who has graduated and waiting for my license to be issued any day. My previous experience and future area of practice is working with youth in the school setting to provide social and emotional support with education to enhance their functioning, increase matriculation, and entrance into the Texas society as contributing members to our communities.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help the social work workforce meeting the needs of Texans.

Below my signature are a list of specific changes I am recommending and the sections covered. I would also like to highlight two important points:

1. BHEC Discretion re: Emergency License – COVID-19 has shown that social work licensure across state lines can impact whether someone receives timely mental health treatment. I believe that BHEC should immediately grant a license to someone from another state during the time of a disaster and have the discretion to grant emergency licenses to social workers licensed in other states who are not in good standing at their own discretion.
2. Licensing Rates: It is disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate increased. Social workers already deal with intense backlog with our licensing application and renewal process. Our profession continue to see licensing rates grow without any change to show for it. I ask that BHEC rules keep our rates unchanged.
 1. The renewal fee on LMSW/LCSW licenses is of particular concern when compared to the renewal fee of LPC's. LMSW practitioners do not have the same independent practice authority as LPC holders but yet, your proposed plan outlines that the two be charged the same rate for their license renewal each cycle.
 2. Further, it is unfortunate to see that LCSW practitioners are required to pay more than LPCs for their license renewal. LCSW's traditionally offer comparable services in psychotherapy and independent practice authority, yet, the board's current proposal state that LCSW's be charged more for their license renewal compared to their LPC colleagues.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

Sincerely,

Joseph Hartsoe

APPLICATIONS & LICENSURE

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

a. The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

- Rationale: One of the key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council is to improve efficiency and to expedite license processing. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A composite report will not provide adequate and appropriate transparency given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

(a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

(a)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster

(2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and

(3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.

(bd) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

(ee) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.

(df) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

(1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

(2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.

(e) ~~For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out of state license, certification, or registration.~~

(g)_____An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

(fh) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

(1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;

(2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and

(3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(gi) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shown some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The proposed language removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The suggested language addresses these concerns by codifying_would-current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes_would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary_flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, BHEC would have the ability to provide the person with an emergency license during a declared disaster.

COMPLAINTS & ENFORCEMENT

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall may~~ solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall may~~ specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

- Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

GENERAL PROVISIONSSUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING*§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only also review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words "must also" implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

Coalition Comments on Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council DRAFT RULES

The mental health professional associations listed above represent Licensed Marriage and Family Therapists, Licensed Professional Counselors, Psychologists and Social Workers. The comments herein reflect our collective efforts to ensure the successful launch and functioning of the newly created Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC).

We appreciate the legislative leadership and thoughtful emphasis on strengthening the mental health infrastructure in Texas and applaud the many hours of implementation work in connection with establishing a well-functioning and responsive BHEC. BHEC is an innovative strategy to create operational efficiencies while maintaining the integrity of the respective member boards' appropriate regulatory authority over what makes each mental health professional licenses unique. The regulatory authority delegated to BHEC is explicitly limited to establishing operational efficiencies and ensuring that any rule promulgated by a member board does not violate federal antitrust laws by limiting competition or impacting prices charged by persons engaged in a profession or business the executive council regulates. This ensures active state supervision while protecting the state's sovereign immunity.

Our associations appreciate the opportunity to participate both informally and formally in the process to adopt the rules that will govern BHEC's operating procedures and relationship with our respective licensing boards. Many of the proposed rules reflect the comments and recommendations delivered by us at your last meeting, but there are additional rules we would respectfully submit for your consideration, such as those allowing for emergency licenses, that reflect the current health crisis and should provide for a much swifter state response in the future.

We welcome your favorable consideration and encourage the agency to adopt the language recommendations listed below to ensure the rules as finally adopted are consistent with Chapter 507 of the Texas Occupations Code, as well as current and best practices.

Applications and Licensure

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

- (a) The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

Rationale: One of the key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating BHEC is to improve efficiency and to expedite license processing. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A composite report will not provide adequate and appropriate transparency given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

- (a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.
- ~~(a)~~(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:
 - (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and
 - (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.
- (c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:
 - (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;
 - (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster;
 - (2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and
 - (3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.
- ~~(b)~~d) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.
- ~~(e)~~e) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.
- ~~(e)~~f) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:
 - (1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

- (2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~
- (e) ~~For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~
- (g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.
- (fh) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:
 - (1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;
 - (2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and
 - (3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.
- (gi) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shed some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The published language removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The suggested new language addresses these concerns by codifying current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, BHEC would have the ability to provide the person with an emergency license during a declared disaster.

Complaints and Enforcement

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12

Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council shall ~~may~~ solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council shall ~~may~~ specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. BHEC does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

General Provisions

SUBCHAPTER A – GENERAL PROVISIONS: Add a new §881.14 as follows:

§881.14 Impartiality and Non-discrimination

- (a) The BHEC board members will make decisions in the discharge of its statutory authority without regard to a person's age, race, religion, ethnicity, sex, gender, affectional orientation, disability, national origin, or genetic information.
- (b) Any BHEC board member who is unable to be impartial in the determination of disciplinary action against a licensee or who is determined to have a conflict of interest as set forth in §881.5 will declare this to the board and will not participate in any board proceedings involving that licensee.
- (c) A person needing accommodations under the Americans with Disabilities Act (42 U.S.C. §12101 et seq.) in order to access BHEC board services must request reasonable accommodations in writing and may be required to provide verification of the person's disability and recommendations for appropriate accommodations from a medical, mental health, rehabilitation, or educational professional or specialist qualified to make such recommendations.

Rationale: Each of the member boards housed at BHEC have similar language currently in their rules. It appears that due to the role BHEC has in issuing licenses and administering the complaint process, those specific rules are being removed as the individual member boards propose rules changes to align with HB 1501 and the creation of BHEC. These protections, however, should be maintained by BHEC. We anticipate that the omission of this important language is an oversight since these rules were developed prior to the rule reviews undertaken by the individual member boards.

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

- (b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only also review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

(d) Member boards must submit a new draft rule or rule change to the Council for consideration by submitting a draft of the rule with any deletions crossed through and additions underlined. The draft must also contain each of the notice components required in a preamble (e.g. §2001.024 of the Government Code) when proposing a new rule or rule change to the Council, member boards must also submit any information or comments received from the public in connection with the proposed rule. The Council shall limit its review of proposed rules to questions regarding anticompetitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by BHEC only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed, §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words “must also” implies that the authority of BHEC to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing “must also” with “may only” reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

RE: Proposed Rules for the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council

Dear Ms. Skiff,

The American Association for Marriage and Family Therapy (AAMFT) thanks you for the opportunity to provide input on the above referenced proposed regulations. AAMFT represents the professional interests of over 62,000 Marriage and Family Therapists (MFTs) in the United States, including Texas.

AAMFT applauds the effort and innovation that has gone into the creation of the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC). We believe that this new structure will create more administrative efficiency, while preserving the authority of member boards to provide their individual expertise in regulating their respective professions. AAMFT largely supports the rules as written by BHEC, though we respectfully request the consideration of small language changes that will preserve the legislative intent behind HB 1501. Please see our suggested changes listed on the second page.

The incorporation of our suggested changes into the proposed rules will simply ensure that member boards retain their authority over their license types using their unique knowledge of their respective professions, while allowing the BHEC to review and monitor for anti-competitive impact and good governance. AAMFT firmly believes that our recommended changes honor the legislative intent behind HB 1501.

We thank you for your commitment to the mental health professions in Texas. If you, members of BHEC, or other staff members would like to request further information from AAMFT or continue this discussion, please contact me at kdavenport@aamft.org or (703) 822-7237. Thank you again for this opportunity to provide comments on the proposed rules for BHEC.

Sincerely,

 Comments on BHEC Proposed Rules_04.24.20.docx

- General Provisions

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only also review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

(d) (pick up from notebook)

Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance. As proposed, §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. Replacing “must also” with “may only” reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

- Complaints and Enforcement

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

Rationale: As set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code, each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

- Applications and Licensure

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.6 Limitations on Number of Examination Attempts

~~(a) An applicant may take an examination administered or required by the Council no more than three times. Failure to pass an examination subject to this rule within three attempts, will result in an automatic denial of an application. The number of examination attempts allowed for applicants will be determined by the member board authorized to set those requirements.~~

Rationale: The examination required for each specific licensure are created using independent norming groups and have varied difficulty levels and expected pass rates. Consequently, each independent licensing board should retain the right to set rules regarding the number of times licensees are allowed to sit for the exams before they are denied application and therefore entrance into the field.

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

(a) The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

Rationale: Improving efficiency and expediting license processing are key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A consolidated report will not provide adequate transparency and detail, given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

(a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

~~(a)~~(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster;

(2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and

(3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.

~~(b)~~(d) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

~~(e)~~(e) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.

~~(f)~~(f) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

- (1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and
- (2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.

~~(e) For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

(fh) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

(1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;

(2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and

(3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(gi) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

• Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shed some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. This rule, as published, removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The proposed revision addresses these concerns by codifying current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, they could have the opportunity to be issued an emergency license during a declared disaster.

For clarity or organization, I recommend changes to §881.21 Petition for Rulemaking as indicated below:

§881.21 Petition for Rulemaking

(a) Any interested person may petition for rulemaking in accordance with §2001.021 of the Government Code by submitting to the Council a written request for the adoption of a rule or rule change. The term "interested person" as used in this rule, shall have the same meaning as that assigned by §2001.021(d) of the Government Code. The written request must contain a return mailing address for the agency's response.

(b) The written request must, at a minimum,

(1) affirmatively show that the requestor qualifies as an interested person under this rule;

(2) set forth or identify the rule the petitioner wants the Council to adopt or change, reasons why the petitioner believes the requested rulemaking is necessary, and include a copy of the proposed rule or any proposed changes with deletions crossed through and additions underlined.

(3) ~~Additionally, the written request must affirmatively show that the requestor qualifies as an interested person under this rule. Requests which do not affirmatively show that the requestor qualifies as an interested person under this rule may be denied.~~

~~(e) The written request should also address the economic cost to persons required to comply with the rule, the effects of the rule on small or micro-businesses or rural communities, and the impact the rule would have on local employment or economies, if such information can be derived from available sources without undue cost or burden; and-~~

(4) include a return mailing address for the agency's response.

~~(c)(d)~~ The Council will respond to a written request for adoption of a rule from an interested person in accordance with §2001.021 of the Government Code.

~~(d)(e) The term "interested person" as used in this rule, shall have the same meaning as that assigned by §2001.021(d) of the Government Code. Additionally, a person who submits a petition under this rule must affirm that they qualify as an interested person in the petition. Petitions which do not contain the minimum requirements specified in subsection (b) an affirmation may be denied.~~

Comments submitted by Jan Friese, Executive Director, Texas Counseling Association
May 24, 2020

The Texas Counseling Association (TCA) respectfully submits the following comments on the proposed rules for the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) as published on April 24, 2020 in 45TexReg2640.

Managing the creation of new rules for a new agency while amending the rules of the member boards housed there is a monumental task. TCA thanks the members and staff of BHEC and the individual boards for their hard work and due diligence.

TCA respectfully requests – in addition to the comments submitted through the Behavioral Health Coalition – consideration of the following amendments. These proposals address what we expect is the unintentional omission of rules regarding non-discrimination, as well as the opportunity for engagement by the member boards on petitions for rulemaking related to licensure, scope of practice, standards of care and ethical practice, as well as CE requirements.

Impartiality and Non-discrimination: Add a new Section 881.14

Three of the four member boards' rules (§681.13(a); §781.312(a); §801.15(a)) include specific language that prohibits discrimination by those boards in licensing and disciplinary decisions. Section 881.5 of the proposed BHEC rules addresses the process for impartiality and the disclosure of potential conflicts of interest in matters that come before the Council. The proposed rules do not include language to specifically address non-discrimination. The non-discrimination language is being removed from the member boards' rules making its inclusion here essential.

TCA recommends a new §881.14 be added to Subchapter A – General Provisions as follows:

§881.14. Impartiality and Non-discrimination

(a) The Council will make decisions in the discharge of its statutory authority without regard to person's age, race, religion, ethnicity, sex, gender, affectional orientation, disability, national origin, or genetic information.

(b) A person needing accommodations under the Americans with Disabilities Act (42 U.S.C. §12101 et seq.) in order to access BHEC board services must request reasonable accommodations in writing and may be required to provide verification of the person's disability and recommendations for appropriate accommodations from a medical, mental health, rehabilitation, or educational professional or specialist qualified to make such recommendations.

Petition for Rulemaking – Amend §881.21(c)

Proposed rule changes for each member board removes the opportunity to submit rulemaking petitions directly to them. Petitions for rulemaking will instead be processed through BHEC. Given that only member boards can adopt rules on license qualification, scope of practice, standards of care, ethical practices and CE requirements,

TCA recommends that petitions for rulemaking relating to those specific items be referred to the appropriate member board for review and consideration prior to any final action by the Council.

TCA recommends an amendment to §881.21(c) as follows

§881.21. Petition for Rulemaking.

(a) Any interested person may petition for rulemaking in accordance with §2001.021 of the Government Code by submitting to the Council a written request for the adoption of a rule or rule change. The written request must contain a return mailing address for the agency's response.

(b) The written request must, at a minimum, set forth or identify the rule the petitioner wants the Council to adopt or change, reasons why the petitioner believes the requested rulemaking is necessary, and include a copy of the proposed rule or any proposed changes with deletions crossed through and additions underlined. Additionally, the written request must affirmatively show that the requestor qualifies as an interested person under this rule. Requests which do not affirmatively show that the requestor qualifies as an interested person under this rule may be denied.

(c) The written request should also address the economic cost to persons required to comply with the rule, the effects of the rule on small or micro-businesses or rural communities, and the impact the rule would have on local employment or economies, if such information can be derived from available sources without undue cost or burden.

(d) Petitions for rulemaking that relate to qualifications for licensure, scope of practice, standards of care, ethical practices or CE requirements will be forwarded by the Executive Director to the appropriate member board for review and consideration. The Council will respond to a written request for adoption of a rule from an interested person in accordance with §2001.021 of the Government Code.

(e) The term "interested person" as used in this rule, shall have the same meaning as that assigned by §2001.021(d) of the Government Code. Additionally, a person who submits a petition under this rule must affirm that they qualify as an interested person in the petition. Petitions which do not contain such an affirmation may be denied.

Thank you for your hard work and consideration of these comments. TCA welcomes the opportunity to work with you for a successful launch of this innovative agency.

My name is Helen Harris and I am a licensed social worker, LCSW-S, #9514. I am a social work educator at the Garland School of Social Work/Baylor University.

Thank you for the opportunity to respond with comments specific to the Behavioral health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. This board and these rules are important to the effective and efficient provision of a social work workforce in Texas.

I have reviewed the draft carefully and have several comments/questions and recommendations and appreciate your willingness to consider these.

1. In times of disaster like we currently experience with COVID-19, is important that licensed social workers from other states be able to quickly receive emergency license to practice.
2. Here are my comments on specific parts of the proposed law with page number and section.
 - Does the rotational nature of board member selection mean that there will be years without a social worker on the board?
 - If the council/board decides on the qualifications for the Executive Director, might that impact the discipline(s) that are elevated or ignored for Executive Director qualifications?
 - 881 Sick leave pool....why are more procedures needed than in the Government Code and Employees Retirement System of Texas etc. p. 15
 - 882.2. Requires a transcript from the accredited institution....directly from the institution.
Current students can take the exam in their last semester of work. Does this eliminate that? P. 21
 - p. 21 #5...SAVE...is this about making sure immigrants aren't getting any entitlements? Why would this be important if they have been students and may have needed help?
 - Currently application for licensure is the ticket to taking the exam. This says you need exam results prior to applying for licensure. How does that work with ASWB? P. 21
 - p. 23. 882.6. Previous licensure rules included provision for the rare student who is unable to pass the exam after three tries because of disabilities related to testing but who meets all other requirements and demonstrates promise as a practitioner. The provision was application to practice for several years under the close supervision of a licensed practitioner who oversees the practice and at the end of the provisional time makes a recommendation regarding the candidate's licensure. In my 40 years of practice I have only worked with one graduate/practitioner who needed this provision but was able to practice successfully under supervision and then with her own license having successfully met the supervised practice requirement. I recommend the council consider this option for the new law.

- p. 43. 882.50-1. Random audits. Each month 10% of the licensees will be selected by an automated process....I assume this means 10% of those due for renewal for that month but this is not clear and suggests that 10% of all licensees would be selected each month indicating that 120% would be audited each year....a burdensome and expensive process.

- p. 46: 882.61 Special Licensing Provisions for Military Spouses. Thank you. Excellent change.

- p. 49. 882.70. Emergency Temporary License

The delay in licensing has been substantial in past years and an emergency temporary license has been available to those waiting for the state to process applications...particularly for those who need a license to secure or retain a job and whose licenses are held up through no fault of their own. I recommend that option for six month emergency temporary license be included.

Thank you again for the opportunity to respond.

Subsection 882.1(1) appears to conflict with subparagraph 885.1(a)(1), presuming the "incorrect fee" in 882.1(1) is "returned to the applicant" along with the application.

§882.1 Application Process

Applications for licensure are processed in the following manner:

(1) Applicants must submit for review an official application form, the corresponding application fee, and all information required by law to the Council. The responsibility for submitting a complete application resides solely with the applicant. An application submitted with the incorrect fee amount will be returned to the applicant.

§885.1 Executive Council Fees

(a) General provisions.

(1) All fees are nonrefundable and cannot be waived except as otherwise permitted by law.

Dear Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council staff,

I am writing to provide feedback on the recently proposed rule. By way of background, I am a Licensed as a Professional Counselor, although in addition to my Master's in Counseling I also hold a Doctorate in Social Work. Having studied in multiple professional disciplines I appreciate the challenge that BHEC has in working with member boards of different backgrounds. After beginning my career with Child Protective Services I transitioned to working for Dallas County Family Court Services providing child custody evaluations and other services. Although I have transitioned from public service to private practice, over the last two decades I have focused on forensic mental health services. In that time I have published articles in academic and professional journals and amongst my academic work I serve on the Editorial Boards of the journal Family Court Review and the Journal of Family Trauma, Child Custody & Child Development. Locally, I have worked with the Family Law Foundation to help draft and pass various pieces of legislation that impact Texas families, including various revisions of Section 107, Subchapter D of the Texas Family Code regarding child custody and adoption evaluations. Thanks to more than a decade of work by the family law and mental health communities, Texas has some of the most rigorous laws in the nation regarding to professional practices and requirements for evaluations.

I appreciate this opportunity to share my thoughts and feedback on the recommended changes. I have outlined specific rules below for ease of review. I want to lead off by clearly noting that I support the passage of these rules, and my feedback is intended to build constructively from what has been proposed. It is critical to both licensees and the public that these initial rules be passed in a timely manner; hopefully my feedback is helpful as future iterations develop, refine, and improve regulations for behavioral health professionals in Texas.

From the Texas Register, April 24,2020 issue:

§882.1 "Application process" subsection (3) proposes standards regarding application timeframes that give concern for arbitrary differences drawn between member board types. There appears to be no explanation in the proposed rules as to why one of the licensee types is given only 90 days to complete applications, where the other licensee types have one year. It appears best that there be a single administrative standard regarding application timeframes provides equitable treatment of licensees from all member boards.

§882.30 “Display of License” subsection (b) proposes different standards regarding licensees of different member boards. This again causes concern regarding disparate treatment without any apparent explanation in the proposed rules as to why two of the licensee types may meet this requirement through an alternative method, but the licensees of the other two member boards cannot. As with the issue noted above, it again appears best if there was a single administrative standard applicable toward all licensees.

§882.32. “Duty to Update Name and Address” subsection (a) appears to require a licensee to be responsible for ensuring adequate record keeping for the licensing boards and Executive Council. It has been my experience that member boards seem to struggle to track submissions and process administrative paperwork in a timely fashion. To more clearly reflect the apparent intent of this rule it should be modified for the last sentence to read “It is the responsibility of the individual to provide agency the correct contact information for that individual.” A licensee can demonstrate they have provided information, they cannot make sure the agency does the right thing with it.

§882.36. “Compliance with State and Federal Law” seems to omit Family Code Chapters 104 and 107, both of which have provisions applicable to licensees of all member boards. While such forensic services are rarer, all licensees should be required to comply with all laws of the State of Texas. I fear without specifically naming these Family Code sections BHEC may run the risk that this goal will not be enforceable.

§882.50. “Continuing Education and Audits” subsection (b)(1) causes some significant concerns. An audit each month of 10% of all licensees will mean that, across the course of a year, essentially every licensee will be sampled (statistically many will be sampled more than once, with an outside chance some will not be sampled at all). This seems likely to create an unnecessary burden. It appears one option would be for BHEC to instead require annual submission of continuing education information if the goal is truly to audit at such a level. It may be this section was intended to establish a random audit, in any given year, of 10% of all licensees which seems like a far more reasonable process, and a simple edit is required.

§884.3. “Special Requirements for Complaints Alleging Violations Related to Court Ordered Evaluations” is a section that has been needed for some time and I am pleased to see this included. The proposed changes should be adopted, and I am hopeful that future updates to rules can go further in addressing the complex adversarial nature of working with court-involved clients in areas other than evaluative work.. That said, it also appears some of these rules set an overly-high bar in some circumstances for clients who have been harmed by licensees.

In this difficult task BHEC should be commended for taking this first step to protect the public by insuring that competent forensic mental health professionals will be available when needed by court-involved clients. Too often complaints are used as “preemptive attacks” against professionals not because they have committed a licensing violation but because the litigating client is attempting to gain some sort of strategic advantage in court. The cost of such a scorched earth approach to litigation (in time, effort, and expense) drives many competent professionals to avoid any type of interaction with court-connected clients. This has the knock-on result of creating a shortage of well-trained professionals willing to take on forensic work, forcing some clients to seek out subpar providers and the subpar work they perform. In order to ensure the public has access to quality providers willing to work with court-connected clients I am hopeful in the future BHEC will expand these rules to apply to all licensees working under court appointment.

That said, I am also hopeful in the future BHEC will look at expanding the options, particularly under Subsection (f), for client complaints to be heard as I fear what has been proposed currently may be overly restrictive. As someone who has served as an expert witness in scores of hearings, including many cases reviewing the work of court-appointed evaluators, in my experience it is very rare to see a court disqualify or strike an expert after having appointed them. Even when the expert has blatantly failed to meet not just the standard of care, but basic requirements set out in the Family Code and court appointment order, this impacts the weight the court gives to the expert rather than resulting in disqualification. When courts permit an expert to correct a defect by supplementing a report (a common cure when there is a deficiency found) or otherwise mitigating their errors, this does not remove the expert's failure to meet their ethical duty to have performed a competent job the first time around.

At a minimum I believe the language found in proposed 884.5(a) regarding a court finding of violation or other deficiency by the licensee should be incorporated as one of the possible criteria under Subsection (f). This, and other future additions, should maintain a focus on the appropriate primary location for litigants to address issues with experts – the court where their case is being heard – while providing better options to protect the public when there is a true error worthy of a licensing complaint.

✓ §884.12 “Complaint Disposition” is section I believe should be modified to require that BHEC shall solicit input from its member boards, rather than “may” do so. §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code, each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. From my understanding, BHEC was not developed to have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards, and I believe therefore must be required to consult with the member boards regarding such issues.

I again appreciate all your hard work and effort on behalf of the citizens of Texas and those of us licensed to serve them. Even if my suggested revisions are not immediately possible, I encourage BHEC to pass the rules as drafted and implement updates in a subsequent iterations.

Sincerely,

The requirement in 882.2(a)(5) appears to unnecessarily add to an applicant's burden of documenting qualifications, arbitrarily increase staff's application review workload, and may inadvertently hinder application by military service member, military veteran, or military spouse. Please consider the following deletion of 882.2(a)(5).

§882.2 General Application File Requirements

(a) To be complete, an application file must contain all information needed to determine an applicant's eligibility to sit for the required examinations, or the information and examination results needed to determine an applicant's eligibility for licensure. At a minimum, all applications for licensure must contain:

~~-(5) Verification of the citizenship and immigration status information of non-citizen, naturalized, or derived U.S. citizen applicants through the DHS-USCIS Systematic Alien Verification for Entitlements Program (SAVE). Applicants must submit the documentation and information required by the SAVE program to the Council;~~

My name is Helen Harris and I am a licensed social worker, LCSW-S, #9514. I am a social work educator at the Garland School of Social Work/Baylor University.

Thank you for the opportunity to respond with comments specific to the Behavioral health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. This board and these rules are important to the effective and efficient provision of a social work workforce in Texas.

I have reviewed the draft carefully and have several comments/questions and recommendations and appreciate your willingness to consider these.

1. In times of disaster like we currently experience with COVID-19, is important that licensed social workers from other states be able to quickly receive emergency license to practice.
2. Here are my comments on specific parts of the proposed law with page number and section.

- Does the rotational nature of board member selection mean that there will be years without a social worker on the board?
- If the council/board decides on the qualifications for the Executive Director, might that impact the discipline(s) that are elevated or ignored for Executive Director qualifications?
- 881 Sick leave pool....why are more procedures needed than in the Government Code and Employees Retirement System of Texas etc. p. 15
- 882.2. Requires a transcript from the accredited institution....directly from the institution.

Current students can take the exam in their last semester of work. Does this eliminate that? P. 21

- p. 21 #5...SAVE...is this about making sure immigrants aren't getting any entitlements? Why would this be important if they have been students and may have needed help?
- Currently application for licensure is the ticket to taking the exam. This says you need exam results prior to applying for licensure. How does that work with ASWB? P. 21
- p. 23. 882.6. Previous licensure rules included provision for the rare student who is unable to pass the exam after three tries because of disabilities related to testing but who meets all other requirements and demonstrates promise as a practitioner. The provision was application to practice for several years under the close supervision of a licensed practitioner who oversees the practice and at the end of the provisional time makes a recommendation regarding the candidate's licensure. In my 40 years of practice I have only worked with one graduate/practitioner who needed this provision but was able to practice successfully under supervision and then with her own license having successfully met the supervised practice requirement. I recommend the council consider this option for the new law.

- p. 43. 882.50-1. Random audits. Each month 10% of the licensees will be selected by an automated process....I assume this means 10% of those due for renewal for that month but this is not clear and suggests that 10% of all licensees would be selected each month indicating that 120% would be audited each year....a burdensome and expensive process.

- p. 46: 882.61 Special Licensing Provisions for Military Spouses. Thank you. Excellent change.

- p. 49. 882.70. Emergency Temporary License

The delay in licensing has been substantial in past years and an emergency temporary license has been available to those waiting for the state to process applications...particularly for those who need a license to secure or retain a job and whose licenses are held up through no fault of their own. I recommend that option for six month emergency temporary license be included.

Thank you again for the opportunity to respond.

For clarity and to include possible denial of examination, please consider changes to §882.3 Review and Appeal of License Denials as indicated below:

§882.3 Review and Appeal of License Denials

(a) An appellant whose application for examination or licensure has been denied by staff or committee, must submit a written request to the Council for review by the member board so it is received on or before the 30th day after the date on staff's or committee's denial letter. If an application for licensure is denied at the staff or committee level, the applicant will have 30 days from the date of denial as shown on the letter to submit a written request to the Council for review by the member board. The written request must be received on or before the 30th day following the date of denial for the request to be timely. If a timely written request for review is not made, the denial is final.

(1) Upon receipt of a timely written request for review by the member board, the Council shall schedule the requested review by the member board.

(2) A written request for review by the member board received after the 30th day will not be granted and the denial is final.

(b) An appellant whose application for examination or licensure has been denied by a member board, must submit a written request to the Council for a hearing at SOAH so it is received on or before the 30th day after the date on the member board's denial letter. If an application for licensure is denied by a member board, the applicant will have 30 days from the date of denial as shown on the letter to submit a written request to the Council for a hearing at SOAH. The Council must receive the written request on or before the 30th day following the date of denial for the request to be timely. If a timely request is made, the Council shall refer the contested case to SOAH for a hearing. If a timely written request is not made, the denial is final.

(1) Upon receipt of a timely written request for a hearing at SOAH, the Council shall refer the contested case to SOAH for a hearing.

(2) A written request for a hearing at SOAH received after the 30th day will not be granted and the denial is final.

(c) The Council shall render a final decision on an application for examination or licensure based upon the record following an appeal at SOAH. The final decision shall be in writing and shall be signed by the presiding officer for the Council or the Executive Director.

For clarity, please consider changes to §882.6 Limitation on Number of Examination Attempts as indicated below:

§882.6 Limitation on Number of Examination Attempts

(a) An applicant may take an examination administered or required by the Council no more than three times.

Failure to pass an examination subject to this rule within three attempts, will result in an automatic denial of an application.

(b) An applicant whose application is denied under this rule may reapply for licensure, but will not be allowed or approved to sit for the exam again until the applicant has submitted a detailed study plan designed to address the known or suspected areas of deficiency.

(1) The study plan must be approved by the relevant member board; and

(2) The applicant must submit proof of successfully completing the board-approved study plan before staff may approve up to three more exam attempts, before authorization will be given to retake the examination.

(c) Examinations which do not require pre-authorization by the Council to take, are not subject to this rule.

Comments on BHEC Proposed Rules_04.24.20.docx

• General Provisions

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only also review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

(d) (pick up from notebook)

Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance. As proposed, §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. Replacing “must also” with “may only” reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

• Complaints and Enforcement

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council shall ~~may~~ solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council shall ~~may~~ specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

Rationale: As set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code, each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

• Applications and Licensure

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.6 Limitations on Number of Examination Attempts

~~(a) An applicant may take an examination administered or required by the Council no more than three times. Failure to pass an examination subject to this rule within three attempts, will result in an automatic denial of an application. The number of examination attempts allowed for applicants will be determined by the member board authorized to set those requirements.~~

Rationale: The examination required for each specific licensure are created using independent norming groups and have varied difficulty levels and expected pass rates. Consequently, each independent licensing board should retain the right to set rules regarding the number of times licensees are allowed to sit for the exams before they are denied application and therefore entrance into the field.

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

(a) The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

Rationale: Improving efficiency and expediting license processing are key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A consolidated report will not provide adequate transparency and detail, given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

(a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

~~(a)~~(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster;

(2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and

(3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.

~~(b)~~(d) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

~~(e)~~(e) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.

~~(f)~~(f) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

- (1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and
- (2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~

~~(e) For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

(h) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

- (1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;
- (2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and
- (3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(i) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

• Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shed some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. This rule, as published, removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The proposed revision addresses these concerns by codifying current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, they could have the opportunity to be issued an emergency license during a declared disaster.

Suggested Comments on BHEC Rules

- General Provisions

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only also review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

(d) (pick up from notebook)

Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance. As proposed, §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. Replacing “must also” with “may only” reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

- Complaints and Enforcement

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council shall ~~may~~ solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council shall ~~may~~ specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

Rationale: As set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code, each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

- Applications and Licensure

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

(a) The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

Rationale: Improving efficiency and expediting license processing are key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A consolidated report will not provide adequate transparency and detail, given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

- (a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.
- (a)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:
 - (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and
 - (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.
- (c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:
 - (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;
 - (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; ~~the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster;~~
 - (2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and
 - (3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.
- (bd) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.
- (ee) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.
- (df) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:
 - (1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and
 - (2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~
- (e) For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is ~~not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

(fh) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

- (1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;
- (2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and
- (3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(gi) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shed some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. This rule, as published, removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The proposed revision addresses these concerns by codifying current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, they could have the opportunity to be issued an emergency license during a declared disaster.

Please implement the suggested changes to the rules on establishing BHEC.

Suggested Comments on BHEC Rules

In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council must may only also review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

Suggested Comments on BHEC Rules • General Provisions SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING §881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council (b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council must may onlyalso review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns. (d) (pick up from notebook) Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance. As proposed, §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent. • Complaints and Enforcement SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS §884.12 Complaint Disposition. (c) The Council shall may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council shall may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule. Rationale: As set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code, each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays. • Applications and Licensure SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS §882.9. Established Application Processing Time (a) The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis. Rationale: Improving efficiency and expediting license processing are key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A consolidated report will not provide adequate transparency and detail, given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category. SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE §882.70. Emergency Temporary License. (a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration. (a)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if: (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state. (c) The Council shall may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if: (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster; (2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and (3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below. (bd) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first. (ce) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor. (df) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must: (1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and (2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing. (e) For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration. (g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date. (fh) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must: (1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client; (2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and (3) comply with all other applicable Council rules. (gi) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license. • Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shed some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. This rule, as published, removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The proposed revision addresses these concerns by codifying current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, they could have the opportunity to be issued an emergency license during a declared disaster.

(a)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.

Reply-To: Jenifer McLuskie <jmcluskie@sbcglobal.net>

To: "open.records@tsbep.texas.gov" <open.records@tsbep.texas.gov>

My name is Jenifer McLuskie I am a licensed social worker (LMSW) and I am a supervisor of four caseworkers who all work within social services to help undocumented children who have left immigration detention facilities and one caseworker who assists families who have exited family or other immigration detention facilities as they seek asylum in the United States.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help the social work workforce meeting the needs of Texans.

Below my signature are a list of specific changes I am recommending and the sections covered. I would also like to highlight two important points:

1. BHEC Discretion re: Emergency License – COVID-19 has shown that social work licensure across state lines can impact whether someone receives timely mental health treatment. I believe that BHEC should immediately grant a license to someone from another state during the time of a disaster and have the discretion to grant emergency licenses to social workers licensed in other states who are not in good standing at their own discretion.
2. Licensing Rates: It is disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate increased. Social workers already deal with intense backlog with our licensing application and renewal process. We continue to see licensing rates grow without any change to show for it. We ask that BHEC rules keep our rates unchanged.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

Sincerely,

Jenifer McLuskie, LMSW (Texas) and LGSW (District of Columbia)

APPLICATIONS & LICENSURE
SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS
§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

a. The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

- Rationale: One of the key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council is to improve efficiency and to expedite license processing. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A composite report will not provide adequate and appropriate transparency given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

(a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

(a)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster

(2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and

(3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.

(b)d) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

(ee) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.

(ef) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

(1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

(2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.

(e) For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

(fh) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

(1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;

- (2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and
- (3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.
- (g) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shown some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The proposed language removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The suggested language addresses these concerns by codifying would-current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, BHEC would have the ability to provide the person with an emergency license during a declared disaster.

COMPLAINTS & ENFORCEMENT

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

- Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only ~~also~~ review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words "must also" implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

My name is Jennifer Vasquez and I am a licensed clinical social worker and PhD social work student. I am a full time Lecturer at Texas State School of Social Work and part time Lecturer at Lady of the Lake University School of Social Work.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help the social work workforce meeting the needs of Texans.

Below my signature are a list of specific changes I am recommending and the sections covered. I would also like to highlight two important points:

1. BHEC Discretion re: Emergency License – COVID-19 has shown that social work licensure across state lines can impact whether someone receives timely mental health treatment. I believe that BHEC should immediately grant a license to someone from another state during the time of a disaster and have the discretion to grant emergency licenses to social workers licensed in other states who are not in good standing at their own discretion.
2. Licensing Rates: It is disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate increased. Social workers already deal with intense backlog with our licensing application and renewal process. We continue to see licensing rates grow without any change to show for it. We ask that BHEC rules keep our rates unchanged.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Vasquez, LCSW

APPLICATIONS & LICENSURE

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

a. The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

- Rationale: One of the key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council is to improve efficiency and to expedite license processing. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A composite report will not provide adequate and appropriate transparency given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

(a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

(a)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster

(2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and

(3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.

(bd) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

1. BHEC Discretion re: Emergency License – COVID-19 has shown that social work licensure across state lines can impact whether someone receives timely mental health treatment. I believe that BHEC should immediately grant a license to someone from another state during the time of a disaster and have the discretion to grant emergency licenses to social workers licensed in other states who are not in good standing at their own discretion.
2. Licensing Rates: It is disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate increased. Social workers already deal with intense backlog with our licensing application and renewal process. We continue to see licensing rates grow without any change to show for it. We ask that BHEC rules keep our rates unchanged.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

Sincerely,

Domenica Domingue

APPLICATIONS & LICENSURE

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

a. The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

- Rationale: One of the key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council is to improve efficiency and to expedite license processing. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A composite report will not provide adequate and appropriate transparency given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

~~(a)~~ For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

~~(e)(b)~~ A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster

(2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and

(3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.

~~(bd)~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

~~(ee)~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.

~~(ef)~~ To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

(1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

(2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.

~~(e)~~ For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

~~(g)~~ An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

~~(fh)~~ An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

(1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;

(2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and

(3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(g) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shown some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The proposed language removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The suggested language addresses these concerns by codifying would-current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, BHEC would have the ability to provide the person with an emergency license during a declared disaster.

COMPLAINTS & ENFORCEMENT

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

- Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only ~~also~~ review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words "must also" implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

My name is Naomi Freireich and I am a licensed social worker. I have a private practice in Austin and work with adults and adolescents struggling with mental health issues.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help the social work workforce meeting the needs of Texans.

ADVOCACY ALERT – Improve the Licensing Board!

Submit Comments before May 22, 2020

The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) established in HB 1501 (86R) will become fully operational on September 1, 2020. All behavioral health licensing boards – including the Texas State Board of Social Work Examiners – will be housed at BHEC which will be responsible for the administrative management of each board, including processing licenses, managing complaints, and overall operations.

The proposed rules are extensive because they establish all functions for a brand new state agency. It is essential that these rules be carefully vetted to ensure they align with the legislative intent of HB 1501 and preserve the authority of each independent licensing board housed at BHEC.

The National Association of Social Workers - Texas (NASW-TX) along with the Texas Society for Clinical Social Work (TSCSW), the Texas Counseling Association (TCA), the Texas Association of Marriage and Family Therapists (TAMFT) and the Texas Psychological Association (TPA), was provided a preview of the proposed rules and an opportunity to provide stakeholder input at the December BHEC meeting. Many of our suggestions were adopted and are reflected in the published rules. However, several important revisions were not made, including licensure fees.

NASW/TX, in partnership with TCA, TSCSW, TAMFT and TPA, did a thorough review of the published rules and will be submitting a unified statement requesting additional, important changes.

We need your help!

A large volume of comments is needed. It is essential that all licensees review the proposed rules and submit comments.

The proposed rules were published in the April 24, 2020 issue of the Texas Register.

Please feel free to use the email template at the end of this email as well as any other revisions that you identify.

My name is Susan Harnden, I am a Licensed Clinical Social Worker at the University of Texas at Austin Employee Assistance Program. I serve the employees of the university.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help the social work workforce meeting the needs of Texans.

We continue to see licensing rates grow without any change to show for it. We ask that BHEC rules keep our rates unchanged.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

(fh) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

- (1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;

As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. My name is Laurie Stephens, LMSW-IPR and I am a hospice social worker in the Houston area.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help the social work workforce meeting the needs of Texans.

Below my signature are a list of specific changes I am recommending and the sections covered. I would also like to highlight two important points:

1. BHEC Discretion re: Emergency License – COVID-19 has shown that social work licensure across state lines can impact whether someone receives timely mental health treatment. I believe that BHEC should immediately grant a license to someone from another state during the time of a disaster and have the discretion to grant emergency licenses to social workers licensed in other states who are not in good standing at their own discretion.
2. Licensing Rates: It is disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate increased. Social workers already deal with intense backlog with our licensing application and renewal process. We continue to see licensing rates grow without any change to show for it. We ask that BHEC rules keep our rates unchanged.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

Sincerely,

Laurie Stephens, LMSW-IPR

APPLICATIONS & LICENSURE

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

a. The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

- Rationale: One of the key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council is to improve efficiency and to expedite license processing. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A composite report will not provide adequate and appropriate transparency given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

(a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

~~(a)(b)~~ A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster

(2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and

(3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.

~~(bd)~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

~~(ee)~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.

~~(df)~~ To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

(1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

(2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~

~~(e)~~ For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

~~(g)~~ An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

~~(fh)~~ An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

(1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;

(2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and

(3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(e) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shown some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The proposed language removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The suggested language addresses these concerns by codifying would-current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, BHEC would have the ability to provide the person with an emergency license during a declared disaster.

COMPLAINTS & ENFORCEMENT

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

- Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only ~~also~~ review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words "must also" implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

My name is Jennifer Canning and I am a social work student.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help the social work workforce meeting the needs of Texans.

Below my signature are a list of specific changes I am recommending and the sections covered. I would also like to highlight two important points:

1. BHEC Discretion re: Emergency License – COVID-19 has shown that social work licensure across state lines can impact whether someone receives timely mental health treatment. I believe that BHEC should immediately grant a license to someone from another state during the time of a disaster and have the discretion to grant emergency licenses to social workers licensed in other states who are not in good standing at their own discretion.
2. Licensing Rates: It is disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate increased. Social workers already deal with intense backlog with our licensing application and renewal process. We continue to see licensing rates grow without any change to show for it. We ask that BHEC rules keep our rates unchanged.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Canning

APPLICATIONS & LICENSURE

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

a. The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

- Rationale: One of the key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council is to improve efficiency and to expedite license processing. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A composite report will not provide adequate and appropriate transparency given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

(a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

(a)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster

(2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and

(3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.

(b) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

(e) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.

(e) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

(1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

(2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~

(e) ~~For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

(f) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

(1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;

(2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and

(3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(g) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shown some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The proposed language removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The suggested language addresses these concerns by codifying current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, BHEC would have the ability to provide the person with an emergency license during a declared disaster.

Please consider making the following changes to the proposed rules for the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council

General Provisions SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING §881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council (b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council must may only also review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns. (d) (pick up from notebook)

Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance. As proposed, §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent. • Complaints and Enforcement

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS §884.12 Complaint Disposition. (c) The Council shall may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council shall may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule. Rationale: As set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code, each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays. • Applications and Licensure

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS §882.9. Established Application Processing Time (a) The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis. Rationale: Improving efficiency and expediting license processing are key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A consolidated report will not provide adequate transparency and detail, given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category. SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY

TEMPORARY LICENSE §882.70. Emergency Temporary License. (a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration. (a)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if: (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state. (c) The Council shall may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if: (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster; (2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and (3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below. (bd) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first. (ce) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor. (df) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must: (1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and (2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing. (e) For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration. (g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date. (fh) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must: (1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client; (2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and (3) comply with all other applicable Council rules. (gi) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license. • Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shed some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. This rule, as published, removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The proposed revision addresses these concerns by codifying current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

(c) The Council ~~shall may~~ solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall may~~ specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

- Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must may only also~~ review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words "must also" implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

Hello,

My name is Nancy Jo Long and I have a masters in social work and I am a candidate for licensure in the State of Texas.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help the social work workforce meeting the needs of Texans.

Below my signature are a list of specific changes I am recommending and the sections covered. I would also like to highlight two important points:

1. BHEC Discretion re: Emergency License – COVID-19 has shown that social work licensure across state lines can impact whether someone receives timely mental health treatment. I believe that BHEC should immediately grant a license to someone from another state during the time of a disaster and have the discretion to grant emergency licenses to social workers licensed in other states who are not in good standing at their own discretion.
2. Licensing Rates: It is disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate increased. Social workers already deal with intense backlog with our licensing application and renewal process. We continue to see licensing rates grow without any change to show for it. We ask that BHEC rules keep our rates unchanged.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

Sincerely,

Nancy Jo Long

APPLICATIONS & LICENSURE

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

a. The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

- Rationale: One of the key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council is to improve efficiency and to expedite license processing. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A composite report will not provide adequate and appropriate transparency given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

(a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

(a)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster

(2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and

(3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.

(b)(d) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

(e) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.

(d)(f) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

(1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

(2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.

(e) ~~For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

(f)(h) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

(1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;

(2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and

(3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(g)(i) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shown some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The proposed language removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The suggested language addresses these concerns by codifying would-current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, BHEC would have the ability to provide the person with an emergency license during a declared disaster.

COMPLAINTS & ENFORCEMENT

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

- Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. - Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. Suggested Comments on BHEC Rules

- General Provisions

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only also review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

(d) (pick up from notebook)

Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance. As proposed, §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. Replacing “must also” with “may only” reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

- Complaints and Enforcement

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall may~~ solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall may~~ specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

Rationale: As set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code, each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

- Applications and Licensure

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

(a) The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

Rationale: Improving efficiency and expediting license processing are key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A consolidated report will not provide adequate transparency and detail, given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

- (a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not ~~Current~~ disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.
- (~~a~~)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:
 - (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and
 - (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.
- (c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:
 - (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;
 - (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; ~~the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster;~~
 - (2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and
 - (3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.
- (~~b~~d) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.
- (~~e~~e) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.
- (~~d~~f) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:
 - (1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and
 - (2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~
- (e) ~~For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

(h) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

- (1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;
- (2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and
- (3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(i) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shed some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. This rule, as published, removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The proposed revision addresses these concerns by codifying current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, they could have the opportunity to be issued an emergency license during a declared disaster.

The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, BHEC would have the ability to provide the person with an emergency license during a declared disaster.

COMPLAINTS & ENFORCEMENT

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council shall may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council shall may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

- Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council must may only also review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words “must also” implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing “must also” with “may only” reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

My name is MaryAnn Brooks Kildebeck, LCSW, and I am a licensed social worker/social work student.
Optional: provide details about your job position and the clients you serve.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help the social work workforce meeting the needs of Texans.

Below my signature are a list of specific changes I am recommending and the sections covered. I would also like to highlight two important points:

1. BHEC Discretion re: Emergency License – COVID-19 has shown that social work licensure across state lines can impact whether someone receives timely mental health treatment. I believe that BHEC should immediately grant a license to someone from another state during the time of a disaster and have the discretion to grant emergency licenses to social workers licensed in other states who are not in good standing at their own discretion.
2. Licensing Rates: It is disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate increased. Social workers already deal with intense backlog with our licensing application and renewal process. We continue to see licensing rates grow without any change to show for it. We ask that BHEC rules keep our rates unchanged.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

Sincerely,

NAME

APPLICATIONS & LICENSURE

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

a. The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

- Rationale: One of the key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council is to improve efficiency and to expedite license processing. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A composite report will not provide adequate and appropriate transparency given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

~~(a)~~ For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

~~(a)(b)~~ A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster

(2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and

(3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.

~~(bd)~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

~~(ee)~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.

~~(df)~~ To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

(1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

(2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.

~~(e)~~ For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

~~(g)~~ An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

~~(fh)~~ An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

(1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;

(2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and

(3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(g) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shown some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The proposed language removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The suggested language addresses these concerns by codifying would-current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, BHEC would have the ability to provide the person with an emergency license during a declared disaster.

~~(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.~~

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

~~(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;~~

~~(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster~~

(2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and

(3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.

~~(bd)~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

~~(ee)~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.

~~(efi)~~ To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

(1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

(2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~

~~(e) For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

~~(fh)~~ An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

(1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;

- (2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and
- (3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.
- (g) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shown some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The proposed language removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The suggested language addresses these concerns by codifying current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, BHEC would have the ability to provide the person with an emergency license during a declared disaster.

COMPLAINTS & ENFORCEMENT

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

- Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only ~~also~~ review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words "must also" implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

Comments on BHEC Rules

• General Provisions

SUBCHAPTER B - RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only ~~also~~ review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance. As proposed, §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

• Complaints and Enforcement

SUBCHAPTER B - INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council shall ~~may~~ solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council shall ~~may~~ specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

Rationale: As set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code, each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

• Applications and Licensure

SUBCHAPTER A - LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

(a) The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

Rationale: Improving efficiency and expediting license processing are key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A consolidated report will not provide adequate transparency and detail, given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G §882.70.

- EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

Emergency Temporary License.

(a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

~~(a)~~ (b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;

~~(d)~~ (f) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

(1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

(2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction. ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~

~~(e)~~ For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

~~(f)~~ (h) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

(1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;

(3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

To: "open.records@tsbep.texas.gov" <open.records@tsbep.texas.gov>

My name is Emma Taylor and I am an LCSW. I work as a therapist for children and adolescents with chronic illnesses, and I am also a faculty member and lecturer in an MSW program.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help the social work workforce meeting the needs of Texans.

Below my signature are a list of specific changes I am recommending and the sections covered. I would also like to highlight two important points:

1. BHEC Discretion re: Emergency License – COVID-19 has shown that social work licensure across state lines can impact whether someone receives timely mental health treatment. I believe that BHEC should immediately grant a license to someone from another state during the time of a disaster and have the discretion to grant emergency licenses to social workers licensed in other states who are not in good standing at their own discretion.
2. Licensing Rates: It is disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate increased. Social workers already deal with intense backlog with our licensing application and renewal process. We continue to see licensing rates grow without any change to show for it. We ask that BHEC rules keep our rates unchanged.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

Sincerely,

Emma Taylor, LCSW

a. The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

- Rationale: One of the key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council is to improve efficiency and to expedite license processing. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A composite report will not provide adequate and appropriate transparency given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

(a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

~~(a)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:~~

(3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.

~~(b)d)~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

~~(e) For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

~~(f)h)~~ An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

(1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;

(2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and

(3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(gi) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

COMPLAINTS & ENFORCEMENT

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

- Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only also review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words "must also" implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

To: "open.records@tsbep.texas.gov" <open.records@tsbep.texas.gov>

Good afternoon,

My name is Ann Marie Haney, and I am a licensed clinical social worker. I provide outpatient behavioral health services at Hope Clinic, a Federally Qualified Health Center in Waxahachie, TX. We serve patients regardless of their ability to pay, providing increased access to care for our community.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help the social work workforce meeting the needs of Texans.

Below my signature are a list of specific changes I am recommending and the sections covered. I would also like to highlight two important points:

1. BHEC Discretion re: Emergency License – COVID-19 has shown that social work licensure across state lines can impact whether someone receives timely mental health treatment. I believe that BHEC should immediately grant a license to someone from another state during the time of a disaster and have the discretion to grant emergency licenses to social workers licensed in other states who are not in good standing at their own discretion.
2. Licensing Rates: It is disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate increased. Social workers already deal with intense backlog with our licensing application and renewal process. We continue to see licensing rates grow without any change to show for it. We ask that BHEC rules keep our rates unchanged.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

Sincerely,

Ann Marie Haney, LCSW

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shown some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The proposed language removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The suggested language addresses these concerns by codifying would-current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, BHEC would have the ability to provide the person with an emergency license during a declared disaster.

COMPLAINTS & ENFORCEMENT

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

- (c) The Council ~~shall~~ may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

- Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

- (b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only ~~also~~ review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words "must also" implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

My name is Dr. Mary Joanne Kraus and I am a licensed clinical social worker.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help the social work workforce meeting the needs of Texans.

I would like to highlight two important points:

1. BHEC Discretion re: Emergency License – COVID-19 has shown that social work licensure across state lines can impact whether someone receives timely mental health treatment. I believe that BHEC should immediately grant a license to someone from another state during the time of a disaster and have the discretion to grant emergency licenses to social workers licensed in other states who are not in good standing at their own discretion.
2. Licensing Rates: It is disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate increased. Social workers already deal with intense backlog with our licensing application and renewal process. We continue to see licensing rates grow without any change to show for it. We ask that BHEC rules keep our rates unchanged.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

Sincerely,

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

a. The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

- Rationale: One of the key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council is to improve efficiency and to expedite license processing. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A composite report will not provide adequate and appropriate transparency given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

(3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(gj) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shown some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. §884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall may~~ solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall may~~ specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

- Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. To Whom It May Concern:

My name is Shannon Huggins and I am a licensed clinical social worker and supervisor in private practice where I treat children and families as well as adults with psychiatric illness. I appreciate being able to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use this opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all social workers in the state. We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help social work professionals meet the many needs of Texans, especially during the time of COVID-19.

Below my signature are a list of specific changes I am recommending and the sections covered. I would also like to highlight two important points.

1) BHEC Discretion re: Emergency License - COVID-19 has shown that social work licensure across state lines can impact whether someone receives timely mental health treatment. I believe that BHEC should immediately grant a license to someone from another state during the time of a disaster and have the discretion to grant emergency licenses to social workers licensed in other states who are not in good standing.

2) Licensing Rates - It is disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate has increased. Social workers already struggle with immense backlogs and delays with licensing applications and renewals. As rates have increased, board responsiveness to critical licensing needs has decreased. I ask that BHEC rules keep social work licensing rates unchanged.

Thank you for allowing me to provide feedback on the BHEC rules. I look forward to working together to improve board processes for social work licensure.

Sincerely,
 Shannon Huggins, LCSW-S, BCD

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

(a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

~~(a)(b)~~ A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;

(2) ~~the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster~~

(2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and

(3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.

~~(b)(d)~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

~~(e)(e)~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.

~~(e)(f)~~ To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

(1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

(2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~

~~(e)~~ For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

~~(g)~~ An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

~~(f)(h)~~ An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

(1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;

(2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and

(3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

~~(e)(i)~~ There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shown some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The proposed language removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The suggested language addresses these concerns by codifying would-current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, BHEC would have the ability to provide the person with an emergency license during a declared disaster.

COMPLAINTS & ENFORCEMENT

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

- Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may ~~only also~~ review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words “must also” implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing “must also” with “may only” reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

To Whom it May Concern,

As a proud member of the Texas Counseling Association, I am very passionate about promoting professional counselors. Please consider my proposed comments in the attached document.

Our fellow Texans deserve access to mental health workers, especially when the mental health needs increase as the impact of this epidemic continues.

Suggested Comments on BHEC Rules

- General Provisions

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may ~~only~~also review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

(d) (pick up from notebook)

Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance. As proposed, §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. Replacing “must also” with “may only” reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

- Complaints and Enforcement

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council shall ~~may~~ solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council shall ~~may~~ specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

Rationale: As set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code, each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

- Applications and Licensure

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

(a) The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

Rationale: Improving efficiency and expediting license processing are key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A consolidated report will not provide adequate transparency and detail, given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

- (a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.
- (a)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:
 - (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and
 - (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.
- (c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:
 - (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;
 - (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster;
 - (2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and
 - (3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.
- (bd) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.
- (ee) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.
- (df) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:
 - (1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and
 - (2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~
- (e) ~~For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

(fh) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

- (1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;
- (2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and
- (3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(gi) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shed some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. This rule, as published, removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The proposed revision addresses these concerns by codifying current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, they could have the opportunity to be issued an emergency license during a declared disaster.

To: "open.records@tsbep.texas.gov" <open.records@tsbep.texas.gov>

Thu, May 7, 2020 at 11:33 AM

Good morning,

My name is Anastasia Deeter and I am a Licensed Clinical Social Worker (LCSW). For the past five years I have worked at Texas Children's Hospital providing services to children and families. In my role I often provide crisis intervention, supportive counseling, psychosocial education, case management, and complete a variety of assessments. I also serve on our leadership team and assist with ensuring best patient practices, as well as coordinate all of our social work internship opportunities. In addition, I also serve as a Board Approved Clinical Supervisor.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help the social work workforce meeting the needs of Texans.

Below my signature are a list of specific changes I am recommended and the sections covered. I would also like to highlight two important points.

1. BHEC Discretion re: Emergency License – COVID 19 has shown that social work licensure across states can impact whether someone receives timely mental health treatment. I believe that BHEC should immediately grant a license to someone from another state during the time of a disaster and have the discretion to grant emergency licenses to social workers licensed in other states who are not in good standing at their own discretion.
2. Licensing rates – it is incredibly disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate increased. Social workers already deal with intense backlog with our licensing application and renewal process. For instance, I have one supervisee who is still waiting to hear back from the board on acknowledgement of their completion of LCSW supervision and approval to sit for their exam; it has been nearly four months. The students I work with often report it taking between two to six months, four months appearing to be average, to receive approval to sit for their LMSW examinations. We continue to see licensing rates grow without any changes to show for it. If I am to read the proposed rules correctly, I can assume that my renewal rates as an LCSW-Supervisor will increase by $113 per renewal period, that is over $55 increase per year. We ask that the BHEC rules to keep our rates unchanged.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

Sincerely,

Anastasia

(e) For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

~~(f h)~~ An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

(1) Display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiation services with a patient or client;

The Council ~~shall~~ may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in 507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practices required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standard therefore must be required to consult with member boards when these issues arise in context of enforcement matters. My name is Ronald W. Prieto and I am a Licensed Clinical Social Worker. I have just retired my position as Director of Case Management from an acute inpatient physical rehabilitation hospital, which I held for the past 20 years. Prior to that, I had ten years experience working in both inpatient and outpatient psychiatric settings. I began my work experiences before there was any licensure by the state of Texas. Thus, I am keenly aware of the need of having an efficient licensing board who is aware of the functions and scope of services for social workers.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help the social work workforce meeting the needs of Texans.

We continue to see licensing rates grow without any change to show for it. We ask that BHEC rules keep our rates unchanged.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

a. The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A composite report will not provide adequate and appropriate transparency given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

(a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

(a)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster

(2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and

(3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.

(bd) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

(ee) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.

(ef) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

(1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

(2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~

(e) ~~For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

(fh) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

(1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;

(2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and

(3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(g) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shown some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The proposed language removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The suggested language addresses these concerns by codifying ~~would~~-current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, BHEC would have the ability to provide the person with an emergency license during a declared disaster.

COMPLAINTS & ENFORCEMENT

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ ~~may~~ solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ ~~may~~ specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

- Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ ~~may~~ ~~only~~ ~~also~~ review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words "must also" implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader than

Dear Texas State Board representative,

My name is Carol Ann Ross and I am a licensed social worker. I work for a small group practice that serves individuals, couples and families impacted by addiction.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help the social work workforce meeting the needs of Texans.

Below my signature are a list of specific changes I am recommending and the sections covered. I would also like to highlight two important points:

1. BHEC Discretion re: Emergency License – COVID-19 has shown that social work licensure across state lines can impact whether someone receives timely mental health treatment. I believe that BHEC should immediately grant a license to someone from another state during the time of a disaster and have the discretion to grant emergency licenses to social workers licensed in other states who are not in good standing at their own discretion.
2. Licensing Rates: It is disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate increased. Social workers already deal with intense backlog with our licensing application and renewal process. We continue to see licensing rates grow without any change to show for it. We ask that BHEC rules keep our rates unchanged.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

Sincerely,

Carol Ann Ross, LMSW, CSAT, CMAT

APPLICATIONS & LICENSURE

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

a. The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

- Rationale: One of the key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council is to improve efficiency and to expedite license processing. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A composite report will not provide adequate and appropriate transparency given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

(a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

(a)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster

(2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and

(3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.

~~(bd)~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

~~(ee)~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.

~~(df)~~ To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

(1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

(2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~

~~(e)~~ ~~For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

~~(g)~~ An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

~~(fh)~~ An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

(1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;

(2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and

(3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

~~(gi)~~ There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shown some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The proposed language removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The suggested language addresses these concerns by codifying ~~would-current~~ practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes ~~would~~ require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary ~~flexibility~~ to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, BHEC would have the ability to provide the person with an emergency license during a declared disaster.

COMPLAINTS & ENFORCEMENT

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ ~~may~~ solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ ~~may~~ specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

- Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ ~~may only~~ ~~also~~ review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words "must also" implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. ~~(ee)~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.

~~(ef)~~ To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

(1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

(2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~

~~(e) For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

~~(g)~~ An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

~~(fh)~~ An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

(1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;

(2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and

(3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(gi) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shown some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The proposed language removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The suggested language addresses these concerns by codifying ~~would~~current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes ~~would~~ require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, BHEC would have the ability to provide the person with an emergency license during a declared disaster.

COMPLAINTS & ENFORCEMENT

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

- Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only also review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words "must also" implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed.

My name is Virginia D. Manuel, LMSW-AP and I am a licensed social worker. In my 43 years of practice, I have always worked in public or non-profit organizations which serve the lowest income individuals in Texas.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help the social work workforce meeting the needs of Texans.

Below my signature are a list of specific changes I am recommending and the sections covered. I would also like to highlight two important points:

1. BHEC Discretion re: Emergency License – COVID-19 has shown that social work licensure across state lines can impact whether someone receives timely mental health treatment. I believe that BHEC should immediately grant a license to someone from another state during the time of a disaster and have the discretion to grant emergency licenses to social workers licensed in other states who are not in good standing at their own discretion.
2. Licensing Rates: It is disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate increased. Social workers already deal with intense backlog with our licensing application and renewal process. We continue to see licensing rates grow without any change to show for it. We ask that BHEC rules keep our rates unchanged.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

Sincerely,

Virginia D. Manuel, LMSW-AP

APPLICATIONS & LICENSURE

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

a. The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

- Rationale: One of the key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council is to improve efficiency and to expedite license processing. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A composite report will not provide adequate and appropriate transparency given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

(a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

(a)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster

(2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and

(3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.

(bd) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

(ee) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.

(df) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

(1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

(2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~

(e) ~~For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

(fh) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

(1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;

(2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and

(3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(g) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shown some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The proposed language removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The suggested language addresses these concerns by codifying current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, BHEC would have the ability to provide the person with an emergency license during a declared disaster.

The Council ~~shall~~ may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

- Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. Improving the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC)

Monica McCarthy <mrmccarthy4@gmail.com>

To Whom it May Concern,

My name is Monica McCarthy I am a Licensed Master Social Worker. I currently work as a Program Specialist to the Texas Section 811 Project-Based Rental Assistance Program, which provides rental assistance to over 400 adults with disabilities and their households, allowing them to live in the community instead of an institution.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help the social work workforce meeting the needs of Texans.

Below my signature are a list of specific changes I am recommending and the sections covered. I would also like to highlight two important points:

2. Licensing Rates: It is disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate increased. Social workers already deal with intense backlog with our licensing application and renewal process. We continue to see licensing rates grow without any change to show for it. We ask that BHEC rules keep our rates unchanged.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

APPLICATIONS & LICENSURE

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

a. The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

- Rationale: One of the key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council is to improve efficiency and to expedite license processing. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A composite report will not provide adequate and appropriate transparency given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

(a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

(a)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster

(2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and

(3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.

(bd) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

(ee) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.

(ef) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

(1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

(2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~

(e) ~~For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

(fh) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

(1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;

(2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and

(3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(gi) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shown some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The proposed language removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The suggested language addresses these concerns by codifying would-current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, BHEC would have the ability to provide the person with an emergency license during a declared disaster.

COMPLAINTS & ENFORCEMENT

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

- Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only ~~also~~ review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words "must also" implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

1. BHEC Discretion re: Emergency License – COVID-19 has shown that social work licensure across state lines can impact whether someone receives timely mental health treatment. I believe that BHEC should immediately grant a license to someone from another state during the time of a disaster and have the discretion to grant emergency licenses to social workers licensed in other states who are not in good standing at their own discretion.
2. Licensing Rates: It is disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate increased. Social workers already deal with intense backlog with our licensing application and renewal process. We continue to see licensing rates grow without any change to show for it. We ask that BHEC rules keep our rates unchanged.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

APPLICATIONS & LICENSURE

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

a. The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

- Rationale: One of the key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council is to improve efficiency and to expedite license processing. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A composite report will not provide adequate and appropriate transparency given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

~~(a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

~~(a)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:~~

~~(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and~~

~~(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.~~

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

~~(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;~~

~~(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster~~

(2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and

(3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.

~~(b)d~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

~~(e)g~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.

~~(d)f~~ To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

(1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

(2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~

~~(e) For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

~~(g)_____~~ An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

~~(f)h~~ An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

(1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;

- (2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and
- (3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.
- (g) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shown some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The proposed language removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The suggested language addresses these concerns by codifying would-current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, BHEC would have the ability to provide the person with an emergency license during a declared disaster.

COMPLAINTS & ENFORCEMENT

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

- Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only ~~also~~ review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words "must also" implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

Suggested Comments on BHEC Rules

- General Provisions

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only also review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

(d) (pick up from notebook)

Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance. As proposed, §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. Replacing “must also” with “may only” reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

- Complaints and Enforcement

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

Rationale: As set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code, each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

- Applications and Licensure

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

(a) The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

Rationale: Improving efficiency and expediting license processing are key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A consolidated report will not provide adequate transparency and detail, given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

- (a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.
- ~~(a)~~(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:
 - (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and
 - (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.
- (c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:
 - (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;
 - (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster;
 - (2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and
 - (3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.
- ~~(b)~~(d) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.
- ~~(e)~~(e) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.
- ~~(d)~~(f) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:
 - (1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and
 - (2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~
- (e) ~~For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

(h) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

- (1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;
- (2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and
- (3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(i) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shed some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. This rule, as published, removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The proposed revision addresses these concerns by codifying current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, they could have the opportunity to be issued an emergency license during a declared disaster.

Joe K. Hartsoe <joehartsoe@gmail.com>

Thu, May 21, 2020 at 10:16 AM

To: open.records@tsbep.texas.gov

To Whom It May Concern:

My name is Joseph Hartsoe and I am a social work student who has graduated and waiting for my license to be issued any day. My previous experience and future area of practice is working with youth in the school setting to provide social and emotional support with education to enhance their functioning, increase matriculation, and entrance into the Texas society as contributing members to our communities.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help the social work workforce meeting the needs of Texans.

Below my signature are a list of specific changes I am recommending and the sections covered. I would also like to highlight two important points:

1. BHEC Discretion re: Emergency License – COVID-19 has shown that social work licensure across state lines can impact whether someone receives timely mental health treatment. I believe that BHEC should immediately grant a license to someone from another state during the time of a disaster and have the discretion to grant emergency licenses to social workers licensed in other states who are not in good standing at their own discretion.
2. Licensing Rates: It is disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate increased. Social workers already deal with intense backlog with our licensing application and renewal process. Our profession continue to see licensing rates grow without any change to show for it. I ask that BHEC rules keep our rates unchanged.
 1. The renewal fee on LMSW/LCSW licenses is of particular concern when compared to the renewal fee of LPC's. LMSW practitioners do not have the same independent practice authority as LPC holders but yet, your proposed plan outlines that the two be charged the same rate for their license renewal each cycle.
 2. Further, it is unfortunate to see that LCSW practitioners are required to pay more than LPCs for their license renewal. LCSW's traditionally offer comparable services in psychotherapy and independent practice authority, yet, the board's current proposal state that LCSW's be charged more for their license renewal compared to their LPC colleagues.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

Sincerely,

Joseph Hartsoe

COMPLAINTS & ENFORCEMENT

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall may~~ solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall may~~ specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

- Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

GENERAL PROVISIONSSUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING*§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only also review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words "must also" implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

Coalition Comments on Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council DRAFT RULES

The mental health professional associations listed above represent Licensed Marriage and Family Therapists, Licensed Professional Counselors, Psychologists and Social Workers. The comments herein reflect our collective efforts to ensure the successful launch and functioning of the newly created Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC).

We appreciate the legislative leadership and thoughtful emphasis on strengthening the mental health infrastructure in Texas and applaud the many hours of implementation work in connection with establishing a well-functioning and responsive BHEC. BHEC is an innovative strategy to create operational efficiencies while maintaining the integrity of the respective member boards' appropriate regulatory authority over what makes each mental health professional licenses unique. The regulatory authority delegated to BHEC is explicitly limited to establishing operational efficiencies and ensuring that any rule promulgated by a member board does not violate federal antitrust laws by limiting competition or impacting prices charged by persons engaged in a profession or business the executive council regulates. This ensures active state supervision while protecting the state's sovereign immunity.

Our associations appreciate the opportunity to participate both informally and formally in the process to adopt the rules that will govern BHEC's operating procedures and relationship with our respective licensing boards. Many of the proposed rules reflect the comments and recommendations delivered by us at your last meeting, but there are additional rules we would respectfully submit for your consideration, such as those allowing for emergency licenses, that reflect the current health crisis and should provide for a much swifter state response in the future.

We welcome your favorable consideration and encourage the agency to adopt the language recommendations listed below to ensure the rules as finally adopted are consistent with Chapter 507 of the Texas Occupations Code, as well as current and best practices.

Applications and Licensure

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

- (a) The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

Rationale: One of the key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating BHEC is to improve efficiency and to expedite license processing. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A composite report will not provide adequate and appropriate transparency given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

- (a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.
- ~~(a)~~(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:
 - (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and
 - (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.
- (c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:
 - (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;
 - (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster;
 - (2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and
 - (3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.
- ~~(b)~~(d) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.
- ~~(e)~~(e) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.
- ~~(d)~~(f) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:
 - (1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

- (2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~
- (e) ~~For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~
- (g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.
- (fh) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:
 - (1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;
 - (2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and
 - (3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.
- (gi) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shed some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The published language removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The suggested new language addresses these concerns by codifying current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, BHEC would have the ability to provide the person with an emergency license during a declared disaster.

Complaints and Enforcement

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12

Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. BHEC does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

General Provisions

SUBCHAPTER A – GENERAL PROVISIONS: Add a new §881.14 as follows:

§881.14 Impartiality and Non-discrimination

- (a) The BHEC board members will make decisions in the discharge of its statutory authority without regard to a person's age, race, religion, ethnicity, sex, gender, affectional orientation, disability, national origin, or genetic information.
- (b) Any BHEC board member who is unable to be impartial in the determination of disciplinary action against a licensee or who is determined to have a conflict of interest as set forth in §881.5 will declare this to the board and will not participate in any board proceedings involving that licensee.
- (c) A person needing accommodations under the Americans with Disabilities Act (42 U.S.C. §12101 et seq.) in order to access BHEC board services must request reasonable accommodations in writing and may be required to provide verification of the person's disability and recommendations for appropriate accommodations from a medical, mental health, rehabilitation, or educational professional or specialist qualified to make such recommendations.

Rationale: Each of the member boards housed at BHEC have similar language currently in their rules. It appears that due to the role BHEC has in issuing licenses and administering the complaint process, those specific rules are being removed as the individual member boards propose rules changes to align with HB 1501 and the creation of BHEC. These protections, however, should be maintained by BHEC. We anticipate that the omission of this important language is an oversight since these rules were developed prior to the rule reviews undertaken by the individual member boards.

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

- (b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only also review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

(d) Member boards must submit a new draft rule or rule change to the Council for consideration by submitting a draft of the rule with any deletions crossed through and additions underlined. The draft must also contain each of the notice components required in a preamble (e.g. §2001.024 of the Government Code) when proposing a new rule or rule change to the Council, member boards must also submit any information or comments received from the public in connection with the proposed rule. The Council shall limit its review of proposed rules to questions regarding anticompetitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by BHEC only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed, §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words “must also” implies that the authority of BHEC to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing “must also” with “may only” reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

- General Provisions

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only also review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

(d) (pick up from notebook)

Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance. As proposed, §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. Replacing “must also” with “may only” reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

- Complaints and Enforcement

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

Rationale: As set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code, each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

- Applications and Licensure

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.6 Limitations on Number of Examination Attempts

~~(a) An applicant may take an examination administered or required by the Council no more than three times. Failure to pass an examination subject to this rule within three attempts, will result in an automatic denial of an application. The number of examination attempts allowed for applicants will be determined by the member board authorized to set those requirements.~~

Rationale: The examination required for each specific licensure are created using independent norming groups and have varied difficulty levels and expected pass rates. Consequently, each independent licensing board should retain the right to set rules regarding the number of times licensees are allowed to sit for the exams before they are denied application and therefore entrance into the field.

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

(a) The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

Rationale: Improving efficiency and expediting license processing are key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A consolidated report will not provide adequate transparency and detail, given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

(a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

~~(a)~~(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster;

(2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and

(3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.

~~(b)~~(d) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

~~(e)~~(e) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.

~~(f)~~(f) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

(1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

(2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.

~~(e) For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

(fh) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

(1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;

(2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and

(3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(gi) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

• Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shed some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. This rule, as published, removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The proposed revision addresses these concerns by codifying current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, they could have the opportunity to be issued an emergency license during a declared disaster.

To whom it may concern,

Good morning. My name is Mikayla Knight and I am a licensed social worker. I am a Social Services Director at a Nursing and Rehabilitation facility in College Station, serving our community's vulnerable older adults, ensuring they rehab successfully and have a good quality of life as they live in our facility.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help the social work workforce meeting the needs of Texans.

Below my signature are a list of specific changes I am recommending and the sections covered. I would also like to highlight two important points:

1. BHEC Discretion re: Emergency License – COVID-19 has shown that social work licensure across state lines can impact whether someone receives timely mental health treatment. I believe that BHEC should immediately grant a license to someone from another state during the time of a disaster and have the discretion to grant emergency licenses to social workers licensed in other states who are not in good standing at their own discretion.
2. Licensing Rates: It is disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate increased. Social workers already deal with intense backlog with our licensing application and renewal process. We continue to see licensing rates grow without any change to show for it. We ask that BHEC rules keep our rates unchanged.
3. Licensing Times: As already mentioned, social workers experience extreme backlog on the licensing application and renewal process. This delay in timeliness results in loss of income, loss of opportunity, and also loss in motivation to pursue social work employment. We also ask that BHEC address timeliness issues when granting new licenses and renewals, as this directly hurts our vulnerable populations who need social workers.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

Sincerely,

Mikayla Knight, (she/her/hers), LMSW

For consistency with Texas Occupations Code Sec. 502.252(b)(7), which disqualifies an applicant who has "had a license or certification revoked by a licensing agency or by a certifying professional organization," please consider changes to §882.22 Reinstatement of a License as indicated below:

§882.22 Reinstatement of a License

(a) A person whose license has expired or been retired, ~~revoked~~, or resigned, may apply for reinstatement of the license. A person seeking re-licensure must apply for reinstatement, rather than applying for a new license.

(1) A person whose license was issued under Texas Occupations Code Chapters 501, 503, or 505 and subsequently revoked, may apply for reinstatement of the license.

(2) A person who has had a license or certification revoked by a licensing agency is disqualified from applying for reinstatement or licensure under Texas Occupations Code, Chapter 502.

§881.13. Conduct and Decorum. (Would strike all three provisions)

- (a) ~~Persons having business with or interacting with the Council, member boards, or agency staff shall conduct themselves with proper dignity, courtesy, and respect. Disorderly or disruptive conduct will not be tolerated. (This does not define "dignity, courtesy, and respect. All of which, can vary by cultural orientation. This is too vague)~~
- (b) ~~The presiding officers for the Council and member boards may, in their own discretion, exclude from a meeting or proceeding, a person who, with intent to prevent or disrupt an agency meeting or proceeding, obstructs or interferes with the meeting or proceeding by physical action or verbal utterance. A person excluded under this rule may be excluded for the remainder of the meeting or proceeding or for a shorter period of time as is deemed just and reasonable by the presiding officer. (This restricts a citizen's right to participate based on undefined terms)~~
- (c) ~~Conduct or language directed at agency officials or staff by applicants or licensees that a reasonable person would find abusive or threatening is considered unprofessional conduct and may serve as grounds for a Council-initiated complaint and disciplinary action. (Too much discretion to act based on an undefined criteria)~~

§882.26. Authorized Practice of Psychology Without a License.

- (a) Notwithstanding Rule §882.23 of the chapter, the activities or services described in §501.004 of the Psychologists' Licensing Act are exempt from the Council's jurisdiction and do not require a license.
- (b) The activity or service of a post-doctoral fellow or resident in psychology is exempt from the Council's jurisdiction pursuant to §501.004(a)(2) of the Psychologists' Licensing Act if all of the following criteria are met:
- (1) The person is enrolled in a formal post-doctoral program that is:
 - (A) accredited by the American Psychological Association (APA) or is a member of the Association of Psychology Postdoctoral and Internship Centers (APPIC); or
 - (B) substantially equivalent to a program described in subparagraph (A) of this paragraph;
 - (2) The activities or services take place under qualified supervision and are part of the formal post-doctoral program; and
 - (3) The person is designated as a psychological intern or trainee, or by another title that clearly indicates the person's training status.
- (c) A formal post-doctoral program which meets the following criteria will be considered substantially equivalent to an APA accredited or APPIC member program:

(1) An organized experience with a planned and programmed sequence of supervised training experiences.

(2) A designated psychologist responsible for the program who possesses expertise or competence in the program's area.

(3) ~~Two or more~~ At least one licensed psychologists on staff, at least one designated as supervisor with expertise in area of practice. A designated supervisor may be the only psychologist on staff. (Having at least two psychologists on staff guarantees no greater learning than one. Improves access to healthcare for citizens if an internship can occur in a program that only has one supervisor on staff and that person may supervise post-doctoral training through creating opportunity for more internships. It does not eliminate the need for the training program to be formal. As originally written, this limits opportunities for post-doctoral training)

(4) A minimum of 2 hours per week of face-to-face supervision. (effective supervision can occur through the use of technology assisted interactions)

The increased costs are of concern: The council is raising the cost across all licensees to cover costs generated specifically by the Psychology Board. The Psychology specific expenses should stay contained within those licensees.

This proposed rule will increase application fees for the following license types: Licensed Baccalaureate Social Worker (LBSW) and Licensed Master Social Worker (LMSW) applications will increase by $29; Licensed Clinical Social Worker (LCSW) applications will increase by $29; Social Worker supervisor status applications will increase by $30; initial Licensed Marriage and Family Therapist (LMFT) associate applications will increase by $29; LMFT by endorsement applications will increase by $31; LMFT supervisor status applications will increase by $30; Licensed Professional Counselor (LPC), LPC intern, and provisional license applications will increase by $31; and LPC supervisor status applications will decrease by $50. This proposed rule will increase renewal fees for the following license types: LBSW and LMSW renewal applications will increase by $61; LMSW advanced practitioner and LCSW renewal applications will increase by $63; LMFT and LMFT associate renewal applications will increase by $11; LPC renewal applications will increase by $41; LPC supervisor status renewal applications will decrease by $50; and Licensed Specialist in School Psychology renewal applications will increase by $21. This proposed rule will create a new fee for the renewal of supervisor status for social workers which will be $50.

Dear Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council staff,

I am writing to provide feedback on the recently proposed rule. By way of background, I am a Licensed as a Professional Counselor, although in addition to my Master's in Counseling I also hold a Doctorate in Social Work. Having studied in multiple professional disciplines I appreciate the challenge that BHEC has in working with member boards of different backgrounds. After beginning my career with Child Protective Services I transitioned to working for Dallas County Family Court Services providing child custody evaluations and other services. Although I have transitioned from public service to private practice, over the last two decades I have focused on forensic mental health services. In that time I have published articles in academic and professional journals and amongst my academic work I serve on the Editorial Boards of the journal Family Court Review and the Journal of Family Trauma, Child Custody & Child Development. Locally, I have worked with the Family Law Foundation to help draft and pass various pieces of legislation that impact Texas families, including various revisions of Section 107, Subchapter D of the Texas Family Code regarding child custody and adoption evaluations. Thanks to more than a decade of work by the family law and mental health communities, Texas has some of the most rigorous laws in the nation regarding to professional practices and requirements for evaluations.

I appreciate this opportunity to share my thoughts and feedback on the recommended changes. I have outlined specific rules below for ease of review. I want to lead off by clearly noting that I support the passage of these rules, and my feedback is intended to build constructively from what has been proposed. It is critical to both licensees and the public that these initial rules be passed in a timely manner; hopefully my feedback is helpful as future iterations develop, refine, and improve regulations for behavioral health professionals in Texas.

From the Texas Register, April 24,2020 issue:

§882.1 "Application process" subsection (3) proposes standards regarding application timeframes that give concern for arbitrary differences drawn between member board types. There appears to be no explanation in the proposed rules as to why one of the licensee types is given only 90 days to complete applications, where the other licensee types have one year. It appears best that there be a single administrative standard regarding application timeframes provides equitable treatment of licensees from all member boards.

§882.30 “Display of License” subsection (b) proposes different standards regarding licensees of different member boards. This again causes concern regarding disparate treatment without any apparent explanation in the proposed rules as to why two of the licensee types may meet this requirement through an alternative method, but the licensees of the other two member boards cannot. As with the issue noted above, it again appears best if there was a single administrative standard applicable toward all licensees.

§882.32. “Duty to Update Name and Address” subsection (a) appears to require a licensee to be responsible for ensuring adequate record keeping for the licensing boards and Executive Council. It has been my experience that member boards seem to struggle to track submissions and process administrative paperwork in a timely fashion. To more clearly reflect the apparent intent of this rule it should be modified for the last sentence to read “It is the responsibility of the individual to provide agency the correct contact information for that individual.” A licensee can demonstrate they have provided information, they cannot make sure the agency does the right thing with it.

§882.36. “Compliance with State and Federal Law” seems to omit Family Code Chapters 104 and 107, both of which have provisions applicable to licensees of all member boards. While such forensic services are rarer, all licensees should be required to comply with all laws of the State of Texas. I fear without specifically naming these Family Code sections BHEC may run the risk that this goal will not be enforceable.

§882.50. “Continuing Education and Audits” subsection (b)(1) causes some significant concerns. An audit each month of 10% of all licensees will mean that, across the course of a year, essentially every licensee will be sampled (statistically many will be sampled more than once, with an outside chance some will not be sampled at all). This seems likely to create an unnecessary burden. It appears one option would be for BHEC to instead require annual submission of continuing education information if the goal is truly to audit at such a level. It may be this section was intended to establish a random audit, in any given year, of 10% of all licensees which seems like a far more reasonable process, and a simple edit is required.

§884.3. “Special Requirements for Complaints Alleging Violations Related to Court Ordered Evaluations” is a section that has been needed for some time and I am pleased to see this included. The proposed changes should be adopted, and I am hopeful that future updates to rules can go further in addressing the complex adversarial nature of working with court-involved clients in areas other than evaluative work.. That said, it also appears some of these rules set an overly-high bar in some circumstances for clients who have been harmed by licensees.

In this difficult task BHEC should be commended for taking this first step to protect the public by insuring that competent forensic mental health professionals will be available when needed by court-involved clients. Too often complaints are used as “preemptive attacks” against professionals not because they have committed a licensing violation but because the litigating client is attempting to gain some sort of strategic advantage in court. The cost of such a scorched earth approach to litigation (in time, effort, and expense) drives many competent professionals to avoid any type of interaction with court-connected clients. This has the knock-on result of creating a shortage of well-trained professionals willing to take on forensic work, forcing some clients to seek out subpar providers and the subpar work they perform. In order to ensure the public has access to quality providers willing to work with court-connected clients I am hopeful in the future BHEC will expand these rules to apply to all licensees working under court appointment.

That said, I am also hopeful in the future BHEC will look at expanding the options, particularly under Subsection (f), for client complaints to be heard as I fear what has been proposed currently may be overly restrictive. As someone who has served as an expert witness in scores of hearings, including many cases reviewing the work of court-appointed evaluators, in my experience it is very rare to see a court disqualify or strike an expert after having appointed them. Even when the expert has blatantly failed to meet not just the standard of care, but basic requirements set out in the Family Code and court appointment order, this impacts the weight the court gives to the expert rather than resulting in disqualification. When courts permit an expert to correct a defect by supplementing a report (a common cure when there is a deficiency found) or otherwise mitigating their errors, this does not remove the expert's failure to meet their ethical duty to have performed a competent job the first time around.

At a minimum I believe the language found in proposed 884.5(a) regarding a court finding of violation or other deficiency by the licensee should be incorporated as one of the possible criteria under Subsection (f). This, and other future additions, should maintain a focus on the appropriate primary location for litigants to address issues with experts – the court where their case is being heard – while providing better options to protect the public when there is a true error worthy of a licensing complaint.

✓ §884.12 “Complaint Disposition” is section I believe should be modified to require that BHEC shall solicit input from its member boards, rather than “may” do so. §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code, each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. From my understanding, BHEC was not developed to have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards, and I believe therefore must be required to consult with the member boards regarding such issues.

I again appreciate all your hard work and effort on behalf of the citizens of Texas and those of us licensed to serve them. Even if my suggested revisions are not immediately possible, I encourage BHEC to pass the rules as drafted and implement updates in a subsequent iterations.

Sincerely,

For clarity, please consider changes to §882.40 Criminal History Background Checks as indicated below. As published, (d) appears to contradict (b). As published, it seems that (c) allows a licensee to complete renewal solely on receipt of DPS and FBI reports and is not required to complete other renewal requirements.

§882.40 Criminal History Background Checks

(a) Before the Council will issue a license, an applicant must undergo a fingerprint-based criminal history record check.

(b) The Council may require a licensee to obtain an updated fingerprint-based criminal history record check at any time.

(c) A licensee who was not required to undergo a fingerprint based criminal history record check as a condition of licensure, must undergo a fingerprint based criminal history check if directed by the Council as a condition for renewal of a license. A licensee must ~~may~~ fulfill all other renewal requirements; in additions ~~but~~ a report must be received by the Council from the Texas Department of Public Safety and the Federal Bureau of Investigation before a license will be renewed.

~~(d) Applicants and licensees who hold a license issued by the Council or one of its member boards and who underwent a fingerprint-based criminal history record check as part of the licensing process for that license, do not need to undergo another check.~~

For clarity, please consider changes to §882.50 Continuing Education and Audits as indicated below:

§882.50 Continuing Education and Audits

(a) Unless the Council has approved inactive status for a licensee as described in §882.21, all All persons issued a license by the Council are obligated to continue their professional education by completing a minimum amount of continuing education during each renewal period that they hold a license from this agency. The specific continuing education requirements for a license holder will be determined by the member board authorized to set those requirements.

Dear Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council staff,

I am writing to provide feedback on the recently proposed rule. By way of background, I am a Licensed as a Professional Counselor, although in addition to my Master's in Counseling I also hold a Doctorate in Social Work. Having studied in multiple professional disciplines I appreciate the challenge that BHEC has in working with member boards of different backgrounds. After beginning my career with Child Protective Services I transitioned to working for Dallas County Family Court Services providing child custody evaluations and other services. Although I have transitioned from public service to private practice, over the last two decades I have focused on forensic mental health services. In that time I have published articles in academic and professional journals and amongst my academic work I serve on the Editorial Boards of the journal Family Court Review and the Journal of Family Trauma, Child Custody & Child Development. Locally, I have worked with the Family Law Foundation to help draft and pass various pieces of legislation that impact Texas families, including various revisions of Section 107, Subchapter D of the Texas Family Code regarding child custody and adoption evaluations. Thanks to more than a decade of work by the family law and mental health communities, Texas has some of the most rigorous laws in the nation regarding to professional practices and requirements for evaluations.

I appreciate this opportunity to share my thoughts and feedback on the recommended changes. I have outlined specific rules below for ease of review. I want to lead off by clearly noting that I support the passage of these rules, and my feedback is intended to build constructively from what has been proposed. It is critical to both licensees and the public that these initial rules be passed in a timely manner; hopefully my feedback is helpful as future iterations develop, refine, and improve regulations for behavioral health professionals in Texas.

From the Texas Register, April 24,2020 issue:

§882.1 "Application process" subsection (3) proposes standards regarding application timeframes that give concern for arbitrary differences drawn between member board types. There appears to be no explanation in the proposed rules as to why one of the licensee types is given only 90 days to complete applications, where the other licensee types have one year. It appears best that there be a single administrative standard regarding application timeframes provides equitable treatment of licensees from all member boards.

§882.30 “Display of License” subsection (b) proposes different standards regarding licensees of different member boards. This again causes concern regarding disparate treatment without any apparent explanation in the proposed rules as to why two of the licensee types may meet this requirement through an alternative method, but the licensees of the other two member boards cannot. As with the issue noted above, it again appears best if there was a single administrative standard applicable toward all licensees.

§882.32. “Duty to Update Name and Address” subsection (a) appears to require a licensee to be responsible for ensuring adequate record keeping for the licensing boards and Executive Council. It has been my experience that member boards seem to struggle to track submissions and process administrative paperwork in a timely fashion. To more clearly reflect the apparent intent of this rule it should be modified for the last sentence to read “It is the responsibility of the individual to provide agency the correct contact information for that individual.” A licensee can demonstrate they have provided information, they cannot make sure the agency does the right thing with it.

§882.36. “Compliance with State and Federal Law” seems to omit Family Code Chapters 104 and 107, both of which have provisions applicable to licensees of all member boards. While such forensic services are rarer, all licensees should be required to comply with all laws of the State of Texas. I fear without specifically naming these Family Code sections BHEC may run the risk that this goal will not be enforceable.

§882.50. “Continuing Education and Audits” subsection (b)(1) causes some significant concerns. An audit each month of 10% of all licensees will mean that, across the course of a year, essentially every licensee will be sampled (statistically many will be sampled more than once, with an outside chance some will not be sampled at all). This seems likely to create an unnecessary burden. It appears one option would be for BHEC to instead require annual submission of continuing education information if the goal is truly to audit at such a level. It may be this section was intended to establish a random audit, in any given year, of 10% of all licensees which seems like a far more reasonable process, and a simple edit is required.

§884.3. “Special Requirements for Complaints Alleging Violations Related to Court Ordered Evaluations” is a section that has been needed for some time and I am pleased to see this included. The proposed changes should be adopted, and I am hopeful that future updates to rules can go further in addressing the complex adversarial nature of working with court-involved clients in areas other than evaluative work.. That said, it also appears some of these rules set an overly-high bar in some circumstances for clients who have been harmed by licensees.

In this difficult task BHEC should be commended for taking this first step to protect the public by insuring that competent forensic mental health professionals will be available when needed by court-involved clients. Too often complaints are used as “preemptive attacks” against professionals not because they have committed a licensing violation but because the litigating client is attempting to gain some sort of strategic advantage in court. The cost of such a scorched earth approach to litigation (in time, effort, and expense) drives many competent professionals to avoid any type of interaction with court-connected clients. This has the knock-on result of creating a shortage of well-trained professionals willing to take on forensic work, forcing some clients to seek out subpar providers and the subpar work they perform. In order to ensure the public has access to quality providers willing to work with court-connected clients I am hopeful in the future BHEC will expand these rules to apply to all licensees working under court appointment.

That said, I am also hopeful in the future BHEC will look at expanding the options, particularly under Subsection (f), for client complaints to be heard as I fear what has been proposed currently may be overly restrictive. As someone who has served as an expert witness in scores of hearings, including many cases reviewing the work of court-appointed evaluators, in my experience it is very rare to see a court disqualify or strike an expert after having appointed them. Even when the expert has blatantly failed to meet not just the standard of care, but basic requirements set out in the Family Code and court appointment order, this impacts the weight the court gives to the expert rather than resulting in disqualification. When courts permit an expert to correct a defect by supplementing a report (a common cure when there is a deficiency found) or otherwise mitigating their errors, this does not remove the expert's failure to meet their ethical duty to have performed a competent job the first time around.

At a minimum I believe the language found in proposed 884.5(a) regarding a court finding of violation or other deficiency by the licensee should be incorporated as one of the possible criteria under Subsection (f). This, and other future additions, should maintain a focus on the appropriate primary location for litigants to address issues with experts – the court where their case is being heard – while providing better options to protect the public when there is a true error worthy of a licensing complaint.

✓ §884.12 “Complaint Disposition” is section I believe should be modified to require that BHEC shall solicit input from its member boards, rather than “may” do so. §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code, each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. From my understanding, BHEC was not developed to have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards, and I believe therefore must be required to consult with the member boards regarding such issues.

I again appreciate all your hard work and effort on behalf of the citizens of Texas and those of us licensed to serve them. Even if my suggested revisions are not immediately possible, I encourage BHEC to pass the rules as drafted and implement updates in a subsequent iterations.

Sincerely,

My name is Helen Harris and I am a licensed social worker, LCSW-S, #9514. I am a social work educator at the Garland School of Social Work/Baylor University.

Thank you for the opportunity to respond with comments specific to the Behavioral health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. This board and these rules are important to the effective and efficient provision of a social work workforce in Texas.

I have reviewed the draft carefully and have several comments/questions and recommendations and appreciate your willingness to consider these.

1. In times of disaster like we currently experience with COVID-19, is important that licensed social workers from other states be able to quickly receive emergency license to practice.
2. Here are my comments on specific parts of the proposed law with page number and section.
 - Does the rotational nature of board member selection mean that there will be years without a social worker on the board?
 - If the council/board decides on the qualifications for the Executive Director, might that impact the discipline(s) that are elevated or ignored for Executive Director qualifications?
 - 881 Sick leave pool....why are more procedures needed than in the Government Code and Employees Retirement System of Texas etc. p. 15
 - 882.2. Requires a transcript from the accredited institution....directly from the institution.
Current students can take the exam in their last semester of work. Does this eliminate that? P. 21
 - p. 21 #5...SAVE...is this about making sure immigrants aren't getting any entitlements? Why would this be important if they have been students and may have needed help?
 - Currently application for licensure is the ticket to taking the exam. This says you need exam results prior to applying for licensure. How does that work with ASWB? P. 21
 - p. 23. 882.6. Previous licensure rules included provision for the rare student who is unable to pass the exam after three tries because of disabilities related to testing but who meets all other requirements and demonstrates promise as a practitioner. The provision was application to practice for several years under the close supervision of a licensed practitioner who oversees the practice and at the end of the provisional time makes a recommendation regarding the candidate's licensure. In my 40 years of practice I have only worked with one graduate/practitioner who needed this provision but was able to practice successfully under supervision and then with her own license having successfully met the supervised practice requirement. I recommend the council consider this option for the new law.

- p. 43. 882.50-1. Random audits. Each month 10% of the licensees will be selected by an automated process....I assume this means 10% of those due for renewal for that month but this is not clear and suggests that 10% of all licensees would be selected each month indicating that 120% would be audited each year....a burdensome and expensive process.

- p. 46: 882.61 Special Licensing Provisions for Military Spouses. Thank you. Excellent change.

- p. 49. 882.70. Emergency Temporary License

The delay in licensing has been substantial in past years and an emergency temporary license has been available to those waiting for the state to process applications...particularly for those who need a license to secure or retain a job and whose licenses are held up through no fault of their own. I recommend that option for six month emergency temporary license be included.

Thank you again for the opportunity to respond.

For consistency, please consider change to §882.60 Special Provisions Applying to Military Service Members, Veterans, and Spouses as indicated below:

§882.60 Special Provisions Applying to Military Service Members, Veterans, and Spouses

(e) As part of the application process, the Executive Director may waive any prerequisite for obtaining a license, other than the requirements in subsection (b) of this section, the jurisprudence examination, and the fingerprint-based criminal history background check, if it is determined that the applicant's education, training, and experience provide reasonable assurance that the applicant has the knowledge and skills necessary for entry-level practice under the license sought. When making this determination, the Executive Director must consult with the relevant member board or its designated application or licensing committee and consider the board's or committee's input and recommendations. In the event the Executive Director does not follow a recommendation of the board or committee, the Executive Director must submit a written explanation to the board or committee explaining why its recommendation was not followed. No waiver may be granted where a military service member or military veteran holds a license issued by another jurisdiction that has been restricted, or where the applicant has a disqualifying criminal history.

Suggested Comments on BHEC Rules

- General Provisions

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only also review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

(d) (pick up from notebook)

Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance. As proposed, §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. Replacing “must also” with “may only” reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

- Complaints and Enforcement

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ ~~may~~ solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ ~~may~~ specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

Rationale: As set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code, each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

- Applications and Licensure

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

(a) The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

Rationale: Improving efficiency and expediting license processing are key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A consolidated report will not provide adequate transparency and detail, given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

- (a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.
- (a)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

 - (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and
 - (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.
- (c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

 - (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;
 - (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster;
 - (2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and
 - (3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.
- (b)(d) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.
- (e) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.
- (d)(f) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

 - (1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and
 - (2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~
- (e) ~~For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

(fh) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

- (1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;
- (2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and
- (3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(gi) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shed some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. This rule, as published, removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The proposed revision addresses these concerns by codifying current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, they could have the opportunity to be issued an emergency license during a declared disaster.

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only also review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

(d) (pick up from notebook)

Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance. As proposed, §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. Replacing “must also” with “may only” reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

- Complaints and Enforcement

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall may~~ solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall may~~ specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

Rationale: As set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code, each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

- Applications and Licensure

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

(a) The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

Rationale: Improving efficiency and expediting license processing are key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A consolidated report will not provide adequate transparency and detail, given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

- (a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.
- (a)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:
 - (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and
 - (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.
- (c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:
 - (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;
 - (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster;
 - (2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and
 - (3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.
- (bd) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.
- (ee) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.
- (df) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:
 - (1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and
 - (2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~
- (e) ~~For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

(fh) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

- (1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;
- (2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and
- (3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(gi) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shed some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. This rule, as published, removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The proposed revision addresses these concerns by codifying current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, they could have the opportunity to be issued an emergency license during a declared disaster.

 - (2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and
 - (3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.
- (bd) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.
- (ee) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.
- (df) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:
 - (1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and
 - (2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~
- (e) ~~For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

(h) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

- (1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;
- (2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and
- (3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(i) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shed some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. This rule, as published, removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The proposed revision addresses these concerns by codifying current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, they could have the opportunity to be issued an emergency license during a declared disaster.

Suggested Comments on BHEC Rules

- General Provisions

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only also review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

(d) (pick up from notebook)

Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance. As proposed, §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. Replacing “must also” with “may only” reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

- Complaints and Enforcement

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council shall ~~may~~ solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council shall ~~may~~ specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

Rationale: As set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code, each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

- Applications and Licensure

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

(a) The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

Rationale: Improving efficiency and expediting license processing are key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A consolidated report will not provide adequate transparency and detail, given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

- (a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.
- (a)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:
 - (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and
 - (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.
- (c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:
 - (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;
 - (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster;
 - (2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and
 - (3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.
- (bd) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

- (e) ~~For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

(fh) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

Comments on Proposed Rules 22TAC Chapter 881.

My name is Janet Finch, PhD, LCSW, and I am a licensed social worker. I have been in practice in Texas since 1982. I am also an LCSW Supervisor and a retired Faculty in the School of Social Work at UT Arlington.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help the social work workforce meeting the needs of Texans.

Below my signature are a list of specific changes I am recommending and the sections covered. I would also like to highlight two important points:

1. BHEC Discretion re: Emergency License – COVID-19 has shown that social work licensure across state lines can impact whether someone receives timely mental health treatment. I believe that BHEC should immediately grant a license to someone from another state during the time of a disaster and have the discretion to grant emergency licenses to social workers licensed in other states who are not in good standing at their own discretion.
2. Licensing Rates: It is disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate increased. Social workers already deal with intense backlog with our licensing application and renewal process. We continue to see licensing rates grow without any change to show for it. We ask that BHEC rules keep our rates unchanged.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

Sincerely,

Janet Finch, PhD, LCSW

a. The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

- Rationale: One of the key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council is to improve efficiency and to expedite license processing. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A composite report will not provide adequate and appropriate transparency given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

(a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

~~(a)(b)~~ A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster

(2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and

(3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.

~~(bd)~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

~~(ee)~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.

~~(ef)~~ To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

(1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

(2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~

~~(e)~~ For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

~~(g)~~ An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

~~(fh)~~ An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

(1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;

- (2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and
- (3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.
- (g) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shown some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The proposed language removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The suggested language addresses these concerns by codifying current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, BHEC would have the ability to provide the person with an emergency license during a declared disaster.

COMPLAINTS & ENFORCEMENT

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

- Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only ~~else~~ review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words "must also" implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster

(2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and

(3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.

(b)(d) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

(e) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.

(e)(f) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

(1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

(2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.

(e) ~~For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

(f)(h) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

(1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;

(2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and

(3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(g)(i) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shown some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The proposed language removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The suggested language addresses these concerns by codifying would-current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, BHEC would have the ability to provide the person with an emergency license during a declared disaster.

COMPLAINTS & ENFORCEMENT

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall may~~ solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall may~~ specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

- Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must may only also~~ review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words "must also" implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

To: "open.records@tsbep.texas.gov" <open.records@tsbep.texas.gov>

Good Afternoon,

My name is Rebecca Cole and I am a licensed clinical social worker. I am a licensed clinical social worker for the Harris Center, the local mental health authority for Harris County, Texas. I provide crisis intervention paired with a licensed peace officer with Houston Police Department. I am the only social worker on my team. I take pride in my ability to provide this service to my community in my community and represent the social work field as well.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help the social work workforce meeting the needs of Texans.

Below my signature are a list of specific changes I am recommending and the sections covered. I would also like to highlight two important points:

1. BHEC Discretion re: Emergency License – COVID-19 has shown that social work licensure across state lines can impact whether someone receives timely mental health treatment. I believe that BHEC should immediately grant a license to someone from another state during the time of a disaster and have the discretion to grant emergency licenses to social workers licensed in other states who are not in good standing at their own discretion.
2. Licensing Rates: It is disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate increased. Social workers already deal with intense backlog with our licensing application and renewal process. We continue to see licensing rates grow without any change to show for it. We ask that BHEC rules keep our rates unchanged.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

Sincerely,

Rebecca Cole, LCSW

APPLICATIONS & LICENSURESUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS*§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

a. The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

- Rationale: One of the key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council is to improve efficiency and to expedite license processing. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A composite report will not provide adequate and appropriate transparency given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

APPLICATIONS & LICENSURE

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

a. The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

- Rationale: One of the key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council is to improve efficiency and to expedite license processing. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A composite report will not provide adequate and appropriate transparency given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

(a) ~~_____~~ For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

~~(a)(b)~~ A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

(1) ~~_____~~ the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and

(2) ~~_____~~ the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

(1) ~~_____~~ the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;

(2) ~~_____~~ the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; ~~the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster~~

(2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and

(3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.

~~(bd)~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

~~(ee)~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.

~~(ef)~~ To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

(1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

(2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~

~~(e)~~ For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

~~(g)~~ _____ An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

~~(fh)~~ An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

(1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;

(2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and

(3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(g) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shown some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The proposed language removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The suggested language addresses these concerns by codifying would-current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, BHEC would have the ability to provide the person with an emergency license during a declared disaster.

COMPLAINTS & ENFORCEMENT

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

- Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only also review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words "must also" implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

My name is Jennifer Delaine Taylor and I am a licensed clinical social worker.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help the social work workforce meeting the needs of Texans.

Below my signature are a list of specific changes I am recommending and the sections covered. I would also like to highlight two important points:

BHEC Discretion re: Emergency License – COVID-19 has shown that social work licensure across state lines can impact whether someone receives timely mental health treatment. I believe that BHEC should immediately grant a license to someone from another state during the time of a disaster and have the discretion to grant emergency licenses to social workers licensed in other states who are not in good standing at their own discretion.

Licensing Rates: It is disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate increased. Social workers already deal with intense backlog with our licensing application and renewal process. We continue to see licensing rates grow without any change to show for it. We ask that BHEC rules keep our rates unchanged.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

APPLICATIONS & LICENSURE

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

a. The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

- Rationale: One of the key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council is to improve efficiency and to expedite license processing. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A composite report will not provide adequate and appropriate transparency given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

(a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

(a)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster

(2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and

(3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.

(b)(d) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

(e) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.

(e)(f) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

(1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

(2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~

(e) ~~For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

(f)(h) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

(1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;

(2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and

(3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(g) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shown some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The proposed language removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The suggested language addresses these concerns by codifying would-current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, BHEC would have the ability to provide the person with an emergency license during a declared disaster.

COMPLAINTS & ENFORCEMENT

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

- Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may ~~only~~ also review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words "must also" implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

ADVOCACY ALERT – Improve the Licensing Board!Submit Comments before May 22, 2020

The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) established in HB 1501 (86R) will become fully operational on September 1, 2020. All behavioral health licensing boards – including the Texas State Board of Social Work Examiners – will be housed at BHEC which will be responsible for the administrative management of each board, including processing licenses, managing complaints, and overall operations.

The proposed rules are extensive because they establish all functions for a brand new state agency. It is essential that these rules be carefully vetted to ensure they align with the legislative intent of HB 1501 and preserve the authority of each independent licensing board housed at BHEC.

The National Association of Social Workers - Texas (NASW-TX) along with the Texas Society for Clinical Social Work (TSCSW), the Texas Counseling Association (TCA), the Texas Association of Marriage and Family Therapists (TAMFT) and the Texas Psychological Association (TPA), was provided a preview of the proposed rules and an opportunity to provide stakeholder input at the December BHEC meeting. Many of our suggestions were adopted and are reflected in the published rules. However, several important revisions were not made, including licensure fees.

NASW/TX, in partnership with TCA, TSCSW, TAMFT and TPA, did a thorough review of the published rules and will be submitting a unified statement requesting additional, important changes.

We need your help!

A large volume of comments is needed. It is essential that all licensees review the proposed rules and submit comments.

The proposed rules were published in the April 24, 2020 issue of the Texas Register.

Please feel free to use the email template at the end of this email as well as any other revisions that you identify.

My name is Susan Harnden, I am a Licensed Clinical Social Worker at the University of Texas at Austin Employee Assistance Program. I serve the employees of the university.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. Below my signature are a list of specific changes I am recommending and the sections covered. I would also like to highlight two important points:

1. BHEC Discretion re: Emergency License – COVID-19 has shown that social work licensure across state lines can impact whether someone receives timely mental health treatment. I believe that BHEC should immediately grant a license to someone from another state during the time of a disaster and have the discretion to grant emergency licenses to social workers licensed in other states who are not in good standing at their own discretion.
2. Licensing Rates: It is disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate increased. Social workers already deal with intense backlog with our licensing application and renewal process. We continue to see licensing rates grow without any change to show for it. We ask that BHEC rules keep our rates unchanged.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

Sincerely,

Laurie Stephens, LMSW-IPR

APPLICATIONS & LICENSURESUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS*§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

a. The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

- Rationale: One of the key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council is to improve efficiency and to expedite license processing. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A composite report will not provide adequate and appropriate transparency given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

~~(a)~~ For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

~~(e)(b)~~ A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

~~(1)~~ the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and

~~(2)~~ the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

~~(1)~~ the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;

~~(2)~~ the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster

(2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and

(3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.

~~(bd)~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

~~(ee)~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.

~~(ef)~~ To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

(1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

(2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~

~~(e)~~ For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

~~(g)~~ An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

~~(fh)~~ An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

(1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;

(2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and

(3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(g) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shown some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The proposed language removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The suggested language addresses these concerns by codifying would-current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, BHEC would have the ability to provide the person with an emergency license during a declared disaster.

COMPLAINTS & ENFORCEMENT

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

- Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only also review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words "must also" implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

Please consider making the following changes to the proposed rules for the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council

General Provisions SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING §881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council (b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council must may only also review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns. (d) (pick up from notebook)

Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance. As proposed, §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. Replacing “must also” with “may only” reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent. • Complaints and Enforcement

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS §884.12 Complaint Disposition. (c) The Council shall may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council shall may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule. Rationale: As set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code, each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays. • Applications and Licensure

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS §882.9. Established Application Processing Time (a) The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis. Rationale: Improving efficiency and expediting license processing are key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A consolidated report will not provide adequate transparency and detail, given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category. SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY

TEMPORARY LICENSE §882.70. Emergency Temporary License. (a) For purposes of this section, the term “good standing” means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration. (a)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if: (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state. (c) The Council shall may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if: (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster; (2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and (3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below. (bd) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first. (ce) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor. (df) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must: (1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and (2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing. (e) For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term “good standing” means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration. (g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date. (fh) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must: (1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client; (2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and (3) comply with all other applicable Council rules. (gi) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license. • Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shed some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. This rule, as published, removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The proposed revision addresses these concerns by codifying current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, they could have the opportunity to be issued an emergency license during a declared disaster.

COMPLAINTS & ENFORCEMENT

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

- Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only also review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words "must also" implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

Good afternoon,

My name is Natalie Beck and I am a Licensed Clinical Social Worker and Board-Approved Supervisor. I am a social work professor at a university here in Austin.

1. BHEC Discretion re: Emergency License – COVID-19 has shown that social work licensure across state lines can impact whether someone receives timely mental health treatment. I believe that BHEC should immediately grant a license to someone from another state during the time of a disaster and have the discretion to grant emergency licenses to social workers licensed in other states who are not in good standing at their own discretion.
2. Licensing Rates: It is disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate increased. Social workers already deal with intense backlog with our licensing application and renewal process. We continue to see licensing rates grow without any change to show for it. We ask that BHEC rules keep our rates unchanged.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

Sincerely,

Natalie Beck

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

a. The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

- Rationale: One of the key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council is to improve efficiency and to expedite license processing. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A composite report will not provide adequate and appropriate transparency given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

~~(a)~~ For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

~~(a)(b)~~ A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster

(2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and

(3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.

~~(b)~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

~~(e)~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.

~~(d)~~ To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

(1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

(2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.

~~(e)~~ For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

~~(g)~~ An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

~~(f)~~ An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

(1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;

(2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and

(3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(g) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shown some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The proposed language removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The suggested language addresses these concerns by codifying would-current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, BHEC would have the ability to provide the person with an emergency license during a declared disaster.

COMPLAINTS & ENFORCEMENT

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

- Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only ~~also~~ review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words "must also" implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

Hello,

My name is Nancy Jo Long and I have a masters in social work and I am a candidate for licensure in the State of Texas.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help the social work workforce meeting the needs of Texans.

Below my signature are a list of specific changes I am recommending and the sections covered. I would also like to highlight two important points:

1. BHEC Discretion re: Emergency License – COVID-19 has shown that social work licensure across state lines can impact whether someone receives timely mental health treatment. I believe that BHEC should immediately grant a license to someone from another state during the time of a disaster and have the discretion to grant emergency licenses to social workers licensed in other states who are not in good standing at their own discretion.

We continue to see licensing rates grow without any change to show for it. We ask that BHEC rules keep our rates unchanged.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

Nancy Jo Long

Suggested Comments on BHEC Rules

- General Provisions

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may ~~only~~ also review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

(d) (pick up from notebook)

Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance. As proposed, §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. Replacing “must also” with “may only” reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

- Complaints and Enforcement

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ ~~may~~ solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ ~~may~~ specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

Rationale: As set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code, each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

- Applications and Licensure

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

(a) The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

Rationale: Improving efficiency and expediting license processing are key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A consolidated report will not provide adequate transparency and detail, given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

- (a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.
- (a)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:
 - (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and
 - (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.
- (c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:
 - (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;
 - (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster;
 - (2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and
 - (3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.
- (bd) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.
- (ee) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.
- (df) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:
 - (1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and
 - (2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~
- (e) ~~For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

(h) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

- (1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;
- (2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and
- (3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(i) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shed some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. This rule, as published, removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The proposed revision addresses these concerns by codifying current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, they could have the opportunity to be issued an emergency license during a declared disaster.

We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help the social work workforce meeting the needs of Texans.

Below my signature are a list of specific changes I am recommending and the sections covered. I would also like to highlight two important points:

1. BHEC Discretion re: Emergency License – COVID-19 has shown that social work licensure across state lines can impact whether someone receives timely mental health treatment. I believe that BHEC should immediately grant a license to someone from another state during the time of a disaster and have the discretion to grant emergency licenses to social workers licensed in other states who are not in good standing at their own discretion.
2. Licensing Rates: It is disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate increased. Social workers already deal with intense backlog with our licensing application and renewal process. We continue to see licensing rates grow without any change to show for it. We ask that BHEC rules keep our rates unchanged.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

APPLICATIONS & LICENSURE

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

a. The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

- Rationale: One of the key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council is to improve efficiency and to expedite license processing. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A composite report will not provide adequate and appropriate transparency given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

(a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

(a)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.

(c) The Council shall may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster

(2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and

(3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.

(bd) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

(ce) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.

(df) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

(1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

(2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.

(e) For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

(fh) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

(1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;

(2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and

(3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(gi) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

• Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shown some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The proposed language removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The suggested language addresses these concerns by codifying would current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, BHEC would have the ability to provide the person with an emergency license during a declared disaster.

COMPLAINTS & ENFORCEMENT

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council shall may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council shall may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

- Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council must may only also review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words "must also" implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

To: open.records@tsbep.texas.gov

To whom it may concern,

Good morning. My name is Mikayla Knight and I am a licensed social worker. I am a Social Services Director at a Nursing and Rehabilitation facility in College Station, serving our community's vulnerable older adults, ensuring they rehab successfully and have a good quality of life as they live in our facility.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help the social work workforce meeting the needs of Texans.

Below my signature are a list of specific changes I am recommending and the sections covered. I would also like to highlight two important points:

1. BHEC Discretion re: Emergency License – COVID-19 has shown that social work licensure across state lines can impact whether someone receives timely mental health treatment. I believe that BHEC should immediately grant a license to someone from another state during the time of a disaster and have the discretion to grant emergency licenses to social workers licensed in other states who are not in good standing at their own discretion.
2. Licensing Rates: It is disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate increased. Social workers already deal with intense backlog with our licensing application and renewal process. We continue to see licensing rates grow without any change to show for it. We ask that BHEC rules keep our rates unchanged.
3. Licensing Times: As already mentioned, social workers experience extreme backlog on the licensing application and renewal process. This delay in timeliness results in loss of income, loss of opportunity, and also loss in motivation to pursue social work employment. We also ask that BHEC address timeliness issues when granting new licenses and renewals, as this directly hurts our vulnerable populations who need social workers.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

Sincerely,

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only ~~also~~ review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: § 507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words "must also" implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

My name is Rose Mary Rodriguez from El Paso, Texas, and I am a Licensed Clinical Social Worker. I have been working with the Las Palmas Kidney Transplant Center for the last 3 years serving patients who are being evaluated for a kidney transplant or have already received a transplant. I have 40 years post-graduate experience in the areas of vocational rehabilitation, medical social work, and school social work addressing individuals with special needs.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help the social work workforce meeting the needs of Texans.

Below my signature are a list of specific changes I am recommending and the sections covered. I would also like to highlight two important points:

1. BHEC Discretion re: Emergency License – COVID-19 has shown that social work licensure across state lines can impact whether someone receives timely mental health treatment. I believe that BHEC should immediately grant a license to someone from another state during the time of a disaster and have the discretion to grant emergency licenses to social workers licensed in other states who are not in good standing at their own discretion.
2. Licensing Rates: It is disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate increased. Social workers already deal with intense backlog with our licensing application and renewal process. We continue to see licensing rates grow without any change to show for it. We ask that BHEC rules keep our rates unchanged. I also bring to your attention that social worker's salaries are not adequate so any increase in licensing rates impact the decisions of trained social workers to remain in the profession as opposed to entering another sector of employment for better pay.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

Sincerely

Rose Mary Rodriguez, LCSW/ C-ASWCM

APPLICATIONS & LICENSURE

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

a. The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

- Rationale: One of the key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council is to improve efficiency and to expedite license processing. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A composite report will not provide adequate and appropriate transparency given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

(a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

~~(e)(b)~~ A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster

(2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and

(3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.

~~(b)(d)~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

~~(e)(e)~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.

~~(d)(f)~~ To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

(1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

(2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~

~~(e)~~ For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

~~(g)~~ An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

~~(f)(h)~~ An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

(1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;

- (2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and
- (3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.
- (g) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shown some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The proposed language removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The suggested language addresses these concerns by codifying current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, BHEC would have the ability to provide the person with an emergency license during a declared disaster.

COMPLAINTS & ENFORCEMENT

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

- Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only ~~also~~ review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words "must also" implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

Comments on BHEC Rules

• General Provisions

SUBCHAPTER B - RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only ~~also~~ review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance. As proposed, §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

• Complaints and Enforcement

SUBCHAPTER B - INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council shall ~~may~~ solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council shall ~~may~~ specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

Rationale: As set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code, each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

• Applications and Licensure

SUBCHAPTER A - LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

(a) The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

Rationale: Improving efficiency and expediting license processing are key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A consolidated report will not provide adequate transparency and detail, given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G §882.70.

- EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

Emergency Temporary License.

(a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; ~~the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and~~

~~rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster;~~

(2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and

(3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below. ~~(b)~~ (d) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

~~(e)~~ (e) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.

~~(d)~~ (f) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

(2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction. ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~

~~(e)~~ For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

~~(f)~~ (h) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

(1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;

(3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(gi) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale:

onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. This rule, as published, removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The proposed revision addresses these concerns by codifying current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, they could have the opportunity to be issued an emergency license during a declared disaster.

The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shed some light

My name is Charlotte B. Cooper and I am a licensed social worker. I have worked in the Austin area for over 50 years. I contract with NASW/Texas to manage the Clinical Reimbursement Project. The Project assists Licensed Clinical Social Workers in independent practice with reimbursement issues and resources.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help the social work workforce meeting the needs of Texans.

Below my signature are a list of specific changes I am recommending and the sections covered. I would also like to highlight two important points:

1. BHEC Discretion re: Emergency License – COVID-19 has shown that social work licensure across state lines can impact whether someone receives timely mental health treatment. I believe that BHEC should immediately grant a license to someone from another state during the time of a disaster and have the discretion to grant emergency licenses to social workers licensed in other states who are not in good standing at their own discretion.
2. Licensing Rates: It is disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate increased. Social workers already deal with intense backlog with our licensing application and renewal process. We continue to see licensing rates grow without any change to show for it. We ask that BHEC rules keep our rates unchanged.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

APPLICATIONS & LICENSURESUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS*§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

a. The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

- Rationale: One of the key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council is to improve efficiency and to expedite license processing. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A composite report will not provide adequate and appropriate transparency given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

(a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

(a)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster

(2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and

(3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.

(b~~d~~) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

(e~~d~~) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.

(d~~f~~) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

(1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

(2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~

(e) ~~For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

(f~~h~~) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

(1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;

(2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and

(3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(g) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shown some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The proposed language removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The suggested language addresses these concerns by codifying would-current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, BHEC would have the ability to provide the person with an emergency license during a declared disaster.

COMPLAINTS & ENFORCEMENT

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

- Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only also review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words "must also" implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

- Rationale: One of the key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council is to improve efficiency and to expedite license processing. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A composite report will not provide adequate and appropriate transparency given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

(a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

(a)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster

(2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and

(3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.

~~(bd)~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

~~(ee)~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.

~~(df)~~ To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

(1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

(2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~

~~(e) For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

(fh) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

- (1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;
 - (2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and
 - (3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.
- (g) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shown some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The proposed language removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The suggested language addresses these concerns by codifying would-current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, BHEC would have the ability to provide the person with an emergency license during a declared disaster.

COMPLAINTS & ENFORCEMENT

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

- Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only also review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words "must also" implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

To: "open.records@tsbep.texas.gov" <open.records@tsbep.texas.gov>

My name is Linda Knewton and I am a licensed clinical social worker employed at The Menninger Clinic in Houston. We serve patients with psychiatric illness.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help the social work workforce meeting the needs of Texans.

Below my signature is a list of specific changes I am recommending and the sections covered. I would also like to highlight two important points:

1. BHEC Discretion re: Emergency License – COVID-19 has shown that social work licensure across state lines can impact whether someone receives timely mental health treatment. I believe that BHEC should immediately grant a license to someone from another state during the time of a disaster and have the discretion to grant emergency licenses to social workers licensed in other states who are not in good standing at their own discretion.
2. Licensing Rates: It is disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate increased. Social workers already deal with intense backlog with our licensing application and renewal process. We continue to see licensing rates grow without any change to show for it. We ask that BHEC rules keep our rates unchanged.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

Sincerely,

Linda Knewton, LCSW

APPLICATIONS & LICENSURESUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS*§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

a. The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

- Rationale: One of the key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council is to improve efficiency and to expedite license processing. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A composite report will not provide adequate and appropriate transparency given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

My name is Shannon Huggins and I am a licensed clinical social worker and supervisor in private practice where I treat children and families as well as adults with psychiatric illness. I want to use this opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all social workers in the state. Suggested Comments on BHEC Rules

- General Provisions

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only also review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

(d) (pick up from notebook)

Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance. As proposed, §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. Replacing “must also” with “may only” reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

- Complaints and Enforcement

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

Rationale: As set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code, each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

- Applications and Licensure

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

(a) The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

Rationale: Improving efficiency and expediting license processing are key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A consolidated report will not provide adequate transparency and detail, given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

- (a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.
- (a)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:
 - (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and
 - (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.
- (c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:
 - (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;
 - (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster;
 - (2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and
 - (3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.
- (bd) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.
- (ee) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.
- (df) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:
 - (1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and
 - (2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~
- (e) ~~For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

(h) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

- (1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;
- (2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and
- (3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(i) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shed some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. This rule, as published, removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The proposed revision addresses these concerns by codifying current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, they could have the opportunity to be issued an emergency license during a declared disaster.

Good morning,

My name is Anastasia Deeter and I am a Licensed Clinical Social Worker (LCSW). For the past five years I have worked at Texas Children's Hospital providing services to children and families. In my role I often provide crisis intervention, supportive counseling, psychosocial education, case management, and complete a variety of assessments. I also serve on our leadership team and assist with ensuring best patient practices, as well as coordinate all of our social work internship opportunities. In addition, I also serve as a Board Approved Clinical Supervisor.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help the social work workforce meeting the needs of Texans.

Below my signature are a list of specific changes I am recommended and the sections covered. I would also like to highlight two important points.

1. BHEC Discretion re: Emergency License – COVID 19 has shown that social work licensure across states can impact whether someone receives timely mental health treatment. I believe that BHEC should immediately grant a license to someone from another state during the time of a disaster and have the discretion to grant emergency licenses to social workers licensed in other states who are not in good standing at their own discretion.
2. Licensing rates – it is incredibly disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate increased. Social workers already deal with intense backlog with our licensing application and renewal process. For instance, I have one supervisee who is still waiting to hear back from the board on acknowledgement of their completion of LCSW supervision and approval to sit for their exam; it has been nearly four months. The students I work with often report it taking between two to six months, four months appearing to be average, to receive approval to sit for their LMSW examinations. We continue to see licensing rates grow without any changes to show for it. If I am to read the proposed rules correctly, I can assume that my renewal rates as an LCSW-Supervisor will increase by $113 per renewal period, that is over $55 increase per year. We ask that the BHEC rules to keep our rates unchanged.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

Sincerely,

Anastasia

Applications & Licensure

SUBCHAPTER A- License Applications

882.9. Established Application Processing Time

A. The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of the periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

- a. Rationale: One of the key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council is to improve efficiency and to expedite license processing. Collecting data by license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A composite report will not provide adequate and appropriate transparency given historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G- Emergency Temporary License

882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

(a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

(a-b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

(1) The Governor declares a disaster under Government Code 418.014; and

(2) The person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.

(c) the Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

(1) The Governor declares a disaster under Government Code 418.014;

(2) The person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under 418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with the Government Code 418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster

(3) The Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and

(4) The applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.

~~(b d)~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

~~(e e)~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work with in the disaster designated by the governor.

~~(d f)~~ to be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

(1) Submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

~~(2)~~ Submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in another jurisdiction and the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.

~~(e)~~ For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

~~(g)~~ An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

~~(f h)~~ An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

(1) Display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiation services with a patient or client;

(2) Provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and

(3) Comply with all other applicable Council rules.

~~(g i)~~ There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shown some light on appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The proposed language referring to practical agency discretion is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicting with Government Code 418.117. The suggested language addresses these concerns by codifying the license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, the BHEC would have the ability to provide the person with an emergency license during a declared disaster.

COMPLAINTS & ENFORCEMENT

SUBCHAPTER B- Investigation and disposition of complaints

884.12 Complaint Disposition

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care of ethical practice showed by the licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in 507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practices required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standard therefore must be required to consult with member boards when these issues arise in context of enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays. _

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SUBCHAPTER B- Rulemaking

881.20- Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking author, the Council ~~must~~ may only ~~also~~ review draft rules proposed by each separate member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns

Rationale: 507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by eh 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance. As proposed 881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words "must also" implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader that statutorily allowed. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as the legislative intent.

My name is Ronald W. Prieto and I am a Licensed Clinical Social Worker. I have just retired my position as Director of Case Management from an acute inpatient physical rehabilitation hospital, which I held for the past 20 years. Prior to that, I had ten years experience working in both inpatient and outpatient psychiatric settings. I began my work experiences before there was any licensure by the state of Texas. Thus, I am keenly aware of the need of having an efficient licensing board who is aware of the functions and scope of services for social workers.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. Dear Texas State Board representative,

My name is Carol Ann Ross and I am a licensed social worker. I work for a small group practice that serves individuals, couples and families impacted by addiction.

Regarding New Rules for the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council

2 messages

To: open.records@tsbep.texas.gov

My name is Catie Munguia and I am a licensed social worker in Nacogdoches, TX. I currently practice in a public elementary school, and am in the process of completing the supervision and practice requirements for the LCSW clinical license.

I really appreciate the opportunity to provide comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help the social work workforce meeting the needs of Texans. It should be noted that current processing times are unreasonably slow, which affects the availability of qualified professionals where we are needed in our state. I am hopeful that this new board will prove to meet the stated goals of drastically improving efficiency of license-related matters

I would like to highlight two important points:

BHEC Discretion re: Emergency License – COVID-19 has shown that social work licensure across state lines can impact whether someone receives timely mental health treatment. I believe that BHEC should immediately grant a license to someone from another state during the time of a disaster and have the discretion to grant emergency licenses to social workers licensed in other states who are not in good standing at their own discretion. This has become an extremely pertinent issue in the context of the current pandemic, in which "normal" provision of services has been turned on its head and the need for the services provided by mental health professionals has skyrocketed.

Licensing Rates: It is disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate increased. Social workers already deal with intense backlog with our licensing application and renewal process. We continue to see licensing rates grow without any change to show for it. We ask that BHEC rules keep our rates unchanged.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

Sincerely,

Catie Munguia

APPLICATIONS & LICENSURE

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

a. The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

- Rationale: One of the key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council is to improve efficiency and to expedite license processing. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A composite report will not provide adequate and appropriate transparency given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

(a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

(a)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster

(2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and

(3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.

~~(b)(d)~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

~~(e)(e)~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.

~~(d)(f)~~ To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

(1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

(2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~

~~(e)~~ ~~For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

~~(g)~~ An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

~~(f)(h)~~ An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

(1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;

(2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and

(3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

~~(g)(i)~~ There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shown some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The proposed language removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The suggested language addresses these concerns by codifying current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, BHEC would have the ability to provide the person with an emergency license during a declared disaster.

COMPLAINTS & ENFORCEMENT

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

- Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only ~~also~~ review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words "must also" implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

Subject line: Comments on Proposed Rules 22TAC Chapter 881.

My name is Claire Woll and I am a licensed social worker providing counseling and mental health services to children, adolescents and young adults in Texas.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help the social work workforce meeting the needs of Texans.

Below my signature are a list of specific changes I am recommending and the sections covered. I would also like to highlight two important points:

1. BHEC Discretion re: Emergency License – COVID-19 has shown that social work licensure across state lines can impact whether someone receives timely mental health treatment. I believe that BHEC should immediately grant a license to someone from another state during the time of a disaster and have the discretion to grant emergency licenses to social workers licensed in other states who are not in good standing at their own discretion.
2. Licensing Rates: It is disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate increased. Social workers already deal with intense backlog with our licensing application and renewal process. We continue to see licensing rates grow without any change to show for it. We ask that BHEC rules keep our rates unchanged.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

Sincerely,

Claire Woll

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

(a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

(a)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster

(2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and

(3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.

(b) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

(e) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.

(d) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

(1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

(2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~

(e) ~~For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

(h) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

(1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;

- (2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and
- (3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.
- (g) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shown some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The proposed language removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The suggested language addresses these concerns by codifying ~~would~~-current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. §884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ ~~may~~ solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ ~~may~~ specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

- Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. §881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ ~~may only~~ ~~else~~ review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words "must also" implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

To: open.records@tsbep.texas.gov

My name is Anita Louise Franz, and I am a licensed clinical social worker providing play therapy to children ages 3 - 11.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help the social work workforce meeting the needs of Texans.

Below my signature are a list of specific changes I am recommending and the sections covered. I would also like to highlight two important points:

1. BHEC Discretion re: Emergency License – COVID-19 has shown that social work licensure across state lines can impact whether someone receives timely mental health treatment. I believe that BHEC should immediately grant a license to someone from another state during the time of a disaster and have the discretion to grant emergency licenses to social workers licensed in other states who are not in good standing at their own discretion.
2. Licensing Rates: It is disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate increased. Social workers already deal with intense backlog with our licensing application and renewal process. We continue to see licensing rates grow without any change to show for it. We ask that BHEC rules keep our rates unchanged.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

Sincerely,

Anita Louise Franz, LCSW

APPLICATIONS & LICENSURE

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

a. The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

- Rationale: One of the key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council is to improve efficiency and to expedite license processing. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A composite report will not provide adequate and appropriate transparency given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

(a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

(a)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster

(2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and

(3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.

(bd) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

(ee) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.

(ef) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

(1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

(2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~

(e) ~~For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

(fh) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

(1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;

(2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and

(3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(g) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shown some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The proposed language removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The suggested language addresses these concerns by codifying current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, BHEC would have the ability to provide the person with an emergency license during a declared disaster.

COMPLAINTS & ENFORCEMENT

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

- Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only ~~also~~ review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. §881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must may only also~~ review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words "must also" implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

Reply-To: Pat Gleason-Wynn <drpgw@yahoo.com>

To: "open.records@tsbep.texas.gov" <open.records@tsbep.texas.gov>

My name is Pat Gleason-Wynn, PhD, LCSW. I am a Licensed Clinical Social Worker who works with older adults and their caregivers both in the community and in healthcare. I have been a social worker for 40 years.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help the social work workforce meeting the needs of Texans.

Below my signature are a list of specific changes I am recommending and the sections covered. I would also like to highlight two important points:

1. BHEC Discretion re: Emergency License – COVID-19 has shown that social work licensure across state lines can impact whether someone receives timely mental health treatment. I believe that BHEC should immediately grant a license to someone from another state during the time of a disaster and have the discretion to grant emergency licenses to social workers licensed in other states who are not in good standing at their own discretion.
2. Licensing Rates: It is disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate increased. Social workers already deal with intense backlog with our licensing application and renewal process. We continue to see licensing rates grow without any change to show for it. We ask that BHEC rules keep our rates unchanged.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

Sincerely,

APPLICATIONS & LICENSURE

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

a. The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

- Rationale: One of the key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council is to improve efficiency and to expedite license processing. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A composite report will not provide adequate and appropriate transparency given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

~~(a)~~ For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

~~(a)(b)~~ A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster

(2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and

(3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.

~~(bd)~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

~~(ee)~~ An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.

~~(ef)~~ To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

(1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

(2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.

~~(e)~~ For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

~~(g)~~ An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

~~(fh)~~ An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

(1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;

(2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and

(3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(g) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shown some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The proposed language removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The suggested language addresses these concerns by codifying would-current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, BHEC would have the ability to provide the person with an emergency license during a declared disaster.

COMPLAINTS & ENFORCEMENT

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

- Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only ~~also~~ review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words "must also" implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

Hello,

My name is Monique Rodriguez and I am a Licensed Master Social Worker licensed in Texas. I have recently been promoted to the El Paso Regional Manager as our organization has expanded from Houston to the El Paso community. The clients I serve include active duty service members, veterans, Reservists, National Guardsmen, caregivers, and their families (SMVF). I also serve organizations that serve SMVF from nonprofit, local, state, and federal agencies. We are a backbone collaborative organization that connects clients to quality organizations that can meet their needs. Furthermore, I work on several committees that focus on addressing veteran suicide and have written reports on veteran issues.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. Suggested Comments on BHEC Rules

- General Provisions

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only also review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

(d) (pick up from notebook)

Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance. As proposed, §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. Replacing “must also” with “may only” reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

- Complaints and Enforcement

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council shall ~~may~~ solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council shall ~~may~~ specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

Rationale: As set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code, each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

- Applications and Licensure

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

(a) The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

Rationale: Improving efficiency and expediting license processing are key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A consolidated report will not provide adequate transparency and detail, given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

- (c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

 - (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;
 - (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; ~~the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster;~~

- (e) ~~For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

- (g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.
- (fh) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:
- (1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;

 - (3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.
- (gi) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.
- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shed some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. This rule, as published, removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The proposed revision addresses these concerns by codifying current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, they could have the opportunity to be issued an emergency license during a declared disaster.

To: "open.records@tsbep.texas.gov" <open.records@tsbep.texas.gov>

For your consideration regarding the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC), I recommend the following changes:

Regarding 881.20, change "must also" to "may only" ; This will better align with 507.153 of the Occupational Code

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council (b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only ~~also~~ review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

Regarding 884.12, Change "may" to "shall"; The member boards are the best source of ethical complaints and have the knowledge of the specific profession. Member boards shall be consulted. I realize this may delay processing, however, it is important to consult the member boards.

§884.12 Complaint Disposition. (c) The Council shall ~~may~~ solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council shall ~~may~~ specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

Regarding 882.70, Please make the changes as recommended by The Texas Counseling Association, National Association of Social Workers - Texas (NASW-TX), Texas Society for Clinical Social Work (TSCSW), the Texas Association of Marriage and Family Therapists (TAMFT) and the Texas Psychological Association (TPA),

These are all outstanding organizations that support the professions of mental health counseling. Heed their recommendations.

Thank you for your consideration.

Warmly,

Rebecca Lincoln, LPC-S #17816

To Whom It May Concern:

My name is Joseph Hartsoe and I am a social work student who has graduated and waiting for my license to be issued any day. My previous experience and future area of practice is working with youth in the school setting to provide social and emotional support with education to enhance their functioning, increase matriculation, and entrance into the Texas society as contributing members to our communities.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide the following comments on the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. I want to use the opportunity to improve the licensing board to better serve all licensed social workers in our state. We need an efficient and skilled board to function at its highest capacity to help the social work workforce meeting the needs of Texans.

2. Licensing Rates: It is disappointing to see that our social work licensing rate increased. Social workers already deal with intense backlog with our licensing application and renewal process. Our profession continue to see licensing rates grow without any change to show for it. I ask that BHEC rules keep our rates unchanged.
 1. The renewal fee on LMSW/LCSW licenses is of particular concern when compared to the renewal fee of LPC's. LMSW practitioners do not have the same independent practice authority as LPC holders but yet, your proposed plan outlines that the two be charged the same rate for their license renewal each cycle.
 2. Further, it is unfortunate to see that LCSW practitioners are required to pay more than LPCs for their license renewal. LCSW's traditionally offer comparable services in psychotherapy and independent practice authority, yet, the board's current proposal state that LCSW's be charged more for their license renewal compared to their LPC colleagues.

I appreciate the opportunity to provide feedback on the BHEC rules and look forward to working together to improve processes for social work licensure.

Sincerely,

Joseph Hartsoe

GENERAL PROVISIONSSUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING*§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only also review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

- Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words "must also" implies that the authority of the Council to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

Coalition Comments on Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council DRAFT RULES

The mental health professional associations listed above represent Licensed Marriage and Family Therapists, Licensed Professional Counselors, Psychologists and Social Workers. The comments herein reflect our collective efforts to ensure the successful launch and functioning of the newly created Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC).

We appreciate the legislative leadership and thoughtful emphasis on strengthening the mental health infrastructure in Texas and applaud the many hours of implementation work in connection with establishing a well-functioning and responsive BHEC. BHEC is an innovative strategy to create operational efficiencies while maintaining the integrity of the respective member boards' appropriate regulatory authority over what makes each mental health professional licenses unique. The regulatory authority delegated to BHEC is explicitly limited to establishing operational efficiencies and ensuring that any rule promulgated by a member board does not violate federal antitrust laws by limiting competition or impacting prices charged by persons engaged in a profession or business the executive council regulates. This ensures active state supervision while protecting the state's sovereign immunity.

Our associations appreciate the opportunity to participate both informally and formally in the process to adopt the rules that will govern BHEC's operating procedures and relationship with our respective licensing boards. Many of the proposed rules reflect the comments and recommendations delivered by us at your last meeting, but there are additional rules we would respectfully submit for your consideration, such as those allowing for emergency licenses, that reflect the current health crisis and should provide for a much swifter state response in the future.

We welcome your favorable consideration and encourage the agency to adopt the language recommendations listed below to ensure the rules as finally adopted are consistent with Chapter 507 of the Texas Occupations Code, as well as current and best practices.

Applications and Licensure

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

- (a) The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

Rationale: One of the key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating BHEC is to improve efficiency and to expedite license processing. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A composite report will not provide adequate and appropriate transparency given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

- (a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.
- (b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:
 - (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and
 - (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.
- (c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:
 - (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;
 - (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster;
 - (2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and
 - (3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.
- (d) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.
- (e) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.
- (f) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:
 - (1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

- (2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~
- (e) ~~For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~
- (g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.
- (fh) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:
 - (1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;
 - (2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and
 - (3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.
- (gi) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shed some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. The published language removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The suggested new language addresses these concerns by codifying current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, BHEC would have the ability to provide the person with an emergency license during a declared disaster.

Complaints and Enforcement

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12

Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

Rationale: One of the over-arching intents of the Legislature was to maintain the integrity and independence of each licensing board in establishing standards of care and ethical practices as set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code. Each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. BHEC does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

General Provisions

SUBCHAPTER A – GENERAL PROVISIONS: Add a new §881.14 as follows:

§881.14 Impartiality and Non-discrimination

- (a) The BHEC board members will make decisions in the discharge of its statutory authority without regard to a person's age, race, religion, ethnicity, sex, gender, affectional orientation, disability, national origin, or genetic information.
- (b) Any BHEC board member who is unable to be impartial in the determination of disciplinary action against a licensee or who is determined to have a conflict of interest as set forth in §881.5 will declare this to the board and will not participate in any board proceedings involving that licensee.
- (c) A person needing accommodations under the Americans with Disabilities Act (42 U.S.C. §12101 et seq.) in order to access BHEC board services must request reasonable accommodations in writing and may be required to provide verification of the person's disability and recommendations for appropriate accommodations from a medical, mental health, rehabilitation, or educational professional or specialist qualified to make such recommendations.

Rationale: Each of the member boards housed at BHEC have similar language currently in their rules. It appears that due to the role BHEC has in issuing licenses and administering the complaint process, those specific rules are being removed as the individual member boards propose rules changes to align with HB 1501 and the creation of BHEC. These protections, however, should be maintained by BHEC. We anticipate that the omission of this important language is an oversight since these rules were developed prior to the rule reviews undertaken by the individual member boards.

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

- (b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only also review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

(d) Member boards must submit a new draft rule or rule change to the Council for consideration by submitting a draft of the rule with any deletions crossed through and additions underlined. The draft must also contain each of the notice components required in a preamble (e.g. §2001.024 of the Government Code) when proposing a new rule or rule change to the Council, member boards must also submit any information or comments received from the public in connection with the proposed rule. The Council shall limit its review of proposed rules to questions regarding anticompetitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code, enacted by the 86th Legislature, specifically limits review of member board rules by BHEC only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency and good governance. As proposed, §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. The words “must also” implies that the authority of BHEC to review member board rules is broader than statutorily allowed. Replacing “must also” with “may only” reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

- General Provisions

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only also review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

(d) (pick up from notebook)

Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance. As proposed, §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. Replacing “must also” with “may only” reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

- Complaints and Enforcement

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

Rationale: As set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code, each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

- Applications and Licensure

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.6 Limitations on Number of Examination Attempts

~~(a) An applicant may take an examination administered or required by the Council no more than three times. Failure to pass an examination subject to this rule within three attempts, will result in an automatic denial of an application. The number of examination attempts allowed for applicants will be determined by the member board authorized to set those requirements.~~

Rationale: The examination required for each specific licensure are created using independent norming groups and have varied difficulty levels and expected pass rates. Consequently, each independent licensing board should retain the right to set rules regarding the number of times licensees are allowed to sit for the exams before they are denied application and therefore entrance into the field.

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

(a) The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

Rationale: Improving efficiency and expediting license processing are key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A consolidated report will not provide adequate transparency and detail, given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

(a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

~~(a)(b)~~ A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

(1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;

(2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster;

(2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and

(3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.

~~(b)~~ (d) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

~~(e)~~ (e) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.

~~(f)~~ (f) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

(1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and

(2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~

~~(e) For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out of state license, certification, or registration.~~

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

(fh) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

(1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;

(2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and

(3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(gi) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

• Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shed some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. This rule, as published, removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The proposed revision addresses these concerns by codifying current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, they could have the opportunity to be issued an emergency license during a declared disaster.

To: "open.records@tsbep.texas.gov" <open.records@tsbep.texas.gov>

My name is Helen Harris and I am a licensed social worker, LCSW-S, #9514. I am a social work educator at the Garland School of Social Work/Baylor University.

Thank you for the opportunity to respond with comments specific to the Behavioral health Executive Council (BHEC) draft rules. This board and these rules are important to the effective and efficient provision of a social work workforce in Texas.

I have reviewed the draft carefully and have several comments/questions and recommendations and appreciate your willingness to consider these.

1. In times of disaster like we currently experience with COVID-19, is important that licensed social workers from other states be able to quickly receive emergency license to practice.
2. Here are my comments on specific parts of the proposed law with page number and section.

- Does the rotational nature of board member selection mean that there will be years without a social worker on the board?
- If the council/board decides on the qualifications for the Executive Director, might that impact the discipline(s) that are elevated or ignored for Executive Director qualifications?
- 881 Sick leave pool....why are more procedures needed than in the Government Code and Employees Retirement System of Texas etc. p. 15
- 882.2. Requires a transcript from the accredited institution....directly from the institution.
Current students can take the exam in their last semester of work. Does this eliminate that? P. 21
- p. 21 #5...SAVE...is this about making sure immigrants aren't getting any entitlements? Why would this be important if they have been students and may have needed help?
- Currently application for licensure is the ticket to taking the exam. This says you need exam results prior to applying for licensure. How does that work with ASWB? P. 21
- p. 23. 882.6. Previous licensure rules included provision for the rare student who is unable to pass the exam after three tries because of disabilities related to testing but who meets all other requirements and demonstrates promise as a practitioner. The provision was application to practice for several years under the close supervision of a licensed practitioner who oversees the practice and at the end of the provisional time makes a recommendation regarding the candidate's licensure. In my 40 years of practice I have only worked with one graduate/practitioner who needed this provision but was able to practice successfully under supervision and then with her own license having successfully met the supervised practice requirement. I recommend the council consider this option for the new law.

- p. 43. 882.50-1. Random audits. Each month 10% of the licensees will be selected by an automated process....I assume this means 10% of those due for renewal for that month but this is not clear and suggests that 10% of all licensees would be selected each month indicating that 120% would be audited each year....a burdensome and expensive process.

- p. 46: 882.61 Special Licensing Provisions for Military Spouses. Thank you. Excellent change.

- p. 49. 882.70. Emergency Temporary License

The delay in licensing has been substantial in past years and an emergency temporary license has been available to those waiting for the state to process applications...particularly for those who need a license to secure or retain a job and whose licenses are held up through no fault of their own. I recommend that option for six month emergency temporary license be included.

Thank you again for the opportunity to respond.

For clarify and to avoid conflict with member board provisions, please consider change to §883.2 Initial License Renewal Dates as indicated below:

§883.2 Initial License Renewal Dates

- (a) The license expiration date for a license issued by this agency is the last day of the licensee's birth month.
- (b) The initial renewal date for a license issued or reinstated by this agency shall be set as follows:
 - (1) A license issued or reinstated within 180 days prior to the last day of a licensee's birth month shall be set for renewal on the next expiration date following a period of two years from the date of issuance or reinstatement.
 - (2) A license issued or reinstated more than 180 days prior to the last day of a licensee's birth month shall be set for renewal on the next expiration date following a period of one year from the date of issuance or reinstatement.
 - (3) An LPC Intern license, a social worker's temporary license, or an LMFT Associate license shall be set with a renewal or expiration date in accordance with rules in Texas Administrative Code, Chapters 681, 781, or 801, respectively, as specified by the appropriate member board.
- (c) Following the initial renewal dates set forth in subsection (b) of this section, a license shall become subject to the standard renewal schedule and requirements.
- (d) Notwithstanding subsection (b) of this section, for individuals with more than one license from a member board, the initial renewal date for a newly issued or reinstated license shall coincide with the individual's existing license renewal date.

MFT board held meeting by telephone on April 17, 2020 and proposed amendments to 22 TAC §801.202 LMFT Associate License to align with Council rules such that:

§801.202 LMFT Associate License

- (a) The initial LMFT Associate license will be issued for a period of 24 months and may be renewed biennially for a period not to exceed a total of 72 months.
- (b) An LMFT Associate who has held the LMFT Associate license for 72 months and submitted documentation to the Council board to satisfy all minimum requirements for LMFT licensure, except the 500-hour 750-hour requirement set in §801.142(1)(B) of this title (relating to Supervised Clinical Experience Requirements and Conditions) and requiring at least 500 750 hours of direct clinical services to couples or families, may renew his or her LMFT Associate license only once more (not exceeding 96 months of licensure as an LMFT Associate).
- (c) An LMFT Associate who has held the LMFT Associate license for 72 months (or 96 months if subsection (b) of this section applies) and has not met the minimum requirements for LMFT licensure, may not renew but must reapply for the LMFT Associate license, meeting all current application requirements and passing the national licensure examination no more than six months before the date the application is received.

Current LPC board rules include

§681.91 LPC Intern License

- (g) An LPC Intern license will expire 60 months from the date of issuance.

Current SW board rules include

§781.411 Temporary License

- (c) The temporary license is valid until the licensee attempts the appropriate examination or the end of the six-month issuance of the temporary license

For fairness to allow child victims as much time as possible to process experience and file complaint and for consistency with record retention rules, please consider change to §884.1 Timeliness of Complaints as indicated in (a) below. There should be no limit to complaints alleging sexual misconduct. Although the respondent is no longer required to keep records after a certain period of time, the complainant or witness(es) may have records or testimony to allow an investigation to move forward, please consider deletion of subsection (b).

§884.1 Timeliness of Complaints

(a) A complaint not involving sexual misconduct will be considered timely if brought within five years of the date of the termination of professional services or within five years of the patient, client or recipient of services reaching the age of majority, whichever is greater.

~~[(b) A complaint alleging sexual misconduct will be considered timely if brought within seven years after the date of termination of services or within five years of the patient, client or recipient of services reaching the age of majority, whichever is greater.]~~

(b)(e) A complaint arising out of a matter required to be reported to the Council pursuant to rule §884.32 of this chapter, will be considered timely if brought within five years of the date the matter is reported to the Council. Limitations shall not begin to run for any such complaint until the matter is reported in accordance with Council rules.

On April 17, 2020, the Texas State Board of Examiners of Marriage and Family Therapists voted to recommend the following changes to record retention rules:

§801.48 Record Keeping, Confidentiality, Release of Records, and Required Reporting

(e) A licensee must keep accurate records of therapeutic services, including dates of services, types of services, progress or case notes and billing information for a minimum of seven[six] years after termination of services or [for an adult client and] five years after a client reaches the age of majority [beyond the age of 18 for a minor], whichever is greater [longer].

Current MFT Board rules impose no limit to receiving complaint alleging sexual misconduct:

§801.296 Complaint Procedures

(b) Allegations not involving violations of §801.45 of this title (relating to Sexual Misconduct) must be filed within 5 years of the date of termination of professional services or within 5 years of a minor client's 18th birthday, whichever is later.

Current SW Board rules impose no limit to receiving complaint alleging sexual misconduct:

§781.603 Complaint Procedures

Office of Texas Governor Greg Abbott

Subject: Oppose "Special Requirements for Complaints Alleging Violations Related to Court-Ordered Evaluations"

Dear Governor Abbott and Staff,

This letter serves as public comments on the proposed rules "Special Requirements for Complaints Alleging Violations Related to Court-Ordered Evaluations" (Proposed Rules, April 24, 2020, 45 Texas Register) and is a supplement to the March 9, 2020 letter (attached).

Far too often, children are wrongfully removed from parents due to court experts' misconduct and unreliable findings. Parents must pay tens and hundreds of thousands of dollars, and spend years that they will never get back with their children to overcome the damage done, clear their good names and hopefully, reunite with their children.

We oppose the proposed rules because they do not ensure the protection and safety of Texas children and families.

The proposal only restricts families' ability to report expert misconduct. It gives agency staff many opportunities to dismiss reports of misconduct when they are received and before ever starting an investigation.

Staff must actually investigate reports before determining if they are valid or not. If agencies dismiss reports without investigating them, valid complaints will be ignored, and families will be harmed by ignored reports of misconduct.

The proposed rules do nothing to prevent misconduct so children and families aren't harmed in the first place. Though citizens have repeatedly requested stricter regulations and stronger enforcement, the rules provide no requirements for forensic evaluators who report to courts. The proposal only restricts reporting about these practitioners after damage is done.

A citizen advisory board must be formed to help develop effective solutions because protecting the public's safety must include input from the public. For over a year, we asked TSBEP to form a citizen task force, yet the agency has not done so.

The proposal ties investigation to litigation, which are not contingent upon one another. When families receive services from forensic evaluators, they must have an unrestricted right to report misconduct regardless of litigation.

Due to coronavirus, we ask that these proposed rules be placed on hold until the lockdown is lifted across Texas, and citizens have ample opportunity to review and participate.

We respectfully request that you revise the proposed rules to include the following input.

1. Regulate and Enforce Forensic Licensees

The most critical issue is to further regulate and strongly enforce forensic licensees because they influence judicial decisions about children and families. These practitioners must comply with more rigorous, specialized rules and requirements.

Darrel Spinks, TBHEC and TSBEP director, explained how the proposal shifts the burden to the public and protects licensees from complaints. "We would be getting the complaint in. At this point, we wouldn't send notice to the licensee because that's one of the things we've, that's one, that's one of the rubs that we're trying to avoid is having to notify the licensee, have them engage counsel, possibly jeopardize malpractice insurance if it's a complaint that's baseless or is going to be dismissed. So if we can require, if we can, require the complainant to produce this to us if it was produced to them." (Aug 2019 TSBEP board meeting)

To protect children and families, TBHEC and its member agencies must hire investigative staff who are experts in both the profession and law. TBHEC must also adopt and enforce special rules on forensic licensees, including but not limited to:

- a. Employ best practices, such as valid and reliable scientific methods.
- b. Comply with the most current edition of DSM and ethical codes.
- c. Must not disregard the findings of other licensed professionals involved in the case.
- d. Must not require clients to sign agreements giving up their rights.
- e. See also our Mar, 9, 2020 letter in which we included Dr. Edward Silverman's suggestions. TSBEP board member Fletcher praised Dr. Edward Silverman for his recommendations on stricter regulations for licensees like himself.

The petition below, signed by hundreds of Texans and presented to TSBEP over one year ago, also outlines requirements for forensic licensees.

<https://www.change.org/p/investigation-into-forensic-custody-evaluator-dr-alissa-sherry-and-legal-consensus>

2. Increase Agency Transparency and Accountability

TBHEC must improve transparency and accountability to protect families from unscrupulous and untrained licensees, including forming a citizen advisory board. There's little to no accountability currently because these activities are not disclosed in any meaningful way.

- a. Provide substantive information about investigations and enforcement. TSBEP refuses to release information, even to complainants. "No. The complaint process is confidential and not subject to disclosure." (Alfonso Fernandez <enforcement.manager@tsbep.state.tx.us>, Mar 17, 2020 email)
- b. Provide investigative records to the complainant within ten (10) business days upon request.
- c. Provide complainants the reason(s) for dismissal and allow complainants at least 180 days to respond and/or resolve any issues.
- d. Establish an appeal process for complaints. Per Spinks, "The dismissal of a complaint may not be appealed by a complainant or a third-party." (Darrel Spinks <Executive.Director@tsbep.texas.gov>, Jun 23, 2019 email)
- e. Track, analyze, and disclose patterns of misconduct reported against a single licensee in multiple complaints. (TSBEP has been investigating a single forensic psychologist in countless complaints since at least 2015. Yet, the agency has not taken any disciplinary actions, nor will it disclose any information about this matter. TSBEP also refuses to investigate group complaints against a single psychologist.)
- f. Utilize data that it currently collects to improve licensee services and prevent misconduct.
- g. Establish a mechanism for citizens to report misconduct that does not place the complainant at risk of retaliation from the licensee.

3. Disclose the Proposed Rules and Expand Public Input

The public has been given limited opportunity to review and comment. At TSBEP quarterly board meetings, the proposal was discussed by staff and board members, but was not provided to the public. It is unknown if TBHEC presented this information in a public meeting and allowed input. Now, the coronavirus has significantly hindered involvement.

A citizen advisory board would allow critical public input to develop effective, comprehensive solutions.

Spinks is the director of both TSBEP and TBHEC. In his dual role, he 'envisioned sliding' this proposal to TBHEC after TSBEP drafted it. Spinks stated, "Candidly, what I'm kind of envisioning is, is y'all do the work here and (laughs) we're going to slide it over to the council and go 'Here. This, this is what they came up with and I think this is a pretty good idea to how to handle it across the board'." (Aug 2019 board meeting)

4. Burdensome on Complainants

The proposal is overly-burdensome to complainants who may be laypeople, may lack documentation through no fault of their own, or may lack the resources to meet the requirements of this proposal—all of which will lead to dismissals and ultimately, misconduct going undetected.

Spinks stated that the proposal only requires substantial, not strict, compliance. However, the proposed rules include many avenues for staff to automatically dismiss complaints when received if criteria are not met. TSBEP board members discussed their support of the criteria as 'options' for the public.

Board member Fletcher stated, we "... can determine who are the people that are the good evaluators and who are the people that are the bad evaluators, if I can get that dirty about it. That, um, because we don't want people who aren't doing what they're expected according to board rules out there doing it ..." Another board member stated, "If we get this information, it gives us the ammo that the board needs to go take out a child custody evaluator who is doing a bad job."

The TSBEP board's intent is to identify and remove unethical licensees. But, these rules undermine this goal since they only restrict complainants.

5. Evaluators Must Release Records

TSBEP does not enforce current rules which require licensees to release records. One such psychologist refuses to release records to numerous former clients. TSBEP refuses to take any action.

Without records, citizens are hindered from submitting thorough complaints. Reports of misconduct may have been, and continue to be, wrongfully dismissed on this basis.

Multiple TSBEP board members raised concerns about licensees who do not release records when under investigation: there are 'plenty' of licensees who 'go radio silent' and are 'uncooperative.' The board does not want complaints to be dismissed because a licensee is 'purposefully stonewalling' the investigation.

A board member stated, "Just thinking about the legitimate, bad evaluators. A legitimate, bad evaluator may not be that helpful or compliant with producing information. And I just want to make sure that when you guys get that, if it's missing something that staff has the latitude to say yes let's go forward." (Aug 2019 TSBEP board meeting)

6. Prohibit TBHEC from Dismissals if Insufficient Evidence for Hearing

It is unclear how staff can make a determination that there's insufficient evidence for court purposes: the agency is not a court of law and staff are not judges. The agency may have wrongfully dismissed valid complaints on this basis.

TSBEP informs the public that it dismisses reports of misconduct "if there is not sufficient evidence to withstand a court hearing." Yet, the agency also instructs complainants to "state in simple, narrative language why you think the professional violated the Psychologists' Licensing Act or Board rules." (www.tsbep.texas.gov/how-to-file-a-complaint-enforcement)

7. Professional Second Opinions and Reviews

The TSBEP board discussed disqualifying certain second opinions and reviews from being considered during investigation. Complainants should be allowed to include relevant second opinions and reviews, and such information should not be disqualified.

Other licensed professionals (e.g., counselors, therapists, social workers, psychiatrists, doctors, etc.) can have extensive knowledge about the issues addressed in the complaint. Thus, these professionals can discern potential misconduct to investigate. Further, TBHEC now oversees all mental health licensing agencies which license professionals from other disciplines.

8. Analyze and Develop Comprehensive Solutions

A citizen advisory board must be formed to advise on developing effective solutions to prevent children from being wrongfully removed and families being harmed due to poor forensic evaluations. Judges, families and other professionals rely heavily on these experts' services; if they are inaccurate or unsound, it can have disastrous and costly effects.

TBHEC, along with a citizen advisory board, must consider the myriad factors present in these situations, and then develop comprehensive, effective solutions. A one-size-fits-all approach is inadequate because each complaint has a unique set of circumstances.

Factors that must be considered include, but are not limited to:

- a. Duration and state of litigation. Once a parent or child receives services, that individual must have an unrestricted right to report misconduct regardless of litigation.
- b. Involvement of attorney(s) and other licensed professionals
- c. Manner in which the expert's services were engaged (e.g., court order, contract, etc.)
- d. Extent and nature of the expert's services (e.g., testimony with or without evaluation, which family members were evaluated, methodologies used, etc.)

We, along with countless families across Texas, request that you give careful consideration to these comments to ensure the protection and safety of Texas children and families.

We invite you to contact us, and look forward to hearing from you. Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Cynthia Chebultz, Stephanie Gipson, and Barry Lynn and Tammy Parker

Subject: Special Requirements for Complaints Alleging Violations based on Court-Ordered Evaluations

Dear Governor Abbott and Staff,

We understand your office is working closely with TBHEC and TSBEP to recommend requirements for investigating licensing complaints involving forensic services in family law. Can you please provide us an update on its current status at the Governor's office?

We are a group of parents from across Texas who are concerned about those (hopefully, few) forensic practitioners who are hired guns providing scientifically unsound, biased opinions under the guise of objectivity and scientific reliability. Courts and citizens rely heavily on such expert services; when they are flawed, children and families are inevitably hurt. There are over 500 signatures on a petition which discusses these issues.

Petition re Forensic Services in Family Court

We are aware that a number of complaints against one such practitioner were dismissed by TSBEP, and more are being investigated. Given the inclusion of other experts' reviews and supporting documentation, we question whether complaints may have been wrongfully dismissed.

We understand the agency's efforts to distinguish between legitimate complaints and others, which, after all, is the goal of all investigations and is not unique to complaints such as ours. Great care must be taken in these types of complaints due to the intersection between both family law and psychology. We appreciate everyone's efforts to address this issue, and ask that you, TBHEC and TSBEP consider the following input.

We also continue to ask that a citizen task force, comprised of parents like us, be formed. A task force would provide valuable public input on this issue. When citizens are able, they attend TSBEP meetings. However, those who do not live in the Austin area and/or have obligations during the work day are unable to attend, which hinders public input.

1. Do not prohibit complaints from being submitted until after final court order, case dismissal, or judgment

Investigation and determining the merits of complaints are entirely independent of family litigation and should not be contingent upon it. Once a client receives services from a psychologist, that client should have an unrestricted ability to submit a complaint.

Waiting until after the case is closed could limit the risk of unethical practitioners (who are still involved in cases) from retaliating against a complainant. However, when family court cases drag on for years (which they often do), such a prohibition would deter citizens from reporting misconduct. Thus, unethical professionals would continue to pose a risk to the public.

2. Increase regulation of forensic practitioners to reduce risk to public and reduce complaints

As a Texas forensic psychologist recommended to TSBEP, state law should strengthen regulations for forensic psychologists.

- mandate court competencies
- require specialized continuing education
- mandate adherence to professional standards such as those referenced by American Academy of Forensic Psychology (AAFP), American Psychological Association (APA), and Association of Family and Conciliation

Courts (AFCC)

- require evaluators to record all witness interviews, including parents and children
- remove quasi-immunity, and more.

Forensic practitioners must release records upon request by the clients/parents, which is currently not being enforced though it appears state law exists. Prohibit forensic practitioners from requiring clients to sign agreements giving up their rights to, for example, complain or sue.

3. No-cost and layperson-friendly complaint process

Each complaint should be thoroughly investigated on its merits, and not on the degree of professionalism with which it was prepared. Requiring complainants to submit documentation from other professionals (e.g., lawyers, other practitioners) deters the public from reporting misconduct. It should, instead, remain an option for complainants to include supporting documentation when available. Pro se litigants do not have attorneys.

When considering costs associated with complaints, bear in mind the following. In known complaints, parents have paid from a few thousand dollars to tens of thousands of dollars, regardless of the competency and quality of the services. If parents do not or can not pay for flawed psychological services, unethical psychologists seek court enforcement and thus, parents face fines, jail time, and more.

Unethical psychologists abuse this power; engage in dual roles; fabricate problems and psychological diagnoses; and make invalid recommendations, all of which increases their profits. Client parents must pay the fees set by psychologists, which can be exorbitant and exceed agreed-upon amounts, and again, regardless of the competency and quality of services rendered.

4. Shorten the duration of investigations

While we understand that such complaints are complex and time-consuming, the duration of investigation should be improved. Investigations should be conducted by experts in both psychology and family law. We do not wish the duration of investigation to be expedited by sacrificing the quality of investigations, however.

5. Increase transparency of investigations

As a public activity, investigations should be made available to the public. Further, we ask that TSBEP disclose to complainants the basis for dismissals, and allow complainants to respond and submit further documentation.

It is common knowledge that expert opinions can be bought for litigation purposes. As one TSBEP board member remarked during the August 2019 board meeting, "You can usually find an expert who will write the opinion you want." Unwitting citizens, on the other hand, trust the profession as well as the judicial process. They are unaware that they are retaining a hired gun disguised as a competent, objective psychologist.

It would be helpful to the public to be aware of investigations and dismissed complaints against a psychologist. Similar information is already made available to the public. For instance, family court proceedings are open to the public prior to judgments. Currently, the public is only made aware after disciplinary actions are taken.

While we understand that psychologists may oppose such a measure, we hope to reach a compromise such as a disclosure like this: "The following licensees were investigated by TSBEP but no violations were found and no disciplinary actions were taken. These licensees remain in good standing with TSBEP." And, "The following licensees are currently under investigation by TSBEP and, until such time as investigation has been completed and a decision has been reached, these licensees remain in good standing with TSBEP."

In closing, there is common ground between psychologists and the public. We all want to make the most well-informed, objective decisions we can about families and children, so psychology should not be used as fodder for litigation. Psychologists wish to preserve the integrity of their services as much as the public does.

We invite you to contact us, and look forward to hearing from you. Thank you for your consideration.

Subsections (d) through (f) are overly burdensome on the complainant, especially considering that many of the records required to be submitted by the complainant are required by the LPC, MFT and SW boards to be retained in licensee's records. Please consider deleting subsections (d) through (f) as indicated below.

§884.3 Special Requirements for Complaints Alleging Violations Related to Court Ordered Evaluations

~~(d) A complaint subject to this rule must include the following documentation or information:~~

- ~~—(1) A copy of the court order appointing the licensee to conduct the evaluation, or alternatively, a transcript or excerpt therefrom or written statement from an attorney of record in the case reflecting the licensee's appointment;~~
- ~~—(2) A copy of the licensee's expert report, or a statement that no such report was produced or provided;~~
- ~~—(3) A copy of any judgment, final order, or dismissal entered by the trial court; and~~
- ~~—(4) A copy of any documents provided by the licensee describing the costs of services, the nature of the services provided, as well as any limitations associated with those services, or a statement that no such documents were provided.~~

~~(e) A complaint that does not substantially comply with subsection (d) of this section, shall be dismissed by agency staff. A complaint may be held open for no more than 30 days following notice to the complainant regarding any such deficiency, after which, agency staff shall dismiss the complaint if the deficiency is not cured.~~

~~(f) A complaint subject to this rule shall be dismissed unless the complainant can show:~~

- ~~—(1) The licensee was disqualified or struck as an expert witness by the trial court;~~
- ~~—(2) The licensee's opinion or inferences (i.e. testimony or report) complained of were ruled inadmissible by the trial court;~~
- ~~—(3) A curriculum vitae and written report by an expert that provides a fair summary of the expert's opinions regarding the applicable law governing the licensee's expert opinion or report (i.e. standard of care) and the manner in which the licensee failed to meet the requirements of the applicable law. The report must come from an expert qualified to render an expert opinion under Texas law on the relevant subject;~~
- ~~—(4) A letter from an attorney licensed to practice law in Texas setting forth the applicable law governing the licensee's expert opinion or report and reflecting an opinion as to the manner in which the licensee failed to meet the requirements of the applicable law; or~~
- ~~—(5) The agency would be likely to prevail at a hearing before SOAH based upon the information provided.~~

Current LPC rules requiring certain records:

§681.41 General Ethical Requirements

(e) Regardless of setting, a licensee must provide counseling only in the context of a professional relationship. Prior to providing services, a licensee must obtain from an individual a signed informed consent, signed written receipt of information, or in the case of involuntary treatment a copy of the appropriate court order, including the following:

- (1) fees and arrangements for payment;
 - (2) counseling purposes, goals, and techniques;
 - (3) any restrictions placed on the license by the board;
 - (4) the limits on confidentiality;
 - (5) any intent of the licensee to use another individual to provide counseling treatment intervention to the client; and
 - (6) supervision of the licensee by another licensed health care professional including the name, address, contact information and qualifications of the supervisor;
 - (7) the name, address and telephone number of the board for the purpose of reporting violations of the Act or this chapter; and
 - (8) the established plan for the custody and control of the client's mental health records in the event of the licensee's death or incapacity, or the termination of the licensee's counseling practice.
- (f) A licensee must inform the client in writing of any changes to the items in subsection (e) of this section prior to initiating the change.
- (g) For each client, a licensee must keep accurate records of:
- (1) signed informed consent, signed written receipt of information, or, in the case of involuntary treatment, a copy of the appropriate court order

- (2) intake assessment;
- (3) dates of counseling treatment intervention;
- (4) principal treatment methods;
- (5) progress notes;
- (6) treatment plan; and
- (7) billing information.

(t) Billing Requirements.

(1) A licensee must bill clients or third parties for only those services actually rendered or as agreed to by mutual understanding at the beginning of services or as later modified by mutual written agreement.

(2) Relationships between a licensee and any other person used by the licensee to provide services to a client must be so reflected on billing documents.

(3) Pursuant to Texas Health and Safety Code Chapter 611, on the written request of a client, a client's guardian, or a client's parent (sole managing, joint managing or possessory conservator) if the client is a minor, a licensee must provide, in plain language, a written explanation of the types of treatment and charges for counseling treatment intervention previously made on a bill or statement for the client. This requirement applies even if the charges are to be paid by a third party.

(4) A licensee may not knowingly overcharge a client.

(5) With the exception of an unkept appointment, a licensee may not submit to a client or a third party payor a bill for counseling treatment intervention the licensee knows or should know is improper, unreasonable, or unnecessary.

(v) Prior to the commencement of counseling services to a minor client who is named in a custody agreement or court order, a licensee must obtain and review a current copy of the custody agreement or court order as well as any applicable part of the divorce decree. A licensee must maintain these documents in the client's record and abide by the documents at all times. When federal or state statutes provide an exemption to secure consent of a parent or guardian prior to providing services to a minor, a licensee must follow the protocol set forth in such federal or state statutes.

Current MFT rules requiring certain records:

§801.44 Relationships with Clients

(b) A licensee must make known in writing to a prospective client the important aspects of the professional relationship, including the licensee's status as an LMFT or LMFT Associate, any probationary status or other restrictions placed on the licensee by the board, office procedures, after-hours coverage, fees, and arrangements for payment (which might affect the client's decision to enter into the relationship).

(c) A licensee must obtain an appropriate consent for treatment before providing professional services. A licensee must make reasonable efforts to determine whether the conservatorship, guardianship, or parental rights of the client have been modified by a court. Before the commencement of therapy services to a minor client who is named in a custody agreement or court order, a licensee must obtain and review a current copy of the custody agreement or court order in a suit affecting the parent-child relationship. A licensee must maintain these documents in the client's record. When federal or state statutes provide an exemption to secure consent of a parent or guardian before providing services to a minor, a licensee must follow the protocol set forth in such federal or state statutes.

(d) A licensee must make known in writing to a prospective client the confidential nature of the client's disclosures and the clinical record, including the legal limitations of the confidentiality of the mental health record and information.

(m) A licensee may not bill clients or third parties for services not actually rendered or as agreed to in writing.

Current SW rules requiring certain records:

§781.201 Code of Conduct

(a) A social worker must observe and comply with the code of conduct and standards of practice set forth in this subchapter. Any violation of the code of conduct or standards of practice will constitute unethical conduct or conduct that discredits or tends to discredit the profession of social work and is grounds for disciplinary action.

(6) A social worker shall provide the client with a clear description of services, schedules, fees and billing at the initiation of services.

§781.203 General Standards of Practice

This section establishes standards of professional conduct required of a social worker. The licensee, following applicable statutes:

(7) shall ensure that, both before services commence and as services progress, the client knows the licensee's qualifications and any intent to delegate service provision; any restrictions the board has placed on the licensee's license; the limits on confidentiality and privacy; and applicable fees and payment arrangements;

(9) shall ensure that the client or a legally authorized person representing the client has signed a consent for services, when appropriate. Prior to commencement of social work services with a minor client who is named in a Suit Affecting Parent Child Relationship (SAPCR), the licensee shall ensure that all legally authorized persons representing the client have signed a consent for services, if applicable. A licensee shall maintain these documents in the client's record.

§781.204 Relationships with Clients

(a) A social worker shall inform in writing a prospective client about the nature of the professional relationship, which can include but is not limited to office procedures, after-hours coverage, services provided, fees, and arrangements for payment.

(f) A social worker shall keep accurate records of services to include, but not be limited to, dates of services, types of services, progress or case notes and billing information for a minimum of five years for an adult client and five years beyond the age of 18 years of age for a minor, or in compliance with applicable laws or professional standards. If the foregoing provision conflicts with the standards, requirements, or procedures for records generated in the course and scope of rendering services as a social worker, either directly or indirectly, for an educational institution, or a federal, state, or local governmental entity or political subdivision, the foregoing provision does not apply.

(g) A social worker shall bill clients or third parties for only those services actually rendered or as agreed to by mutual written understanding.

Good Afternoon:

I am writing to comment on proposed rule 884.3(f)(4) that reads "A letter from an attorney licensed to practice law in Texas setting forth the applicable law governing the licensee's expert opinion or report and reflecting an opinion as to the manner in which the licensee failed to meet the requirements of the applicable law; or..."

I am very concerned about allowing attorneys to become involved in licensing regulation issues. A custody evaluation often contains psychological testing for which attorneys have no expertise unless they are also licensed as a psychologist in Texas and allowing an attorney to opine to the board how a psychologist did or didn't follow the family code as it relates to psychology and psychological testings is giving attorneys significant, yet unearned power in the livelihood of a psychologist.

Additionally, in my experience as a custody evaluator, allowing attorneys to submit an opinion to the board against a psychologist will provide attorneys the opportunity to use custody evaluators as the mechanism or tool in their legal strategies when they file for a modification with the court on behalf of the complainant. At the time of final judgment, the role of the custody evaluator is complete, but an attorney ready to file a modification for a parent can serve as the person to write the letter to the board in the form of a complaint, as well as the attorney for the complainant, thereby drawing in the custody evaluator into a new case.

I see nothing positive by allowing attorneys to weigh in on matters related to psychology. The board is capable of investigating the complaint and all applicable laws without the input from attorneys.

Dear Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council staff,

I am writing to provide feedback on the recently proposed rule. By way of background, I am a Licensed as a Professional Counselor, although in addition to my Master's in Counseling I also hold a Doctorate in Social Work. Having studied in multiple professional disciplines I appreciate the challenge that BHEC has in working with member boards of different backgrounds. After beginning my career with Child Protective Services I transitioned to working for Dallas County Family Court Services providing child custody evaluations and other services. Although I have transitioned from public service to private practice, over the last two decades I have focused on forensic mental health services. In that time I have published articles in academic and professional journals and amongst my academic work I serve on the Editorial Boards of the journal Family Court Review and the Journal of Family Trauma, Child Custody & Child Development. Locally, I have worked with the Family Law Foundation to help draft and pass various pieces of legislation that impact Texas families, including various revisions of Section 107, Subchapter D of the Texas Family Code regarding child custody and adoption evaluations. Thanks to more than a decade of work by the family law and mental health communities, Texas has some of the most rigorous laws in the nation regarding to professional practices and requirements for evaluations.

I appreciate this opportunity to share my thoughts and feedback on the recommended changes. I have outlined specific rules below for ease of review. I want to lead off by clearly noting that I support the passage of these rules, and my feedback is intended to build constructively from what has been proposed. It is critical to both licensees and the public that these initial rules be passed in a timely manner; hopefully my feedback is helpful as future iterations develop, refine, and improve regulations for behavioral health professionals in Texas.

From the Texas Register, April 24,2020 issue:

§882.1 "Application process" subsection (3) proposes standards regarding application timeframes that give concern for arbitrary differences drawn between member board types. There appears to be no explanation in the proposed rules as to why one of the licensee types is given only 90 days to complete applications, where the other licensee types have one year. It appears best that there be a single administrative standard regarding application timeframes provides equitable treatment of licensees from all member boards.

§882.30 “Display of License” subsection (b) proposes different standards regarding licensees of different member boards. This again causes concern regarding disparate treatment without any apparent explanation in the proposed rules as to why two of the licensee types may meet this requirement through an alternative method, but the licensees of the other two member boards cannot. As with the issue noted above, it again appears best if there was a single administrative standard applicable toward all licensees.

§882.32. “Duty to Update Name and Address” subsection (a) appears to require a licensee to be responsible for ensuring adequate record keeping for the licensing boards and Executive Council. It has been my experience that member boards seem to struggle to track submissions and process administrative paperwork in a timely fashion. To more clearly reflect the apparent intent of this rule it should be modified for the last sentence to read “It is the responsibility of the individual to provide agency the correct contact information for that individual.” A licensee can demonstrate they have provided information, they cannot make sure the agency does the right thing with it.

§882.36. “Compliance with State and Federal Law” seems to omit Family Code Chapters 104 and 107, both of which have provisions applicable to licensees of all member boards. While such forensic services are rarer, all licensees should be required to comply with all laws of the State of Texas. I fear without specifically naming these Family Code sections BHEC may run the risk that this goal will not be enforceable.

§882.50. “Continuing Education and Audits” subsection (b)(1) causes some significant concerns. An audit each month of 10% of all licensees will mean that, across the course of a year, essentially every licensee will be sampled (statistically many will be sampled more than once, with an outside chance some will not be sampled at all). This seems likely to create an unnecessary burden. It appears one option would be for BHEC to instead require annual submission of continuing education information if the goal is truly to audit at such a level. It may be this section was intended to establish a random audit, in any given year, of 10% of all licensees which seems like a far more reasonable process, and a simple edit is required.

§884.3. “Special Requirements for Complaints Alleging Violations Related to Court Ordered Evaluations” is a section that has been needed for some time and I am pleased to see this included. The proposed changes should be adopted, and I am hopeful that future updates to rules can go further in addressing the complex adversarial nature of working with court-involved clients in areas other than evaluative work.. That said, it also appears some of these rules set an overly-high bar in some circumstances for clients who have been harmed by licensees.

In this difficult task BHEC should be commended for taking this first step to protect the public by insuring that competent forensic mental health professionals will be available when needed by court-involved clients. Too often complaints are used as “preemptive attacks” against professionals not because they have committed a licensing violation but because the litigating client is attempting to gain some sort of strategic advantage in court. The cost of such a scorched earth approach to litigation (in time, effort, and expense) drives many competent professionals to avoid any type of interaction with court-connected clients. This has the knock-on result of creating a shortage of well-trained professionals willing to take on forensic work, forcing some clients to seek out subpar providers and the subpar work they perform. In order to ensure the public has access to quality providers willing to work with court-connected clients I am hopeful in the future BHEC will expand these rules to apply to all licensees working under court appointment.

That said, I am also hopeful in the future BHEC will look at expanding the options, particularly under Subsection (f), for client complaints to be heard as I fear what has been proposed currently may be overly restrictive. As someone who has served as an expert witness in scores of hearings, including many cases reviewing the work of court-appointed evaluators, in my experience it is very rare to see a court disqualify or strike an expert after having appointed them. Even when the expert has blatantly failed to meet not just the standard of care, but basic requirements set out in the Family Code and court appointment order, this impacts the weight the court gives to the expert rather than resulting in disqualification. When courts permit an expert to correct a defect by supplementing a report (a common cure when there is a deficiency found) or otherwise mitigating their errors, this does not remove the expert's failure to meet their ethical duty to have performed a competent job the first time around.

At a minimum I believe the language found in proposed 884.5(a) regarding a court finding of violation or other deficiency by the licensee should be incorporated as one of the possible criteria under Subsection (f). This, and other future additions, should maintain a focus on the appropriate primary location for litigants to address issues with experts – the court where their case is being heard – while providing better options to protect the public when there is a true error worthy of a licensing complaint.

✓ §884.12 “Complaint Disposition” is section I believe should be modified to require that BHEC shall solicit input from its member boards, rather than “may” do so. §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code, each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. From my understanding, BHEC was not developed to have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards, and I believe therefore must be required to consult with the member boards regarding such issues.

I again appreciate all your hard work and effort on behalf of the citizens of Texas and those of us licensed to serve them. Even if my suggested revisions are not immediately possible, I encourage BHEC to pass the rules as drafted and implement updates in a subsequent iterations.

Sincerely,

Suggested Comments on BHEC Rules

- General Provisions

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20

Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council ~~must~~ may only also review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

(d) (pick up from notebook)

Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance. As proposed, §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. Replacing “must also” with “may only” reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

- Complaints and Enforcement

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS

§884.12

Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council ~~shall~~ ~~may~~ solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council ~~shall~~ ~~may~~ specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

Rationale: As set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code, each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

- Applications and Licensure

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9.

Established Application Processing Time

(a) The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

Rationale: Improving efficiency and expediting license processing are key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A consolidated report will not provide adequate transparency and detail, given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE

§882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

- (a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.
- (a)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

 - (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and
 - (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.
- (c) The Council ~~shall~~ may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

 - (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;
 - (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; ~~the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster;~~
 - (2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and
 - (3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.
- (b)(d) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.
- (e) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.
- (d)(f) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

 - (1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and
 - (2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~
- (e) ~~For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

(fh) An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

- (1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;
- (2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and
- (3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(gi) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shed some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. This rule, as published, removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The proposed revision addresses these concerns by codifying current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, they could have the opportunity to be issued an emergency license during a declared disaster.

- (d)(f) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

 - (1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and
 - (2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction ~~and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.~~
- (e) ~~For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.~~

(g) An emergency temporary license may be renewed in thirty (30) day increments if the disaster declaration has not expired or been terminated. To renew a license, an individual must submit a renewal application on a board-approved form on or before the license expiration date.

(f)h An individual practicing under an emergency temporary license must:

- (1) display a copy of the emergency temporary license in a conspicuous location when delivering services, or provide written notification of the license number and instructions on how to verify the status of a license when initiating services with a patient or client;
- (2) provide notification to the public and the patient or client regarding how a complaint may be filed with the Council; and
- (3) comply with all other applicable Council rules.

(gi) There is no fee associated with the application, issuance, or renewal of an emergency temporary license.

- Rationale: The unprecedented severity and magnitude of the current outbreak has shed some light onto appropriate disaster response provisions for health care providers. This rule, as published, removes practical agency discretion, is far more restrictive than current practice, and arguably conflicts with Government Code §418.117. The proposed revision addresses these concerns by codifying current practice, which is to allow out-of-state licensees in good standing to practice without an emergency license. The recommended changes would require a licensee who is not in good standing to seek approval from the BHEC for an emergency, temporary license. This is a practice adopted by the Board of Nursing, and it provides some discretionary flexibility to the agency to allow providers who are not in good standing to practice in Texas. For example, if a provider has a preexisting relationship with a patient who has returned to Texas during a disaster, and the provider is not in good standing because of some minor administrative violation, they could have the opportunity to be issued an emergency license during a declared disaster.

Please implement the suggested changes to the rules on establishing BHEC.

Suggested Comments on BHEC Rules

• General Provisions

SUBCHAPTER B – RULEMAKING

§881.20 Rulemaking by Executive Council

(b) The Council shall have exclusive rulemaking authority for the agency, including rules governing general agency operations, administration of licensure, investigation of complaints, and sanction procedures. In connection with this rulemaking authority, the Council must may only also review draft rules proposed by each member board for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance concerns.

(d) (pick up from notebook)

Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance. As proposed, §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. Replacing “must also” with “may only” reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.

• Complaints and Enforcement

SUBCHAPTER B – INVESTIGATION AND DISPOSITION OF COMPLAINTS §884.12 Complaint Disposition.

(c) The Council shall may solicit input from and request the assistance of a member board when considering a contested enforcement matter if there are concerns about the standard of care or ethical practice shown by a licensee. The Council shall may specify the format of the input and assistance requested to satisfy the requirements of this rule.

Rationale: As set forth in §507.306 of the Texas Occupations Code, each licensing board retains the authority to establish the standard of care and ethical practice required for their respective professions. The Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council does not have any authority related to standard of care or ethical standards and therefore must be required to consult with the member boards when these issues arise in contested enforcement matters. The benefits of engaging each board outweighs any potential processing delays.

• Applications and Licensure

SUBCHAPTER A – LICENSE APPLICATIONS

§882.9. Established Application Processing Time

(a) The Council shall publish the minimum, maximum and median times for processing applications by each license type during the preceding 12-month period on its website, together with a justification for each of these periods. These figures will be updated on an annual basis.

Rationale: Improving efficiency and expediting license processing are key features contemplated by the Legislature in creating the Texas Behavioral Health Executive Council. Collecting data by each license type will help evaluate the achievement of that goal and promote the appropriate allocation of BHEC resources. A consolidated report will not provide adequate transparency and detail, given the historical delays in the processing of each license type for each mental health professional category.

SUBCHAPTER G – EMERGENCY TEMPORARY LICENSE §882.70. Emergency Temporary License.

(a) For purposes of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on the out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

(a)(b) A person may practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work in this state to render aid in an emergency or disaster if:

- (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014; and
- (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state.

(c) The Council shall may issue an emergency temporary license to practice marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work if:

- (1) the Governor declares a disaster under Government Code §418.014;
- (2) the person has a license, certificate, or registration that is not in good standing issued by any state or political subdivision of any state; the Governor declares a disaster under §418.014 and issues a proclamation in accordance with of the Government Code §418.016 suspending regulatory statutes and rules which would prevent, hinder, or delay necessary action in coping with the declared disaster;
- (2) the Executive Director determines that enacting these emergency licensing provisions are necessary in that disaster area; and
- (3) the applicant meets the requirements set forth herein below.

(bd) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule will expire thirty (30) days after issuance or upon termination of the state of disaster, whichever occurs first.

(ce) An emergency temporary license issued pursuant to this rule is valid only for the practice of marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, psychology, or social work within the disaster area designated by the governor.

(df) To be eligible for an emergency temporary license, an applicant must:

- (1) submit an application in the form prescribed by the Council; and
- (2) submit written verification that the applicant is actively licensed, certified, or registered to practice psychology, marriage and family therapy, professional counseling, or social work in another jurisdiction and that the licensure, certification, or registration is in good standing.

(e) For purposes of subsection (d) of this section, the term "good standing" means there is not current disciplinary action on that out-of-state license, certification, or registration.

(d) (pick up from notebook)

Rationale: §507.153 of the Texas Occupations Code specifically limits review of member board rules by the Texas Behavioral Executive Council only for anti-competitive impacts, administrative consistency, and good governance. As proposed, §881.20 (b) appears to be inconsistent with this statutory requirement. Replacing "must also" with "may only" reinforces and better aligns with the statute as well as legislative intent.
